He will be here tomorrow

Quite frankly, I'm afraid that your very first letter to me - the one in which Mr. Cashman recommended you put the reservation about Japanese citizenship - has turned up in the War Department files. I shall describe the whole episode in my letter to Taylor, with the idea of having it reach the War Department people.

Meanwhile, I hardly know what to suggest. I feel terribly responsible for your unhappy position.
Even more important I don't want to lose your invaluable services to the war effort. You'll have to let me explore some ideas first. Perhaps you had better ask Mr. Cashman if he has anything to offer.

I'll report whatever I can as soon as possible.
Best wishes to Ryo and the baby - And do address me as Jack - I feel like a stranger when you don't. - Yours Jack

My dear Ai-chi -

Your letter was quite a shock and disappointment. Today I began to compose a letter which I shall address to Mr. J. Taylor Deputy Director for the Far East, OWI, a copy of which I shall send you. He will be here tomorrow and I can talk it over with him.
