Citizen 13660

Drawings and text by Miné Okubo

This poignantly written and beautifully illustrated memoir of life in a relocation center by a Japanese American woman was first published in 1946 and is now available in a paperback edition with a new preface by the author. By means of her remarkable drawings and simple, straightforward prose, Miné Okubo portrays her experiences from the time of Pearl Harbor until her release from a relocation center in the Utah desert. The keenly observant drawings not only entertain the reader but provide a significant record of Citizen 13660's existence under "protective custody."

"A remarkably objective and vivid and even humorous account. . . . In dramatic and detailed drawings and brief text, she documents the whole episode. . . . Miné was everywhere with her sketch pad, recording all that she saw, objectively, yet with a warmth of understanding."—New York Times Book Review

"Miss Okubo, who considers herself completely American, tells her story with ingenuousness, but there is a certain Oriental subtlety in the illustrations. The captions are written with restraint and humor and seem to depreciate the inconvenience of the camps: the drawings themselves do not minimize them at all."—The New Yorker

"[Miné Okubo] took her months of life in the concentration camp and made it the material for this amusing, heart-breaking book. . . . The moral is never expressed, but the wry pictures and the scanty words make the reader laugh—and if he is an American too—sometimes blush."—Pearl Buck

We tagged our baggage with the family number, 13660, and pinned the personal tags on ourselves; we were ready at last.

We had to make friends with the wild creatures in the camp, especially the spiders, mice, and rats, because we were outnumbered.

Women, from grandmothers to toddlers, wore slacks or jeans.
