

Thursday.

Dear Sally and Ken:

Congradulation.

So the stork left a little pink bundle for you. I am so happy for both of you and alas that your misunderstanding has been cleared. Now two of you can look forward to having a happy life, but whatever anybody said the wife has to sacrifice more and must more or less be the goat.

If whenever you kids feel like getting away, come on down here and I will be more than glad to have you, but you must also bring the baby.

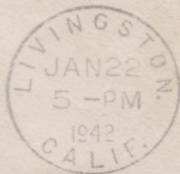

From what Stak wrote I am sure the baby must be a pretty one and no doubt you and Ken are both happy.

We'll must stop now, but hope to hear from you soon.
