DEAR SALLY:

Well, quite a week end all around near N.Y.C. Kay and I did go to Roslyn. Well his opinion was something like Reindge's too. It's all there for the amount of money one is going to pay for it. I went up state - Mt. Vernon yesterday. It's just above the Bronx line. It's quite a cosmopolitan place. I found many empty houses all around. One real Estate man showed me a 14!!! room house in good condition, (no damage but needs just a little cleaning.) for $3,000 he said. Not more than 2 blocks to shopping & trolley line which leads to subway. 4 blocks to railroad line which leads into N.Y.C. I'm going to see if Reindge would go out to see it with me. The house scares me. It's so huge, it couldn't possibly be only that much but I guess it's right because everywhere I go, realtors say that for the amount I want to pay for a house, it's either an old large house, or a small house in poor condition. Most small houses in good condition sell for considerable more.

Well, I'll write more a little later, got to go to work, Love;

Ken.

2. show it to you when I finish all the articles. Some are very good.

I'm getting along better with the chief draftsman now. He is busy so a few odds and ends are left to me to design. eg. Phone table etc. Well, I get a kick out of it. I went on a measuring job today. I took so long they got worried. Well, it was an interesting Company to alter their offices. A decorating Co. doing mostly church work. They had a beautiful wooden Madonna there carved in wood. Very good piece of work. It was a good change.

I haven't talked to Rindge about the huge house in Mt. Vernon. 14 rooms. Gosh! it scares me to buy a house that large even though it would be probably only around $3,000 I wonder what is the matter with it.

I intend to find out more about other empty houses I saw there this Saturday. I will close soon but I think I've been improving right along on the house hunting situation. At least I have found some. The field is improving too. Gosh, it's just that there may be a better house for the same amount you put out, better location etc. Well today is Thursday. I will write soon again.

How are Mike and Spike? Gosh! —

Love,

Kan.

DEAR SALLY:

I went shopping today. Tai + Julie Janji were going to so they took me to about 6 different dept. stores. Gosh! dresses and things are pretty high. We saw a pretty combination sun suit with a cute bolero but it costed about $6<sup>00</sup>. Well, I bought another kind of a dress for $2.80 for Miki. If the size is O.K. let me know. I bought an overall for KITT. I thought you better let me know about the size before I bought another one. As soon as you try it on let me know if it is too small or too large. I will buy another then. I shall buy another dress for Miki. We saw a swell one but we passed it up. These clothes are bought more or less to be used as play suit. Did you want a dressier one. Just let me know. There aren't too much choice this time of the year.

I met Takako Negi. She said that she saw you and the kids in May. She was telling me how so good natured KITT is. We had supper together just talking about all the people we met and where they are now.

I heard from Misumi. His is a swell letter as usual. He is a remarkable man. If he could conquer his body, he would be something now even. Its wonderful to read his letters. He also sent a publication from the sanatorium. He has an article in it too. I will
