Best B. U. Business Students Are Honored

INITIATED IN BOSTON UNIVERSITY HONORARY SOCIETY.

Sixteen seniors and two juniors of the Boston University College of Business Administration were awarded the highest honor of their training last night, initiation into the honor society, the Delta Mu Delta. Membership to the society is limited to the seventh of the senior class with the highest rank, and to the two juniors with the highest standing.

The initiation, which took place in the academic cap and gown, was followed by a banquet at the college. Dean Everett W. Lord of the College of Business Administration gave the address of the evening in the hall of the University Union, his subject being, "The Hero as a Business Man."

The initiates were Walter E. Amesbury, Frederick A. Ashley, Lawrence A.

Babbitt, Ralph E. Brown, George A. Fellows, David C. Gordon, Ida E. Greenwood, Harold T. Houston, Patrick T. Kennealy, Flora Levin, Horace A. Mann, Edward E. Peterson, Daniel H. Ross, Gentaro Takahashi, Wilfred B. Wells and Katherine M. Whalen. The two juniors are Ernest S. Curtis and Phillip I. Towle.
