Dear Kar;

Well how is the bull-slinger. I guess that you're as sarcastic as usual. You must be getting as fat as a hog or are you. So bad that you're not in the army as they have literally thousands of acres and hundred of barracks to be landscaped. I myself helped the Colonel
landscape our clinic.
It looks O.K. but you must use

ice plants in this desolate sand dunes.
Also, hen & chickens,
Century Plants etc etc.
It had been drizzling here, believe it or not. I am assigned to the Hospital
right now. In case of war I suppose
we are the first
and then, stretcher
bearers, ambulance
drivers, assistant surgeons etc etc. Its most interesting &
educational work.

When I think of the poor fellows in the Penitentiary I cannot but consider
myself fortunate.
The Colonel in charge of the clinic is a most fine gentleman.

He lived in the Hawaiian Isles and says he had some Japanese servants at one time Don't worry son, a great Army is in the making to protect U.S. from any invasion if anyone is a sap enough to

try. With me in the army everything is O.K. By the way I have been having a little more stiff competition in the army when it comes to Bull slinging. Bay Oh Bay some of the sergeants & Corporals
can sure sling it
So long for the time
Mus.
