

Corn Comes Off as Easy as You Please!

"Gets-It" Being Used by Millions! In the first time that a real, sure, safe corn cure has ever been discovered, "GETS-IT" is the new cornender, based on an entirely new principle. It is a new, different formula, never successfully imitated. It makes corns shrivel and then vanish. Two drops do the work. You don't bundle up your toes any more with sticky tape and plasters that press down on the poor corn—no more flesh-eating salves that don't "stay put," no more hacking at corns with knives or razors, no more bleeding or danger of blood poisoning. No more limping around for days with sore corns, no more corn pain.

"GETS-IT" is now the biggest-selling corn cure in the world. Use it on any hard or soft corn, wart, callus or bunion. Tonight's the night. "GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. "GETS-IT" is sold in Seattle by Owl Drug Co.

THE FLYING SQUADRON AT DREAMLAND RINK

J. Frank Hanly, Former Governor of Indiana, Talks for State-Wide Prohibition but Devotes a Great Deal of Time to the Gathering In of Shekels.

It is evident that the "Flying Squadron"—as the people whom former Governor Hanly of Indiana is leading up and down the Coast are termed by their admirers—know the value of money and how to gather it.

At Dreamland Rink the other night a very considerable portion of the time was devoted to "hearing the rattle of the silver" as the Governor facetiously called his effort to secure a big contribution.

In view of the fact that the Governor announced that J. B. Lewis of Boston had contributed ten thousand dollars to help liquidate the expenses of this Flying Squadron's trip, one would almost have thought a local contribution unnecessary.

However, the Governor demonstrates in the next sentence how expensive it is to undertake work of this kind—declaring that the Squadron had already spent "twenty thousand more on the Coast than we will get out of it."

That, then, would mean that the "Flying Squadron" on the Pacific Coast would not only spend the ten thousand which Mr. Lewis gave, but all the contributions given at each meeting—and twenty thousand dollars on top of that,—which must swell the expense up to approximately $50,000.

It was remarked a day or two ago that John D. Rockefeller had contributed one hundred thousand dollars to the Prohibition cause, and that it was reported that Grape Juice Welch of Ohio had contributed another one hundred thousand.

In view of the small number of states which are agitating Prohibition this year, and the immense sums contributed by Rockefeller and Welch, it would seem as if a campaign for Prohibition in a solitary year had become an expensive luxury.

When political parties carry on campaigns for the adoption of certain alleged principles, and the election of certain alleged statesmen to office—they always provide their own money—and never think of asking the audiences whom the orators address for contributions.

It would seem that it should be unnecessary—in view of the great contributions made by wealthy men, including Captain Lewis of Boston, to ask of the people further contributions.

Seattle will have to face in the next three months the care of fifty thousand men and women—because that number of men and women will be out of work and gathered in this city demanding help.

The lumber camps have been closed down. The saw mills have ceased to produce. The last of the great mills which were trying to continue business in Ballard closed on Tuesday.

Thus it happens that the greatest industry that Washington as a state has, will be totally paralyzed.

This is an absolute fact and it is not necessary to place the blame on the Democratic Administration in part—nor upon the great war in Europe in part—in order to prove the point.

The conditions exist—no matter what the cause—and the query is: Isn't it more in the line of charity—even "Christian Charity"—to husband our resources to care for the worthy poor now in our midst, and liable to be multiplied a thousand fold in the near future—than it is to contribute to the expense of a "Flying Squadron" of men who have become absolutely insane over what they consider to be a "reform movement"?

If this movement really aimed a blow at the use of liquor it might have some standing among reasonable men and women,—but when this alleged state-wide prohibition permits the importation of 108 million quarts of beer, or 18 million quarts of whiskey among its people per annum—liquor enough to make half the people drunk half the time—then the principle for which Prohibition stands is absolutely annihilated, and the proposition becomes only fanatic.

STRONGLY INDORSE ALIEN LAND LAW

Real Estate Concern Declares Measure Would Do Much Good.

Editor The Times: If the alien amendment does not carry in this election we will continue to shut out millions of capital. This money would come here for investment, improvements, labor, building material and taxes if the present law is changed.

Business men, bankers and others know of millions of dollars that have been turned to other states because of the harsh restriction that is still in force. For the good of the whole state it should be changed at once by voting "yes" in the coming election.

We, the undersigned, strongly indorse the measure. Many voters are not aware of the facts, the more important of which are:

1. Only one constitutional amendment is on the ballot.
2. Our last Legislature passed it by a two-thirds majority, and it now goes to the people for approval in this election.
3. It would enable resident citizens of other countries to own property in our cities. It prohibits their owning farm property. Enemies of the measure are attempting to confuse the term

DECLARES 8-HOUR LAW HARMFUL TO WOMEN

Vote Against Initiative Measure No. 13 Will Protect Future.

Editor The Times: Just a word to suggest that if any voter is interested enough in the proposed eight-hour law to ask women employees how the minimum wage and eight-hour law has affected their positions, they will soon get a first hand answer, and it will mean a cross on the "No" side of Article 13.

If there is a woman employe, unless in a favored position, that has a good word for the law, the writer has failed to find her.

The most successful business men of today gained their power of success by an apprenticeship covering a period of from three to four years for which they oftentimes paid a tuition of $400 to $500 and in some instances received from $100 to $200 for their six years' work.

But the state of Washington has the audacity to say by statute that it only takes one year to produce a lady employe valued at $20 per year, not three or four years, but one year, and the law compels a salary paid her of $328 to gain what is only a semblance of efficiency. If she fails to make good she is out; if she succeeds she takes the place of the girl who is now receiving $12 to $14 per week.

What chance does the law give a girl or woman of no experience? Positively none. First, it limits the number of apprentices and second it makes efficiency impossible. In our average towns it means three or four chances for apprenticeships only.

To think that in this state of ours, where no servitude or sweat shop exists, or never have, we have men or women with power enough to get such laws on our statute books, is enough to raise the ire of a Christian.

ELOPES WITH WOMAN AND SEVEN CHILDREN

FORT DODGE, Ia., Saturday, Oct. 31.—John Barrett, a Russian of Hayes, Kan., arrived here with Mrs. Anna Schumaker and her seven children. He had eloped with her and the children while the woman's husband was away from home.

The husband and his father, when they discovered the absence of the wife and children, went to Kansas City, then to Des Moines, and finally came here.

Barrett was arrested and Mrs. Schumaker has consented to return home with her husband and the children.

and ought to be enough to cause the promoters of such laws to be ashamed to look a woman worker in the face. A vote against the eight-hour law may save you such a future. Vote "No" on Article 13. —C. W. STULTS.
