Dear Mike:

Thank you for that nice picture of your dad. I like it, too. I was trying to figure when it was taken.

Yesterday when I was trying to straighten my apartment, I reread your group letter and realized I had missed the last sentence, i.e., "Remember to plan a party for May..." I wish I were up to such happy activities but this past winter hasn't been the best for me. All the medical tests I had in December, fortunately, proved OK; have to watch my weight, and have to get myself "back on my feet". On Feb. 3, I sprained my ankle - jumped up to catch the phone. Stupid! Stupid!

I started to go down for my meals about ten days ago and started to go for my appointments this week - Monday radiology; Tues, hairdressers, Wed. - had breakfast with a friend who took me food shopping. (Alas, I'm feeling like the "old grey mare.")

Sorry, I know I won't be able to do any planning for anything. And unfortunately Donna Kishi, my usual designer and director, is having problems with her diabetes so I can't depend on her. We both hope to make Kise's graduation in Stockton in May.

I apologize for not writing sooner.

Sorry,

Auntie Wak
