

Japanese American Citizens League

Seattle Progressive Citizens League was organized in 1902 to fight anti-Japanese legislation appearing at that time. Because the group were being organized in California and Oregon, its leaders agreed that a national organization of their kind should be formed. The name Japanese American Citizens League was given for this new organization, and because of the prominent part played by Seattle leaders James Sakamoto, Isamu Aoki, and George Ishihara, the First National Convention NACL was held in Seattle in 1930.
