Thursday

Here we are between trains at the station in Omaha. We had 3 hrs. wait, so we ate lightly & walked around town. Commercial enterprise & monopoly being what it is, nearly every city looks pretty much alike because Walgreen's, JC Penney, Montg. Ward, Woolworth's, etc are the same as anywhere else. There are surrounded by dress shops & eating places, etc like every other town. We haven't seen anything sensational yet, but we did pass by "Boys' Town" an orphanage village that is famous. The bus driver announced it, when we went by. Travel is very convenient, & we see children & babies of all ages. At 5:15 we board a bus to Kansas City & from there, we'll go to St. Louis, reaching tomorrow (Fri) noon. Wrote Denver not coming.
