

Air Mail

Mrs. Richard Tsakala

Wednesday

Dear Yuri - I've written Ken tonight to let him know of my vacation plans - I guess I've hurt him a little re my letters. Tell me, does A. still open all mail? I suspect she does, so shall hereafter enclose a note to K. ^{in yours} when I have things for him only. OK? I haven't got butterflies in my stomach yet, but I'm getting a twinge of fear that I will + find myself completely disorganized. Mrs. L. is suppose to be away this weekend; I do hope so; Then I can start packing! She really isn't too bad, may ask her if she'd store my things in her basement. It'll be cheaper + more convenient for me - only drawback is that I'll be subject to her talk of woes, specially if she still has vacancies. I'm not weakening though. An apartment it'll have to be definitely with 2 nephews about. At least I think 2?

Ken tell you about my last letter to him + about

Alice calling Son, twice in one night, since her return from trip to Chicago? T. went to Seattle & wasn't home when letter from Masato arrived = approximate sailing date. I immediately wrote Son, don't let her generosity feed the fattened cows. Alice should have called T, not Son. The silliest excuse!! Oh well, not going to let that bother me now. In many ways I hope I'm not here when M. arrives; a dirty trick on him; but a good lesson to learn early. Recently hit it on the head because Son wrote been asking how'd I guess her plans when she even hadn't said a thing to George. She's agreed to let H + T. sweat it out for awhile; if M's arrival time is inconvenient to them, it's no one's fault but theirs, for not answering M. I'm flying Aug. 20 SF to Tokyo, arriving Sunday. Imagine - it's breathless. Still have so much to do, including getting my finances straightened, that I haven't too much time to think about it. Will on the plane. Please exchange details w/ Ken's as needed. Thanks - Bye - love to all (Checking my wardrobe, find many of your gifts are going = me) Wak. again thanks & love of love

~~If they think of telling 7's~~
