

dear kizie: i sent out the written letter and it came back--seems i forgot to put a stamp on the envelope. su was here for easter and it certainly was good to see her. the weather was so bad---and now we seem to have suddenly come into summer---so far, very little spring--so that the trees blossomed all of a sudden and in a few days the petals have fallen off---very strange business. su was in good spirits- -hana spent the weekend with us too, so we had a full house. seems strange that you should have said something about yuri and

a baby----actually its me and a baby this year---after some six years--which doesnt seem like the most sensible thing to do---but its so--due at the beginning of august--eight or something. i've told miki who is so thrilled she's ready to pop---have said nothing to anyo and katie but will soon---have been feeling quite unwell most of the time--but will doubtless survive. i've said nothing until now simply because i didnt want ma and pa to worry ---nothing like picking on the hottest time of the year.

su said you had been sick---hope youre feeling better now. we have had a terrific epidemic of measles but our three seem to be immune---they've been exposed to it so many times and still havent gotten it.

well, enuf for now,

our telephone number has changed---we have dial finally
