

MENNETH ZYEKI

This is the Tanferan music school which prior to evacuation served the race-track fans as a refreshment house. At all hours, the sounds of pianos and violins would sound forth from every window. Every so often, a music concert would be held, and the edifice would be jammed every time. The war was not much to do in camp and practically every program was strongly supported.