Sunday Sept. 2 - 3 P.M.

Darling,

Your husband is a very sad man as he is sitting around today. For awhile until 6:30 P.M. he thought that rather his wife or Masao would spend the holiday with him. Masao telephoned from Grand Penn. station at closing time and I met him there around 7 P.M.

We took a Staten Island ride, saw the Liberty all lighted up. Came back to eat at Miyako but the place was closed up - we ate in Grand Central station. Came back around 12 P.M.

Today we did nothing but sit around. We were going down to the beach but the weather suddenly turned bad and although it is sunny, it promises rain any moment.

I feel a bit tired and tho' I would like to see her around it's like to see

Today and talk "things" over.

I guess by now I must reluctantly admit to myself that I won't get to see you for several weeks. The wire came Friday morn around 11 P.M. Saturday I got both wires specials from you - one written on Thursday saying you will arrive at 7:45 Penn Station and the other was written shortly after you sent the wire. I guess you will have to wire me the next time because your special came too late for me to meet you at Penn - had you ^{come} ~~come~~.

Ken and Masao each received their big notes. I do not know what were the messages so I guess you can't get any answer to them from me - excepting Masao's note, which I can guess its contents.

Masao is in good condition. He is happy to be out here and loves the greenery and lush countryside. Alexandria where he stays now is near Washington and about 4½ hours from N.Y.

That honey. Tho. I am happy as hell to be able to be with him I still wish that you were with me. I looked forward to spending this holiday together for as long as well as give you a change in atmosphere, that I can't quite fill the gap at the moment.

So I can do nothing but look forward three weeks hence. Yesterday I arranged to exchange ~~with~~ ~~some~~ day off with a fellow who gets off on Monday so I can get Monday off and maybe fix it so that I can take Saturday off. The fact that Bob is going to stay changes the moving story pretty much.

I could not understand clearly what you meant when you wrote "I shall have to ask you to formally apply to have my things sent to me there."
I think you meant W.P.S. things, right honey?
Forgot to say that Ken wants 6 black dining room chairs, 2 Bureau.

Oh honey I miss you as much. I'm doing not now which keeps me on the go and 24

quite enough exercise to sleep well at night but I keep thinking about you and get badly restless. Darling I love you and love you always. We'll be together soon and make up lost time. In the meantime I'll keep walking at the rooms and try to make it breathe and cough.

Darling, I am very disappointed that you did not come - in a selfish way. But when I look at it your way I have no reason to call you for a couple days and cause you to make out of your lost time in the following valuable weeks to come.

Best wish to my patient until 24th.

In love the good night darling and all my love -
your husband
John
