

Mrs. Yuriko Tsuchida
13 Parkman St.
Boston 14, Mass.

Wednesday 7 P.M.

Hello Darling.

Just came home and am dashing off a few lines before dinner. Am upstairs in my room. There is a long cylindrical object in the kitchen which I haven't looked at yet. I think they are the furnaces. no?

Therese. I dropped Margaret a letter early this morning telling her to ^{be} stay with you. I told her that Tomi would cost about 65¢. Also gave her Mrs Santos's telephone number saying that maybe you can meet them at the station or make other arrangements. OK darling? She didn't call me all day.

Had a very dull day at the office. Practically loafed all day.

Am going to see Sarlight tonight with my room mate and maybe Han will go too. First time I'm going to a show here in town - N.R. and N.Y..

How are things coming along dear? Is my arrangement to see you next alright with you? That is, arrange it so that it won't cut into your school work? Do you suppose I could come up on the 5th if I can arrange it like that? I'm going to look around for part time job this Saturday so maybe after that I may be able to come over.

Oh.oh! There goes the Denver call so bye for now sweetheart. If I get in early tonight I'll try to write another letter - a real time letter for two people who love as only we do. Bye darling. all my love and me Lick.