Dear Mr. Donoto,

I'm enclosing the thanks of Emi and her classmates for your visit to our class last week. It was a very important and special moment for us all and we are very grateful to you for coming. Your own experiences made the history real.

Your visit also gave me the opportunity to encourage everyone to talk with grandparents and friends in order to share their history and carry it forward.

Best wishes,

Linda Kaufman

Dear Mr. Domoto,

Thank you very much for speaking to our class on Tuesday morning. I learned a lot ~~of~~ about that period of history, I believe that you can learn so much more just by listening to someone who lived an experience, rather than reading ^{about it} ~~it~~ from a textbook. Thank you once again.

Sincerely,
Alan Rily

Dear Mr. Domoto,

Thank you so much for coming in to talk to our class about your experience at the isolation camp in Colorado and about your overall experience as a Japanese American. You really brought to life the book "Farewell to Manzanar." We must not forget the history that has taken place in this country or we're doomed to repeat it again. Your story will live on in all of our memories. Once again I want to thank you for your effort.

Sincerely,
Katerina Potter

Dear Mr. Gomoto,

Thank you so much for taking the time to come and speak with us on Tuesday. It was fascinating to hear your firsthand account of your experiences. Thank you very, very much for helping us learn more about a part of our history that most people are unaware of.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Domoto,

I wanted to thank you for taking your time to tell us about your experience in the Japanese camps. I found it extremely interesting to hear about your experience because I never really knew that much about them before. The detail that you used in describing them really gave me a true picture of what your experience was like and I just wanted to thank you again for taking your time to talk to us.

Thanks,

DEAR Mr. Donato,

I thank you on the behalf of my class for your oral presentations about the CAMPS. I especially enjoyed you sharing your stories and own experiences from your time at the internment CAMPS.

Thanks,

Dear Mr. Domoto,

I must express my appreciation for your visit. I had never met another person who had been to the holding camps. I am convinced that your visit was truly a once in a lifetime experience. By educating us, the upcoming generation, of our country's mistakes, hopefully we will take your story into consideration when we lead the country. Through your visit, a whole new aspect of United States history has opened up to me. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr Domoto,

Thank you for visiting our class on Tuesday. I really enjoyed your stories about the Japanese experience in the 1940's. This was a topic I did not know a whole lot about, and it was very interesting to find out more. Thanks again.

Dear Mr. Domoto,

Thanks for coming in and talking to our class about your experiences in the internment camps. It is always great when you get to meet someone who is a part of history which we have read about, and this doesn't usually happen. Your memory and your sharing your story with us has kept history alive and surely this part of history will never be forgotten because of you.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Domoto,

Thank you so much for coming to our history class yesterday to talk to us about your experiences in The Japanese relocation camps. I had enjoyed reading Farwell to Manzanar the night before, but hearing about your personal experiences made this period in history seem much ~~more~~ relevant. It was interesting for me to hear your reactions to the situation and to imagine myself in your place. I do not think I could be as accepting as you seem when remembering what you were forced to do. I think that there a lot of people in the world today who know absolutely nothing about what happened to Japanese - Americans during WWII. Thank you for sharing your story with us.

Sincerely,
Liz Kukur

Dear Mr. Domoto,

Thankyou for taking the train trip up from New York to visit my class yesterday. I enjoyed hearing about your personal experiences, before, after and during the time you spent in the Japanese relocation camps. Your presence gave the topic a real feeling, and made many of my classmates more aware of what actually happened in the 1940's. Once again thankyou - too bad you didn't get to show your photos.

Dear Mr. Donato,

I wanted to thank you for taking the time to come and talk to us about the experience of living and participating in a Japanese Internment Camp.

I was particularly struck when you talked about your respect for the president. Before you came I assumed you would feel a need for an apology by the U.S. or the Government.

It is wonderful that you help us learn about history in its real sense - from actual experiences. I knew very little about Japanese camps in World War two before this time.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Domoto,

I wanted to thank you for coming and speaking to our class about your experience in the Japanese camps. While it is disturbing, I was very interested in learning about them. Having someone who has actually been through the camps made them all the more interesting to hear about because it is more personable. I was really struck by your description of the sanitation and communal showers, and the dust storms. I never knew anything about Japanese camps before and now I plan to learn more. Thanks again for coming. I really enjoyed it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Gilmore
