

Tuesday night

Dearest Keni -

Wrote you this AM but since P is asleep I thought I'd write again - hope she doesn't awaken. Have my fingers crossed.

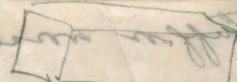

Now about making a fence for P's bed - the present day bed. I can make a waterproof mattress cover for it for the rollaway or anyone we choose to thus convert. It's up to you. Let's have it in our room or the alcove near it. Or in another room like the one maids occupied or anywhere. The swell idea I mean is that the fence swings open like a gate when the bed is being made - see cover picture of American Home as I remember it, in predominant yellow - & the directions etc are inside that same copy & I believe I had it packed with freight. So will you look it up, honey? Discuss it with Mr. Kikuchi who is an expert on furniture & toy & rocking chairs etc make a wooden furniture & etc look like kid stuff or worse.

The idea is such that material seems easy to get & also very simple to make that even I would attempt it - it's like a garden gate I remember - sort of with flowers painted on it - you need other things for the room too. If possible let her sleep in her own room. The little new one can share ours a while. A box will do for a while but we'll need to have a crib, sooner or later. Second hand is OK. Anything will do.

Let's figure for now I'll go back after Jan OK & the baby OK to travel - after I have surgery done, etc. If I can hire someone that'll be cheaper than having you leave your job - you may lose it - no? If after I get going & it isn't easy for me here, shall I try & stay or no while, unless it gets cold - in order to enable you to save that much more. How does it look from there - will the kids stay in bed - I'd rather have them than a lot of any old kind. What do you think? Crowds of people being entertained in the living room won't be good - unless our friends - and the Fiction was to do such a thing. Such events will be often and inevitable, because occasions have just got to happen as they are good occasions for enjoying - especially a reunion in the old home town - not way out East where circumstance has shown them together.

Dear Mr. [Name], your plan, what Cheese Bits made by Uneda Biscuit Co in 6 boxes 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 x 6 long actual size, yellow, smell cheesy - P. is crazy about 'em. She nearly ate all of Larry Toji Ja's until he poor kid said "no more!" and when I asked Mrs. Diggins to get some too. she went to the Canteen, I recognized the box + yelled. I try to ration them but no go - please get 5-6 boxes - or cheese crackers - little 3/4" squares or any thing similar testing + have one of the men bring them back. Not too many but enough, please. One to the limit per customer at the Canteen if they have 'em + this has been the last time. Grocers, Safeways, etc should have 'em. Go over on Carl + Stanley or Fred + Willard etc they're the sort of places for 'em - any kind of cheese cracker's O.K. I've asked Mrs. Fiction to see if she can buy me 1 yd. pieces of material for P's dresses. She'll really need 'em soon as it'll be hot + sunny + she'll change 2-3x's a day of the plays in the dirt + wets. If she's busy, will you get 'em? Read her letter I've enclosed + yours for directions - in previous letter. Love, Tom
