

UNION ACCUSES LAKE SHIPYARD

A charge of discrimination because of union activities is to be filed with the National Labor Relations Board against Lake Washington Shipyards by the Seattle Metal Trades Council, I. A. Sandvigen, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, Local 79, said today.

The charge is understood to be an outgrowth of a labor dispute involving a shop steward at the shipyard. An arbitration board recently decided the case in favor of L. W. S.

Favoritism Denied
Shipyard officials denied discrimination.

"In the case of the shop steward, the decision was rendered by a three-man arbitration board, two of whom were labor men," a spokesman for the company said. "We feel the decision of the board should be respected."

"If this proposed charge relates to other cases, we have not been advised of them. We never have interfered with the legitimate rights of any shop steward."

Sandvigen said his union repeatedly has asked for a conference with the shipyard management to discuss activities of the Shop Stewards' Council, and that such a conference has been refused.

Council Not Recognized
The company spokesman replied that on November 16 the Metal Trades Council had advised the shipyard that it did not recognize the Shop Stewards' Council.

"The Metal Trades Council subsequently extended its recognition, however," the spokesman continued. "The yard has not refused to discuss any grievance brought before it. The only thing denied the Shop Stewards' Council has been the privilege of meeting on company time. This is standard practice in all shipyards in this area."

Gas Board Aide, More Than 80, Wins Honor Pin

Dignified and gracious, Miss Cora Caverno, past 80 years old, stepped forward at a tea in the Ballard War Price and Rationing Board yesterday afternoon to receive the highest Office of Price Administration Award—2000 honor pin for more than 2,000 voluntary hours working on the gasoline panel of her rationing board.

Miss Caverno, who lives at 2315 Viewmont Way, already wore on her lapel a button for 1,500 hours of volunteer service with the Red Cross.

"It's a great privilege to be a volunteer," said Miss Caverno. "That's the way you get to see how your government works, how it steadies the country. I don't need a medal. I appreciate being able to be part of the great work the government is doing."

At the tea, Dwight S. Hawley, chairman of the Ballard board, awarded 36 scrolls to volunteer workers "for meritorious service" of from 50 to 1,000 hours and presented pins to 19 members of the board. Since the board was established two years ago in January, the 55 volunteer workers accounted for approximately 40,000 hours of service.

Second high light of the afternoon was the nomination of Chairman Hawley as the "greatest inspiration" for the volunteer workers. Prof. O. E. Draper of the University of Washington College of Economics and Business, chairman of the board, gallantly presented Hawley with his own scroll and almost left the tea with the inspiration award intended for the chairman under his arm.

Mrs. Frederick C. Fraser, 8701 12th Ave. N. W., supervisor of volunteers for the board, arranged the tea to acquaint the workers, who serve on different days, with each other. Board offices are at 5307 Ballard Ave.

RETURN OF JAPS URGED BY MYER

SALT LAKE CITY, March 23.—(AP)—Dillon S. Myer, director of the War Relocation Authority, asserted today that when the military situation permits "there can be no question" that Japanese-Americans moved from the Pacific Coast states "should have the right to go back to their former homes if they choose to do so."

"There are groups on the West Coast," Myer said in an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting of Salt Lake City Civic Clubs, "who have been campaigning for months to stir up sentiment to keep the evacuees permanently excluded from their former homes."

"The plague of intolerance which they have fostered has spread into other areas; well-organized efforts undoubtedly will be made to spread it still further. The efforts will be carefully disguised in the cloak of patriotism."

"I find it hard to believe that the American people will tolerate for very long the fostering of hatred for fellow Americans and the destruction of American ideals when their sons are giving their lives to protect those ideals."

F. C. C.'s Chief Denies Blocking Army's Radios

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Chairman James L. Fly of the Federal Communications Commission today charged made before a congressional committee that he delayed the Army's establishment of miniature broadcasting stations in Alaska.

"At no time did I have any doubt that Alaska needed the service," Fly testified before the special House committee investigating F. C. C. "I not only knew that it needed the service, but did everything I could to see that it got it."

Replying to a long list of accusations made against the F. C. C. by Eugene Garey, committee attorney who resigned as counsel for the investigation recently, Fly said the Army planned to use the small stations to maintain the morale of isolated garrisons.

Wallgren May Tell Plans at Caucus

Democratic members of the Washington Legislature, except those who voted with the Republicans in limiting the program of the recent special session to the enactment of a soldier-vote bill, have been invited to attend a caucus Sunday at 2 o'clock. Representatives H. C. Armstrong, leader of the House majority, said today.

Senator Mon C. Wallgren will attend and is expected to announce whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Armstrong said that the main reason for the caucus was to replace Democratic legislators who voted with the Republicans, with candidates who would be guided by the rules of the Democratic caucus.

Prisoners Buy Bonds, Give Blood

TRENTON, N. J., March 23.—(AP)—Viewpoint, bi-monthly magazine published by the inmates of New Jersey state prison, said today that a survey of 160 penal institutions in the country showed that prisoners had purchased $2,598,930 worth of war bonds and contributed 44,635 pints of blood to the Red Cross as of December 31, 1943.

Questionnaires were sent to 293 institutions, but 133 had not answered by the time the magazine went to press, the Viewpoint editors said.

Two Officers Forced Her To Sell Automobile

—Woman Charges

SPOKANE, March 23.—(AP)—A former Red Cross worker, suing to recover her automobile or $500 in damages, testified in Superior Court yesterday that a city police officer and State Patrol sergeant forced her to sell her car for $500 less than it was worth.

The plaintiff, Miss Louise Knowlton, formerly of Caldwell, Idaho, is suing Police Sgt. Harrison W. Cox. She testified Cox and Sgt. Richard Cashatt of the State Patrol forced her to sell the car to Cox for $550 after she was arrested on a negligent-driving charge last July.

Miss Knowlton told Judge R. M. Webster the officers informed her that if she did not sell the car they would see that she was fired from her job, that she would receive no more gasoline for the duration of the war and would have her driver's license revoked.

Miss Knowlton said she now is employed at the Army Air Depot here.

Cashatt testified Miss Knowlton sold the car voluntarily and received a fair price for it.

Victim's Mother Testifies In Lonergan Case

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Nervously fingering a pair of spectacles, a gray-haired, soft-spoken governess told at Wayne Lonergan's murder trial today how she slept undisturbed throughout the night that the Royal Canadian Air Force aircraftman's heiress wife was battered and strangled in a room not far from her.

The governess, Miss Elizabeth Black, testified she retired about 10:30 p. m., and had closed the door to her room. She heard no noises, she said.

The witness earlier had related how Marine Capt. Peter Elser broke in a door and discovered the body of Patricia Lonergan in an ornate mahogany and bronze bed. Elser had arrived at the fashionable apartment late in the afternoon last October 24 after a telephone conversation with the victim's mother, Mrs. Lucille Burton, the witness said.

Mrs. Burton, called to the stand, calmly described how Captain Elser broke in the door after "we knocked and knocked but got no answer."

Wearing a mink coat, black dress and pearl necklace, the victim's mother did not look at Lonergan. Her testimony was brief and there was no cross-examination.
