Maynor Wins Plaudits Of Moore Crowd

By RICHARD E. HAYS Dorothy Maynor, singing better than in any of her previous appearances in Seattle, won fervent acclaim from an audience that filled the Moore Theatre last night.

Her rendition of "Chloe" can best be described in terms of colossal, gigantic and stupendous. There's no doubt about the fact she "feels" the moving song. In turn, her version of it produced a spine-ticking effect on this part of her audience.

Miss Maynor captured her audience at the offset with her beautiful singing of two Handel songs, Gismunda's aria from "Ottoene," and Rodelinda's aria from "Rodelinda."

With Mrs. Olive Tegmeier at a private screening on The Row Saturday night, were Mrs. Malcolm Douglas and her daughter, Jean McIntock. Malcolm Douglas is a colonel in the Army in Paris, and McIntock is in Italy with the Army ski troops.

Valaida Snow Tops New Bill At Palomar

This week's billing at the Palomar Theatre introduces Valaida Snow as "A Girl and a Trumpet." The billboards might better read: "A Sensation."

Her rendition of "Chloe" can best be described in terms of colossal, gigantic and stupendous. There's no doubt about the fact she "feels" the moving song. In turn, her version of it produced a spine-ticking effect on this part of her audience.

Miss Snow sang five numbers, which, judging by audience reaction, could have continued far into the night. Included were "I've Got Swing For Sale," "Sleigh Ride in July," "Chloe," "St. Louis Blues" and "Can't Give You Anything But Love."

With Mrs. Olive Tegmeier at a private screening on The Row Saturday night, were Mrs. Malcolm Douglas and her daughter, Jean McIntock. Malcolm Douglas is a colonel in the Army in Paris, and McIntock is in Italy with the Army ski troops.

ity with her trumpet selections, playing in a completely masculine manner.

In comparison, the four other acts of this week's bill are only average... and some are even worse. Ray Mayer accompanies singer Edith Evans in a sticky-sweet, peppy style; Bob Sharpe gives out with a little magic; the Southern Sisters do some acrobatic dancing, and master of ceremonies, Marvin Boone, dances rather well.
