Dear friend Clarence:

The bearer of this letter is a good friend of mine, and is leaving his drug store business here in Seattle to go east to comply with government regulations during the emergency.

Seattle is a sport fisherman's paradise and I and George have enjoyed many trips on the salt water in Puget Sound. As a loyal friend I know of no one better than the bearer of this letter, George Tokuda.

If you can be of any assistance in directing him, it will be highly appreciated by him. I hope George gets far enough east to contact you as I would be pleased to hear from you.

Yours truly,
Elmer Feathers.
