Dear Yuri-

Just finished reading the pamphlet you sent me. Know now that 7,620 inmates have 4,545 books to read, 166 days to grow vegetables, and 525 hogs that mind their own business. That there are 50 some odd caucasian teachers (with Civil Service Pay) and 76 evacee instructors that receive $19 a day. (once a month). Don't know for whose eyes it was published for, but to me it sounds more like a Chamber of Commerce rebase. Don't mean to belittle the author, but I wish someone would write what I read between the lines. It's a fad now to write books that have "inside something" as its title. How about "Inside Amaro" or "Inside Granada." Something to let the public really know how it feels to exist - not lie. Something along Richard Wright's "Native Son." Not a cynical theme but one with clear cut thoughts. All this started when I let a nice soldier read the publication (His parents are in one of the centers, but he has never seen one.) He innocently said, "Doesn't sound like a bad place."
