Dear Mom and Pop,

Here it is, the day after Christmas. We went to a movie last night. It was a pretty good picture. Mail hasn't been coming in in for a long time now. I hope it comes here soon. All the boys are complaining about it.

We had nice weather yesterday and it's the same today. I hope it keeps up this way. It's still pretty cold in the mornings, though.

When we were at Rome the other day, we ate in a Italian cafe. Since it was Christmas the people had ravioli. We all ordered the ravioli and then we had steak with mushrooms and french fried potatoes. When we called for the bill, it was 26 dollars for the four of us. We sure was surprised but we had to pay it because we ate the food all ready.

Well, how is everything in San Francisco? Are you getting along OK at the new place?

You should be getting those packages I sent you pretty soon. Be sure to let me know when you receive them.

Well, this is about all for today so I'll write more tomorrow,

Jad
