Dear Yvri,

A few days ago, we learned that your father had passed away, and we immediately thought, "We must write to Yvri to express your sorrow." We have let some days go by since then, but have nevertheless been thinking of you and feeling for you in your hour of grievance.

We know that any expression of condolence that we may have to offer you will never atone for your great loss or bring ^{back} your loved one. However, it may help for you to know our sincere belief that your father will rest in peace knowing that you, Yvri, are looking ahead and finding your own happiness and niche in this world.

Mother joins us in sending our deepest sympathy to you, your sister, your brothers and their family.

Very sincerely
Kings & Susan Johnston
