

THE HUT

ARNE HANSEN, of that great accounting firm, A. S. Hansen & Company, with offices in the Leary Building, introduced me to Clifford Mooers who recently returned from Alaska. Mr. Mooers has the honor of being the FIRST PRESIDENT and "starter" of the Young Men's Business Club, and I was quite surprised to see such a young man. Clifford gives a new title by advising me that he reads these "EDITORIALS" every day. WE THANK YOU very much for the compliment, and now since you are in Seattle, Mr. Mooers, you can spend 5¢ every day for a package of NUT HOUSE NUTS at the Smith Drug Store, 601 2nd Avenue, and contribute your share of that.

Yours truly,
The Chief Nut.

4,000,000 POSTERS TO AID DRIVE FOR LIBERTY LOAN

Contracts for Large Amount of Ammunition for Big Campaign Are Awarded by Treasury Department.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Sept. 13.—Four million posters of eight designs and 600,000 window cards in one design are to be a part of the ammunition that will be used in the Liberty Loan drive to start before October 1, according to local Liberty Loan headquarters.

The contracts for the posters and cards have just been let by the Treasury Department, and the awards were made after a competition in which 150 sketches were submitted without cost to the government.

The first design chosen represents Uncle Sam pointing to khaki-clad soldiers, with airplanes and battleships in the background. The inscription is taken from one of Secretary McAdoo's speeches: "Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?"

The second design shows the Statue of Liberty at sunrise, and the sky is interwoven with the flag. The inscription reads, "Before Sunset Buy a Liberty Bond."

The third design presents the old Liberty Bell, and carries the inscription, "Ring It Again."

The fourth is a soldier and a sailor with clasped hands under the American flag.

The fifth design is of two little children saying, "My daddy is fighting at the front for you. Back him up by buying a Liberty Bond."

Design number six is a bronze tablet effect carrying a picture of President Wilson and the American shield with the President's statement, "The time has come to conquer or submit; there is but one choice, and we have made it."

Design number seven has the picture of the treasury, with the inscription, "Lead your money to the government."

The eighth design shows an immigrant ship arriving in New York harbor, with the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island and the tall buildings in the foreground.

The window card has a bronze tablet effect, reading, "Second Liberty Loan 1917—Buy a Bond."

A supply of the posters is expected in a few weeks.

GAMBLES $100,000; COMES OUT WITH $600,000

Being Story of Alberta Farmer Who Staked His Last Year's Profits on 6 to 0 Shot and Won.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Wednesday, Sept. 13.—This is the story of a $100,000 gamble—a six to nothing shot—that won $600,000 in the wheat fields of Alberta. With the week past, the patches have carried the news that the Nobelford wheat farm of 1,400 acres has been harvested with a yield of fifty bushels to the acre. This patch on Mother Earth is the same one that history recorded last year as the most productive of any in the world's wheat areas. The same news which said this 400-acre patch carried a yield of fifty bushels to the acre also stated that R. C. Noble, owner of the Nobelford farm, has harvested 10,000 acres which would not thirty bushels to the acre.

The Canadian Grain Commission within the week has also placed the price of wheat at $2.21.

The Nobelford crop on all these broad acres has been cut and threshing has begun.

Here are the interesting details of the big gamble.

Sinks Entire Profits.

R. C. Noble sunk his entire profits of last year on the prospects of a 200,000-bushel crop this year. This means first food for a year for perhaps 10,000 or 15,000 people.

The record of last year, to some men, would have been enough, but not so with Noble. He had staked his entire year's profits on a six to nothing shot. The record of last year, to some men, would have been enough, but not so with Noble. He had staked his entire year's profits on a six to nothing shot.

Summer Big Risk.

It took money to prepare this land and put in the crop, to watch it through the summer, to cut it, harvest it and thresh it. By the time the summer, fall, drought, rain, snow, fire, rust and cut worms were risks which had to be met. It took all the money of the big 1916 crop and much besides to insure this huge wheat-cropping enterprise, besides ploughing, seeding and other work. And if the crop failed, it meant a heavy financial blow. It would have wiped out all profits of 1916. Still the managers of the Nobelford farm had the courage. They have won again.

What their profits will be this year can be figured without paper and pencil.

Japanese Open Tea Pavilion in Seattle

Hundreds of Seattle residents responded yesterday afternoon to invitations from the Japan Central Tea Association to attend the opening of the Japanese Tea Pavilion at Fifth Avenue and University Street. Among the distinguished guests were Mr. and Mrs. Matsura, M. P. of Tokyo, and special commissioner of the association to America, Mr. Matsura.

Matsura made Seattle the objective point of a tour at this time in order to visit the city and to open the pavilion. It being the policy of the Japan Central Tea Association to erect one of these pavilions in every large city each year. This is the third consecutive year that the Pacific Coast has thus been favored.

Seattle's Japanese tea pavilion occupies a ground space of 153 by 73 feet and a basement space of 113 by 27 feet in the Women's University Club Building. The buildings, designed and constructed wholly by Japanese, express artistic ideas of the Orient in simple lines and harmonious colors, which, with native serving maids in Japanese costumes, brings to the heart of busy Seattle a breath of the land of perpetual blossoms and sunshine. The grounds are laid out in a miniature park and water garden, garnished with Japanese shrubbery.

The object of this tea pavilion is to serve as an exposition of Japanese tea and the association promoting it is formed of all the tea growers and merchants of Japan, operating under auspices of the Japanese government. It is an exact duplicate of the one erected at San Francisco during the exposition by this association, and is open to the public at all hours of the day. Two Japanese interpreters, with attainments in English education, is the manager.

Hearing on the application of Attorney W. V. Tanner for a receiver for the Prudential Savings & Loan Association, which failed last year, was continued this morning by Presiding Judge Kenneth Mackintosh in the Superior Court until next Friday. It is alleged by the state that the liabilities of the corporation exceed the book assets and that the officers have loaned money in excess of 50 per cent of the value of properties.

The association, by its attorney, Phillip Twogger, brought suit this morning against E. P. Martin to recover off liabilities of the association and would in turn surrender to Martin his interests in the corporation. The complaint states that to escape a deficiency judgment Martin deeded his land to Clark C. Shaffer, a barber, who finally executed the money.
