

September 7-44

Dear Kau:

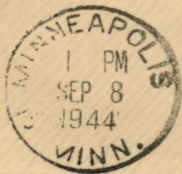

I was sort of surprised to hear from you from N.Y. I hope you haven't moved since. Your work seems to be hard to get but I understand there is a shortage. Of course the jobs will be over when the work is finished etc but if you can get permanent connections with an outfit or a private concern it would be good, wouldn't it. Do you know Shuji Yamamoto - he is in Milwaukee Wisconsin working - don't know what kind of a set up he has but Mor & Nore dropped in on him on their way up to Wisconsin Dells where I spend part of ^{my} vacation with them.

Glad to hear that both Wak and Yuri are out and working. It was good that Wak went out to get business training before I guess she didn't have a hard time landing a job, did she? As for Yuri, she must've had an easy time too. There aren't enough social workers anywhere, it seems.

Are you still out alone or have you been able to call Sally and the kids? From what I hear, NY is a h— if a place to find living accommodations and especially for with children - it must be very difficult or almost impossible, what because of your plans to settle in one of the southern states - or was that especially for your dad. I guess Sally is getting along O.K. in Crystal Lake, isn't he? Mo & Rose haven't been there lately but I think they were there about the time they had their second baby.
I don't know whether Mo has written you or not but he was asking about you when I saw him last.
Goro Omata got married & he has moved to Fort Custer, Mich. & his wife is here in Mpls. There is a Tech. Sgt. now & still teaching.
Mo has been deferred for the time being but doesn't know when that is up. I think being over 26 there is more chance for deferment, isn't there?

Green will close for now - hope every thing is O.K. with you & family.
An enclosing Jamie's letter this time -
Sincerely -
Tays
