

20,000 TO MARCH IN V. F. W. PARADE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Youngsters of the recent World War and their older predecessors will march down Euclid Avenue today in the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars parade, and officials said it might last six hours.

About 20,000 were expected to march, with some 60 drum corps and bands dispersed among the units.

Despite the lengthy parade, business sessions continued and one of the most important issues under consideration—housing—already had received committee action.

This was the report on the controversial Taft-Eliander-Wagner Bill, which the housing committee, after four days' study, finally approved—with a few amendments.

The most important qualification, reported Chairman James Murphy of Minneapolis, was that the program "be made available for private ownership not later than 15 years after passage of the act."

The resolution still requires rank-and-file approval. Last night, the V. F. W.'s retiring commander, Louis E. Starr of Portland, Or., asked President Truman in a radio talk to call a special congressional session to grant funds to rebuild the armed forces and mobilize the aircraft industry.

In line with Starr's call for bolstering the nation's war potential, the encampment committee on national security recommended passage of these resolutions:

Adoption of military training. Setting up a plan for mobilization in event of an emergency. Return of atomic-energy control to the military.

BELLEVUE SEWER PLAN PROTESTED

Vigorous opposition to the proposed Bellevue sewer district by residents of outlying areas in the proposed district was voiced today at a jam-packed meeting of the Board of King County Commissioners.

Speaking in behalf of the proposed sewer district, Harry F. Palmerston, chairman of the Overlake Sanitation Committee, said many areas within the proposed district "are terribly polluted and we have been warned that unless we install proper sewerage we will have an epidemic."

Petitions containing the signatures of hundreds of Medina, Beaux Arts, Enetai, Hunts Point, Yarrow and Evergreen Point residents were presented to the commissioners in opposition to the district.

Japanese-Americans Ordered Set Free

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—More than 350 Japanese-Americans, whom the government wants sent back to Japan because they renounced their citizenship during the war, were ordered freed today in Texas and New Jersey by a Federal District Judge here. The government immediately filed notices of appeal.

The 365 Japanese-Americans were the last of approximately 1,500 freed under similar circumstances. In addition, others have been deported to Japan.

Judge Louis E. Goodman, who issued today's order, had pointed out in a ruling on other such cases that even if the Japanese-Americans had renounced their citizenship they still were not Japanese.

KEEP MUSEUM'S PRESENT NAME

—Fullers Urge

A plea not to change the name of the Seattle Art Museum so as to bear the family name was filed with the City council today by Dr. Richard E. Fuller, president and director of the institution, on behalf of his mother, Mrs. Margaret E. Fuller, and himself.

The Fullers gave the funds for the museum's construction and turned it over to the city in 1932.

The letter was received before the Council was to adopt a resolution lauding the "unparalleled generosity" of the Fullers for giving to the city an institution described as "one of the outstanding museums in the world, both in the external and internal beauty of the structure, and in the rare quality of its collections."

Last week Councilman Alfred R. Rochester suggested that the museum's name be changed to honor Dr. Fuller and his mother. Today's resolution, however, made no mention of such a change.

Dr. Fuller emphasized that he and his mother always have wished the museum to be a civic organization "and not merely a family museum."

He warned, however, that the museum's present income from memberships and other sources is inadequate.

The museum president said that if the museum, in the near future, "does not have the generous voluntary support of new members," it may have to ask for more municipal financial support.

Mrs. F. F. Powell, chairman of the Council's museum committee, today pointed out that of the museum's 1946 expenses of $42,000, only $14,000 came from city sources.

"This splendid institution, which has brought so much favorable attention to Seattle, is being supported by our citizens to anywhere near the extent it deserves," she said.

Today's resolution pointed out that the Fullers are planning a $30,000 addition to the museum.

Tons of Meat From Europe Seized by U.S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Seizure of tons of meat being brought into the United States by airplane and ship passengers from food-scarce European countries was disclosed today by an official of the Inspection Department of the Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Truman W. Cole, inspector in charge of the International Inspection Bureau of Animal Industry, said the seizure began June 7, and were being made to prevent spread of rinderpest and hoof-and-mouth disease.

An official estimated the seizures amounted to 200 to 300 pounds daily at La Guardia Airport and up to two tons per ship arriving in the New York harbor.

Cole said the meat was brought mostly from the Mediterranean area. He said many of those passengers bringing the meat were under the impression there was no meat in the United States.

The meat usually was salami, ham and a "mixture for which there is no name," Cole said not all of it was spoiled, but that all had to be destroyed as a precaution.
