One taste of Campbell's Soups shows you what we mean by

"Quality First"

AND you see in a minute that such a soup as this is not merely a tasty dinner-course to be enjoyed only now and then; but a regular nourishing food that will do you good every day. A food that improves digestion, builds you up, and helps you to get the most good out of all the other food you eat.

One of the most pleasing ways to prepare it is as a cream-of-tomato or bisque.

The label tells you how simple this is; and you'll say you never tasted anything finer.

How to Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy That Will Do It Quickly. Cheap and Easily Made.

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so.

The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup Preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex,"—do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

At the San Diego exposition Washington's birthday was celebrated Monday in the Washington State Building on the exposition grounds by a Potlatch. Commissioner Hicks, in charge of the Washington State Building, arranged a program for the day and evening in keeping with the idea and open house was maintained, each visitor receiving a big red luscious apple, a glass of Washington cider and a ginger snap.

In the evening a reception was given to the exposition officials, who paid their official visit to the Washington Building at that time. They were received by thirteen women from this state costumed as Colonial dames, representing the thirteen original states and were met at the entrance to the building by Uncle Sam and George and Martha Washington, impersonated respectively by Mr. Almon Smith, of Spokane, Mr. George Robinson of Bremerton and Mrs. Margaret Smyth of Mount Vernon.

They were conducted to the receiving line by Mrs. W. H. Allen, state commissioner from Spokane, and Mrs. Hicks, wife of the commissioner, as hostesses, assisted by the following Washington women in costume:

Maine, Mrs. John D. Atkinson, of Seattle; New Hampshire, Mrs. H. B. Hassell, of Everett; Vermont, Miss Amata Dunning, of Spokane; Massachusetts, Mrs. J. R. Bowdish, of Bellingham; Connecticut, Mrs. Angie Ethridge, of Chehalis; Rhode Island, Mrs. W. O. Harding, of Seattle; New York, Mrs. Harry Boardman, of Colfax; Delaware, Mrs. H. F. Price, of Port Townsend; Maryland, Mrs. A. W. Morgan, of Vancouver; Virginia, Mrs. G. H. Greenbank, of Olympia; North Carolina, Mrs. F. E. Goodall, of Spokane; South Carolina, Mrs. R. M. Cresswell, of Dayton, and attended by the following also in costume: Miss Washington, Miss Florence Allen, of Spokane; Apple Jack, Irwin W. Smith, of Wenatchee; dairy maids, Miss Louise Blatz, of Tacoma, and Miss Esther Twelker, of Kent; Indian maids, Miss Josephine Jones, of Seattle, and Miss Rachel Beswick, of Walla Walla; the pioneer woman, Mrs. W. M. Reitz, of Ballard.

Vocal and instrumental music by Washington talent and a reading by an author from the state and the singing in chorus of the state song, "Washington, My Washington," by the residents of this state present, followed. Refreshments were served by four Washington maids.

Mrs. Frances Trumbull and Mrs. Eva Mahler entertained Saturday evening at the home of the latter, 4730 Twentieth Avenue Northeast. The guests were members of a Mount Rainier party of last summer and the gathering was in the nature of a reunion.

The park idea was carried throughout in the appointments, signs directing to different points of interest. The dining room was transformed into a Paradise Valley with its wealth of color. Indian paint brushes, heather and Paradise lilies were banked in the mass of green formed by salal, madrona and Oregon grape branches. Mirror lake reflected the surrounding foliage.

The den was an ice grotto with the spirit of the mountain presiding, while the living room represented Hall's Camp at Indian Henry's, where a trip to Rainier by postcard projector was taken. Camp fare was served in cafeteria style and recitations and reminiscences closed the evening.

About twenty-five guests were present, among them Mr. and Miss Power and Mrs. Spike of Tacoma.

Diary of a Well Dressed Girl

By Sylvia Gerard

Varying the Wardrobe by the Separate Blouse Plan.

ANNE-LEE TILDEN, my cousin on the paternal side, came yesterday to spend the Lenten calm in our midst. We've all succumbed to her fascinations, and Dad said that he thought we had a lively addition to our family, and even if we were all "sitting on the seat of repentance," he guessed we'd have a pretty good time at home.

We hadn't seen Anne-Lee for years, and, judging from her pictures, I feared that she was going to be a sit-on-the-sofa-and-sew-a-fine-seam sort of girl. She always appeared to be so faultlessly coiffed and frocked.

Latest Separate Blouse Idea.

To the contrary, she's a good sport, and her hair gets mussed up as much as any ordinary girl's.

She says we're quits now, for she had the same opinion of me, and dreaded her visit here. An instant in each other's company served to set our minds at ease, and now we're the best of pals.

She's an accomplished little minx, and keeps Dad entertained with her songs and caricatures, which are decidedly clever.

We went down to the office this morning to bring Dad home to lunch, and she sketched every one in the place and disrupted business generally.

I ought to be jealous, she's made such a hit with Dad, but I have him all to myself so much of the time that I can afford to share him with a cousin now and then.

Anne-Lee sews well, too, and is helping me to make a blouse to wear with my blue gabardine. She has three pretty blouses, and we're copying one of them with a few modifications.

I bought a very lovely piece of shadow lace and had it dyed blue to match the cloth of my suit.

Since most of the smart blouses have high collars and long sleeves I bought a pattern with the sleeves cut in one with the bodice portion.

Anne-Lee's blouse has touches of taffeta to trim it, but she suggested that I use the gabardine for the long, tight-fitted cuffs and the high girdle. This was a happy thought, for it produces even a smarter effect than either the taffeta or velvet could have given it.

The girdle and cuffs are trimmed with rows of small bullet buttons, covered with the gabardine and arranged in straight lines down the sleeve from the elbows up to the wrist and from the throat to the waistline.

The upper portion, made of the lace, is perfectly plain, save for a soft fullness above the girdle.

I find the high chokers too severe and unbecoming, so I fastened the collar of a double-pleated frill, fastened at the side beneath a flat bow of blue ribbon velvet. This relieves the plainness of the blouse and meets the requirements of fashion when it demands that high collars be worn.

The collars of Anne-Lee's blouses are open at the throat and stand up crisply about the back of the neck. She refuses to "cage" her throat, insisting that she can't breathe. I'm not sure that I like the new collars, but suppose I'll finally become accustomed to them—when they're out of style.

Miss Maude Armfield Wins Suit Against San Diego Man.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Wednesday, Feb. 24.—Miss Maude Armfield, a motion picture actress, was awarded $40,000 in her suit for $500,000 damages for breach of promise against Bryant Howard, Jr., of San Diego, by a jury in Superior Judge Wilbur's court last night. The jury was out one and one-half hours.

Miss Armfield was married to Howard in San Diego July 4, 1909. The marriage was annulled October 7, 1909, because, it was testified, Howard's divorce from his first wife was defective.

Miss Armfield's suit was based on the allegation that she agreed to the annulment with the understanding that Howard would remarry her when he secured a perfected divorce.

ASKS $25,000 HEART BALM

Miss Olive C. Blair, a Seattle business woman, yesterday afternoon brought a $25,000 damage suit in the superior court against H. W. Starrett, manager of the Sunset Boat & Engine Company, 809 Railroad Avenue. Miss Blair alleges in her complaint that, after a courtship she became engaged to marry Starrett in the summer of 1913. She later discovered, the complaint declares, that Starrett is already married.

ALIEN BARRED FROM U. S. ENDS HIS LIFE

Copenhagen Fugitive Dies Rather Than Be Sent Back to Denmark.

NEW YORK, Wednesday, Feb. 24.—After the board of inquiry at Ellis Island had decided yesterday that Carl C. Morgensen must be deported for "admitting an act of moral turpitude," Morgensen stepped into a room adjoining the board room and shot himself, dying instantly.

Morgensen was wanted in Copenhagen on a charge of taking a bond of 10,000 crowns ($2,700) from the Danish National Bank, where he was employed. Morgensen denied this but said that on a former occasion he had taken another bond and later returned it to the bank. This admission led to the deportation order.

JAPANESE HOLD FAIR CELEBRATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Feb. 24.—This is Japan's day at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Impressive and unusual ceremonies, which began this morning, marked the dedication of the Japanese pavilions and gardens.

Hundreds of Japanese residents of the city were present when Miss Josephine Moore, daughter of C. C. Moore, president of the exposition, pressed an electric button which sent the waters flowing over the miniature falls and picturesque lakes of Japan's section on the foreign concession.

Assisting in the dedication was Admiral Baron Sotokichi Uriu, a hero of the Russo-Japanese war and special representative of his imperial Japanese majesty, and Baroness Uriu.

At the official dedication ceremonies in Festival Hall presided over by Gen. Haruki Yamawaki of the Japanese exposition commission, addresses were made by Admiral Baron Uriu, President Moore, Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, Mayor James Rolph, Jr., Acting Consul Yasutaro Numano and others.

Japanese school children strewed blossoms at the portals of Festival Hall as the officials entered.

TO DISCUSS BRIDGES

What is announced as a protest meeting against the construction of a bridge across Lake Union at Tenth Avenue Northeast, which will be voted upon at the election of March 2, will be held by the Tenth Ward Improvement Club in May's Hall, Sixth Avenue Northeast and Forty-second Street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The six councilmanic candidates have been invited to express their opinions on the proposition.
