WESTLAKE BOULEVARD PICK-UP ONE OWNER

With practically 18,000 SQUARE FEET of ground with streets on all sides, finds himself in a position where READY MONEY must be had within a few days, in order to carry out another proposition. He knows that the Street Car Company is starting to lay tracks on Pine, also that there are a number of operators busily engaged trying to secure options on property in the immediate vicinity. This will be sold on exceptionally easy terms, and at a price that should show a profit of $75,000 before the end of this year. You cannot help but recognize the fact that possibly without an exception there is not another street in Seattle, considering the prices of property, that has greater profits to store in the near future than Westlake Blvd., the one artery where traffic must travel in order to reach Fremont, Ballard, Green Lake and University sections. JAPANESE GIRLS TO ENTERTAIN AT A-Y-P FAIR

Ten Tiny Maidens Who Helped While Away Hours for Admiral Sperry's Officers in Tokyo Coming to Seattle.

TEA GARDEN AFTERNOONS TO BE FEATURE OF SHOW

Representative of Nippon Exporters' Association Arranges for Appearance of Daughters of Far East.

TEN tiny maidens from Japan—daughters of the most aristocratic families of ancient Nippon—who assisted in recently receiving Admiral Sperry and the officers of the Atlantic battleship fleet when they touched the shores of the United States, will help in entertaining the visitors from all over the world to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. These ten maidens range in age from 16 to 22 years and each and every one is said to be a characteristic type of feminine beauty of the most attractive Oriental character. The ten tiny maidens have agreed to visit these shores, and from the land of cherry blossoms and the Rising Sun they will bring a message of good will to the people of the United States and to the visitors to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition from every clime. Arrangements for the appearance here of the ten Japanese girls who served tea to Admiral Sperry and his officers during their famous visit to Japan, were made by M. Hashigawa, a heavy stockholder and director of the Japanese Tea Exporters' Association, who spent several days in Seattle last week. Prominent in the Orient at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition will be a Japanese tea garden which will be conducted by the Japanese Tea Exporters' Association, and the ten young Japanese girls who formed a galaxy of beauty in a picture never to be forgotten by the officers of the battleship fleet, will do the honors in Seattle in 1909. C. T. Takahashi, president of the Seattle Japanese Association, said yesterday that on Mr. Hashigawa's visit here arrangements had been completed for the visit to Seattle of the ten tiny Japanese girls who made such a social hit during Admiral Sperry's visit to Japan.

BLACKLIST VERDICT STANDS

Judge Wilson R. Gay Refuses New Trial to Western Union Telegraph Company in Case of W. J. O'Brien.

The Western Union Telegraph Company was yesterday denied new trial in the suit of W. J. O'Brien, who was awarded a verdict of $1,200 damages on account of being blacklisted by the company and kept out of employment for a year, when Judge Wilson R. Gay ruled that the verdict was not excessive. Attorney Thomas B. MacMahon, representing O'Brien, argued that his client had been kept out of employment for a year by the Western Union and that the verdict should stand as compensation for the wages lost.

EX-HARVARD FOOTBALL CAPTAIN MAY BE DYING

NEW YORK, Saturday, Jan. 30.—Friends of "Frank" Taylor, captain of the Harvard football team, millionaire stock broker and husband of the beautiful Florence Taylor, yesterday are mystified by reports that he is dying at his town home from an unknown ailment which began with pains in the throat glands. He has been under treatment for months but has not shown the medical skill of two continents, but it was not until recently that the former Harvard football captain's condition became critical. Tonight four of the physicians added mystery to the case by making known the results of their diagnosis.

CHAMPAGNE POPULAR IN SEATTLE

Figures Show That in This City One-Eighth as Much Wine Was Consumed New Year's Eve as in New York.

A little more than eight times as much champagne was consumed in New York on New Year's Eve as in Seattle, according to figures obtained by the Seattle Times from the principal hotels and cafes on the last night of 1908. There were consumed 40,894 quarts of the sparkling wine. Its estimated cost was $238,188, and a majority of it was of a vintage that cost an average of 57 cents a quart. In Seattle, according to figures gathered up by the Seattle Times, the wine was consumed that evening at the rate of $5 a quart, an estimated cost of $25,000. Seattle's population is a little more than thirteen times the population of New York, so it will be seen that more champagne was consumed in Seattle on New Year's Eve than in New York, according to population. At Delmonico's restaurant, New York, more champagne was consumed than at any other hotel visited. Here, according to the figures taken from the stock book of the wine cellar, 4,200 quarts of the sparkling wine were sold in the course of the evening and night, and that the majority of this champagne was of a vintage which sold at anywhere from $5 to $10 a quart, and as the average price received was $7 a quart, the receipts for champagne at this hotel alone amounted up to $28,000. At the Cafe de la Paix, 8,000 quarts of champagne were consumed. The amount of wine sold at other hotels and restaurants, according to figures which the respective managers declared were official, are as follows: Plaza, 2,000 quarts; St. Regis, 900 quarts; Waldorf-Astoria, 8,000 quarts; Hotel Manhattan, 600 quarts; Hotel Astor, 3,000 quarts; Knickerbocker, 2,732 quarts; Cadillac, 1,250 quarts; Marlborough, 600 quarts; Breslin, 600 quarts; Ritz, 2,000 quarts; New Grand, 200 quarts; Victoria, 200 quarts; Martineau, 500 quarts; Shanley's (Broadway), 500 quarts; Street, 3,112 quarts; Rector, 2,300 quarts; Healey's, 1,250 quarts; Reisenweber's, 1,000 quarts; Murray's, 400 quarts; Keene's, 1,000 quarts; The Hotel St. Louis, about 200 quarts; Cafe Beaux Arts, 2,300 quarts; Jack's, 1,500 quarts; Burns', 600 quarts; and other hotels, 20 quarts. Inquiries at Delmonico's and Sherry's elicited the information that while there were many dinner and supper parties at each of these places, yet the wine consumed was no heavier, proportionately, that night than on other occasions.

PEABODY TENEMENTS ENVY OF RICH

Buildings Erected by Munificence of Boston Philanthropist Form Colony of Best in London.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 30.—Americans in London often take a trip to the Peabody tenements, erected through the munificence of George Peabody, the Boston millionaire, and have adopted his comfortable appearance and pleasant surroundings. A small number of the tenants of the Peabody tenements are against what they regard as the tyranny of the Peabody trustees and their resident superintendents, but at the beginning of the year they have aroused the jealousy of sleepless millionaires who yearn for homes where one may repose soundly at will. For on learning that pianoforte playing after the forbidden hour in the colony of tenements so pleasantly situated in Rosendale road, Herne Hill, quite near the city, would be a few yards from rural Brockwell Park, inquiries for vacancies, which at present are few, are being made by numerous well-to-do and even wealthy occupants of less favored blocks of flats. The superintendent of the Peabody buildings at Herne Hill, which by reason of his zealous and even rigorous enforcement of the rules, has become an excited envy in the breasts of countless aristocrats and luxury lovers, has a very peculiar attitude in the matter of pianos. As an ex-occupant and coroner's officer he knows the result of the law in the minds of persistent and heartless piano players. "Many of our tenants must get up at 4 or 5 in the morning," he said, "and if they do not get up at 4 or 5 in the morning, they go to bed every night at 9 or 10 o'clock. I have to listen to comic songs or 'practicing' till midnight. They are making earnings are mostly low, there are many pianos in these buildings. Obtained on the premises and broken at 10 p. m., or rather the trustees employ me to do so, as the latest time for piano playing is in the interest of the great majority. Christmas an Exception. "At Christmas time, or when somebody has a little party, exception can be made. But it isn't reasonable that a railway man, for instance, who perhaps gets up at 4 o'clock, should play the corneopon or the oboe for an hour before starting out to work. The tenants who do this are the worst meeting last week only found fault with me for carrying out the rules of the trustees and the superintendent met a deputation of them to discuss their grievances. "If only 'Peabody rules' could be introduced here," said the tenant of a flat in Marlborough for which he pays $600 a year, "I would not be in the least trying to sleep till after midnight, though I have to breakfast at 7:30 a. m. For besides the ringing of many pianos, there are violins and gramophones and vocalists innumerable who make the night agonizing for the small party." Rents Extremely Low. The Peabody trust, pioneer and champion of cheap and pleasant tenements for the poor, especially welcomes married people with families. Rents at the Herne Hill buildings are $1.35 a week for two rooms, are not allowed, indoors or on the open air, except in the case of a dramatic regulation against "tipsters, rounders, cricket, or football" being played in the streets. Millionaires, who must dwell sometimes in the London area, might well look at the Peabody tenements. Motor cars continually whirl and motor horns restlessly honk-honk all the long night through the streets. Section of Peabody buildings, Herne Hill. Physicians will soon be recommending a rest cure for the Peabody tenement alternative to the Engadine or Biarritz.

CHAMPAGNE POPULAR IN SEATTLE

Figures Show That in This City One-Eighth as Much Wine Was Consumed New Year's Eve as in New York.

UNLESS America fosters and encourages trade and technical departments in connection with the public schools, also the apprentice system as in Germany, B. W. Johnson, head of the manual training department of the Seattle schools, fears that she will lose ground in the world of skilled labor. Mr. Johnson returned from Europe yesterday where he went with a delegation of school teachers last fall to investigate the systems in vogue abroad and to gather such information as may be of value to the world of education in Seattle. Even the art of brewing is taught in Manchester, England, Mr. Johnson said, and all classes have an opportunity to study at least the theoretical side of a trade in the night schools all over the British Isles. In Germany, Mr. Johnson said, there appears to be a determination to make the empire a nation of artisans, for in every city of any consequence there are schools devoted entirely to trade and technical education. In these schools the children are impressed with the idea that their whole future depends on their learning a trade and the discipline is such that there appears to be no escape. "There are four schools in Munich alone where trades are taught," said Mr. Johnson. "I cannot anticipate my report to the board, but I will say that a trip abroad to attend night schools of the trade they have selected as their vocation, while when they are at work they are in the shop or at the factory. There is a school in Manchester, where the art of brewing is taught, convinces me that the boys and girls of this country are not quite ripe for prohibition. "In Germany every master must send his apprentices to school for at least two hours every week and he is not allowed to deduct anything from their wages. RAVENNA PARK BOOKLET

THE LAST ONE, will be sold at less than cost

THE booklet, 7x11 inches, contains seventeen full page views. Besides beautiful brook and canyon views it has the famous Big Trees—Roosevelt, Paderewski, Lee and Adam. The exquisite view of Mt. Rainier is pronounced by many as the best yet. The copyright alone cost $150. A feature of the booklet is the original A-Y-P "ad" by a Seattle woman. The second stanza is the cleverest thing ever said of Seattle. Look it up. No other city in the world has preserved a primeval forest within its corporate limits. Ravenna Park is well within the five-mile limit from Pioneer Square.

COLORADO MAN WILL PREACH TONIGHT

Rev. Franklin Baker to Discuss Problem of Christianity in America—May Remain Here Permanently.

"Is America a Christian Nation?" is the subject chosen by Rev. Franklin Baker, of Colorado Springs, for his initial sermon under the auspices of the Universal Free Church of Seattle at Columbia College of Music Hall, Broadway and Pine streets, this evening. After the sermon the trustees of the church will meet and decide on the advisability of inviting Mr. Baker to occupy the pulpit permanently. In addition to being a preacher of some note, Mr. Baker has achieved success as an actor in the amateur field. He played the leading role in "The Christmas Story" at Seattle a few months ago. It was for the benefit of a railroad clubhouse. The pulpit that Mr. Baker may be asked to fill was vacated by Rev. Alfred W. Martin about twenty months ago. It has been since then vacant except for a few Sundays, when Rev. George Gilmore filled it. He accepted an appointment at Buffalo, N. Y., and the trustees have been looking for a satisfactory candidate for the position ever since.
