

Due to busy holiday trade, your wash has been neglected. Also blame April 16, 1930 Jupiter for raining on Monday. Hope to see you Dear Kaw:- at home on Easter

Since the last words you said to me were, "you owe me a letter," I have now faithfully fulfilled your demand. If it was not for my unconditioned self for other tasks which may be more necessary than writing to you, I wouldn't be doing this. Now that I have started, what shall I say, master. At least I can say something about Easter trade. Now what I can see from my inexperienced or untrained eyes. I surmise the bellies are moving. If you desire fuller or more detail facts, please "ask the man who knows it" or "ask dad, he knows".

In your last letter you must have just learned about anything in your Eng. class or some course in Freshmen orientation course on how to study. Any way - give me variety and more elucidation on facts - In other words - adjectives and adverbs in ~~various~~ words, phrases, sentences, and paragraphs are more welcome than bare and naked facts. Probably, for emphasis you resorted to such means as itenization in business form. Anyway for talking or filling space, one must use words, in all flowery language - like I have been rambling. ;but if this letter was submitted to an examination by an honest or sensible person, he would think, what a inconsistent letter and likewise it betrays a similar mind.

Well as long as I am filling up the page with ink hieroglyphics, that's all I care.

Do you remember that in your or I should say in my grammar school days in my autograph book, there was such a rhyme written - thus, poor ink, poor pen, poor paper, poor paper amen - So let it be. Käich 7921 - Krause St.

Oakland, Calif.

Mr. Kavegi Donoh.
Stanford University
California

Box 2366