We Hereby Refuse Book Event on June 14

We Hereby Refuse is a new graphic novel from authors Frank Abe and Tamiko Nimura, with illustrations by Ross Ishikawa and Matt Sasaki. Japanese Americans complied when evicted from their homes in World War II -- but many refused to submit to imprisonment in American concentration camps without a fight. Based upon painstaking research, We Hereby Refuse presents an original vision of America's past with disturbing links to the American present. Join Elliott Bay Book Company, Seattle Public Library Foundation, The Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific American Experience, and Densho on June 14 for a book event featuring Frank Abe, Tamiko Namura, and Ross Ishikawa in conversation with Tom Ikeda.

Oral History Spotlight: Reacting to the "loyalty questionnaire" and resisting the draft

Hiroshi Kashiwagi, one of the three protagonists of We Hereby Refuse, was in Tule Lake during WWII and joined other Japanese Americans in resisting the draft and renouncing his US citizenship in protest of the unjust removal and incarceration. In this clip, he describes his reaction to the "loyalty questionnaire" and making the decision to resist the draft.

Support the Amache National Historic Site Act

Join us in supporting the Amache National Historic Site Act. The Granada Relocation Center in Colorado, better known as Amache, was the site of incarceration for 7,500 Japanese Americans during WWII. Our parks have the power to fill in the gaps of our history that are deliberately or carelessly forgotten. What happened to the people incarcerated at Amache is an American story that must not be forgotten. A new national park site would be one of the most powerful ways to preserve and protect the stories of Amache. Please tell Congress to support this important park bill! Take action with National Parks Conservation Association today.
