SEATTLE, WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 2, 1921.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

RBITRARY and unnecessary A rules, when imposed upon

This is the best answer to the annually recurring question, now before the school board

"Shall Seattle teachers be allowed to work during vacations?" How many business men would deliberately loaf two whole months if they had opportunity for pleasant and gainful employment during that period?

Vacationing is not merely being idle. A change of scene or of occupation is much more stimulating than doing nothing.

By all means, let the teachers work.

They should have equal personal liberty with other citizens If they faithfully perform the service asked of them during the school year, they should be at liberty to dispose of their leisure in any way that does not detract from their efficiency when schools

Outside positions give them opportunity to get in touch with the world of practical affairs. To the commercial teacher, for instance, work of this kind affords coveted opportunity for added technical training.

Every business man must real ize the benefit of this experience to teacher and pupil.

Then, there are cases where the extra money is urgently needed and frequently this sum is the deciding argument for 'remaining in or leaving the schools.

There is a humorous phase to the matter, as well, because some teachers actually are paid by the school board for "violating" their contracts by working in summer schools during vacations or in night schools during the school year.

The entire controversy is of the 'teapot tempest' variety.

It can best be met by permitting the teachers to do what any other active men and women would do if they had two months away from their normal business activities-work when they had an opportunity and play when they were so disposed.

A Favorite Coat Fabric

is the material used in many of the Spring models. It is soft, light of weight, attractive, and promises long wear. It is shown in the smart shades of pewter gray and wren tan, also in navy blues and browns.

> Stitching, Embroidery, Buttons

are noted among the trimmings. Many display claborate ornamentation across the back, after the fashion of the cape. Bits of trimming at the cuff line and collar are in self or contrasting colorings.

Silks for Spring Canton Crepes

The Favored New Weave To have your Spring costume of Canton Crepe is to be assured that you have the ultimate in fabric smartness. Blouses, dresses, suits, wraps, threepiece costumes and evening frocks are fashioned of this material. Its dull crepe finish and soft texture lends itself admirably to new costumes of varied types.

Canton Crepe was shown first in Seattle by MacDougall-Southwick. It is characterized by its soft, heavy quality. It is 40 inches wide.

In plain colorings, priced $5.50. In bar-plaids (ivory on navy blue, and brown backgrounds), priced $6.00.

Ribbons and Feathers Droop From the New Hats

It is little touches of individuality which will make your hat an artistic frame for your face. And you will find your individual fancies in the assortments at MacDougall's. Each hat, chosen with the thought for its wearer and its uses reflects the newest "style" tendencies, including extreme novelties tempered to becoming lines. The sketches illustrate three new hats which interpret Spring modes in attractive ways.

Colors Are Gau

in the Spring Hats. Some are entirely of vivid colors, with elaborate embroideries and appliqued effects. Others are in darker tones, with just a touch of color peeping from beneath the brim, or displayed in the foliage trimming.

Gray an Exception

The vogue for gray is accentuated in the new hats -in novelty straws, in taffeta, crepe de Chine and Georgette crepe. Entire hats are fashioned of this soft hue. Sometimes a bit of color-navy blue, cherries, drape or feather ornament adds a smart bit of contrast.
