BLUECOAT HALTS FLEEING PICKPOCKET WITH BULLET
Charles Reynolds shot in Leg by Patrolman Robert Hagen After Chase of Many Blocks.
Charles Reynolds, a pickpocket, aged 24, whom the police say is known in a half-dozen cities under as many aliases, was shot in the leg last evening by Patrolman Robert Hagen, after a chase of many blocks. Reynolds and his companion, Charles Aubrey, had just robbed W. Chaplin, a passenger on a Seattle, Renton & Southern street car when the officer gave chase. "Aubrey escaped, but Reynolds was captured. While on the way to the station the man again made a break for liberty, leaping upon a street car. Hagen followed, halted the car by firing two shots in the air, and after a pursuit lasting three blocks, shot Reynolds in the right leg, the bullet entering three inches below the knee and grazing the bone. He was cared for at the city hospital."

MILLER FREEMAN SEES "YELLOW PERIL" AHEAD

Chief of Washington Naval Militia Warns Members to Prepare for Call to Actual Service Against Japan.

MEN OF PACIFIC COAST WOULD BEAR THE BRUNT

Middle West and East Woe-fully Unappreciative and Indifferent to Real Conditions Menacing Country.

Commander Miller Freeman of the Washington naval militia so strongly warned his fellow members of the militia that they must go into the organization and its work on the theory that they are preparing for a war which "it does not go to the extreme and say that it is inevitable," said the commander in his short address on the drill floor of the armory, "but I want you all to feel as I do, that a conflict of arms with Japan is highly probable. You young men may expect at any time, to be called upon by the government for actual service. It is not going to frighten you. I am neither an extremist nor an alarmist, but I am not going to blindfold your eyes and let you go into this important but unappreciated business with the idea that your terms of enlistment will be unbroken lines of pleasure and jollity. You are serious work to do in preparing yourselves to aid in the protection of your home and land."

Burden Rests on Coast.
"In case of conflict we men of the Pacific Coast will have a heavy burden to carry and for us to bear we must do it alone. The Middle West and the East know nothing of our conditions save the superficial. The East has become of us so long as their pocketbooks are not touched. Serious-minded men told me recently that the East, that our Japanese question was irritating to them as it was nothing more nor less than an attempt to revive the race question settled by the Civil War. The Pacific Coast man such misconception seems impossible, but it prevails nevertheless. It is strongly up to us to take care of ourselves."
"This is realized by the editor of The Seattle Daily Times, who has thoughtfully enough to see that we are drifting rapidly toward war and is fearless enough to make that fact plain to the people and to generate the necessary feeling of drawing the protection of our fleets, which are as much the property of the residents of the Pacific Coast as are the inhabitants of the Atlantic seaboard, but no one would believe it by looking at their actions."

Preparations Should Be Made.
"When a newspaper like The Seattle Daily Times, with its great facilities for gathering authentic information, points to the danger ahead, means that it pause and heed the warning. I wish journals like The Times would go a step further and throughout the country, to those who know the first rudiments of bearing arms or of military organization, to the people of the Pacific Coast, the nation is in the people and the people must be aroused to action, if our fleet is to be saved from devastation by a foreign enemy."

New Recruits Added.
The first drill since the Cheyenne cruise was conducted last night after the meeting. The drill included his address to the two divisions. Five recruits were enrolled and assigned to the second division, the first division being made up of the men who were drilled in San Francisco.
Commander Freeman also told the men he had been informed that the Cheyenne will be docked at the Bremerton navy yard in a few days and that the small amount of work remaining to be done before the monitor is in shape to turn over to the militia will be completed this month and the vessel returned to Elliott Bay.

DR. SMITH DESCRIBES MISSIONARY CONGRESS
Seattle Pastor Tells of Inspiration in Big Edinburgh Gathering at Which City Was Well Represented.
"It was a tremendously impressive sight—representatives of all the Protestant Christian bodies of the world facing the supremely important question of the religious warfare of the world," said Rev. E. Lincoln Smith, secretary of the International Brotherhood luncheon in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, speaking on "Impressions of the Congress," which was a delegate to the World's Missionary Congress, held in Edinburgh last May.
"The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Chinese convert spoke from the same platform, and were called down with equal raptures when their respective prayers were used," he continued. "Each man spoke as a Christian and all recognized the task before them to carry the message to the unevangelized nations."
"The meeting was a great exhibition of the underlying sense of unity among Christians, and it gave the greatest impulse of all Christian times toward the obliteration of sectarianism."
"King George sent a cordial message of greeting to the conference and a long letter from Roosevelt was received. W. J. Bryan was very much in evidence during the sessions and the Britishers were much impressed by his and complimented us highly on possessing such a wonderful orator."
Seattle was well represented. Dr. B. L. Whitman, of the First Baptist Church; Dr. W. E. Berrington, of the Methodist Church; Dr. Alexander Ebers, of the Free Methodists; Mrs. W. D. Wood and Miss Mary Walker, of the Y. W. C. A., all had seats among the 1,200 delegates. There were present 125 Congregationalists from America.

EXPRESS COMPANY MAY COLLECT CITY'S BILLS

City Treasurer Will Recommend Acceptance of Offer to Collect Light and Water Dues.
City Treasurer Ed L. Terry will recommend to the finance committee of the city council Friday that the proposition of the American Express Company to collect city light and water bills at its several substations be accepted, as an accommodation to consumers in the outlying districts, where the company has twenty-seven agencies and expects to increase this number to fifty.
If this plan is adopted, light and water bills may be paid at any agency of the company by the payment of an extra 5 cents for each bill. The company will be required to give a receipt for each amount and take up the card, making a remittance to the treasurer daily and returning cue cards.
In the regular order of business the department receipt will be mailed to each consumer who has paid money at any of these agencies, in order to conform with the system of bookkeeping adopted by the city two years ago. The new plan is expected to be particularly popular in the outlying districts, where the express company agencies are usually located in community drug stores.

TELEPHONE EXPERT HERE TO APPRAISE VALUATIONS
Frank B. Hall, Employed by City to Make Report on Adequacy of Toll Charge.
Frank B. Hall, of Wheeling, West Virginia, one of the six leading telephone experts in the United States, is in Seattle to begin work on the appraisal of the systems of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Independent Telephone Company under the direction of Superintendent of Public Utilities A. L. Valentine.

By this investigation the department will be able to obtain the exact value of every item of property owned by the company and, in addition, Mr. Hall will test all equipment, cost of maintenance and investment, with a view of reporting what he considers adequate rates for each company and the service rendered to the public. Valentine will provide a number of assistants for the expert.
Hall's report, which will probably be submitted within six weeks, will be used in the hearing before the state railway commission at the instance of the Seattle Hardware Company which asked that the rates of the Pacific Company be lowered and those of the Independent Company raised in order to make them more uniform.
