Dear Mom and Pop,

Because of the Christmas rush, ^{no} none in Service Company received any letters for a couple of days. I'll just have to wait. I'm holding on to the watch for a while until the rush is over because it might get broken. I'm sending you the musical alarm clock because it won't wake me up. This morning I slept until 7:00 AM when I should have been starting at 6:00 AM.

I'm kept pretty busy these days. Sometimes in the mornings I don't have time to wash up until around 11:00 AM.

Give my regards to everybody and tell Jimmy and Oji-san and A-fusan thanks for the gifts. This time I'm not kidding. I just don't have time to write.

I hope you Yatake is home by now. I should think Bob should be there now too.

It's supposed to be a holiday today because of yesterday but it's just another day for me.

The captain was laughing at me today. He says I use his jeep more than he does. Well, that's not a lie. I'm running around here and there all day.

I'm learning how to run a movie projector on the side. Just in case the operator gets sick I could take over. It's a lot of fun. We have movies three nights a week.

Well, I hope you're getting along O.K. with your job.

This is about all for now so more farewell
