

ALIEN LAND LAW VALID

CALIFORNIA ACT UPHOLD BY FEDERAL COURT.

Three Judges Follow Decision in Terrace Case, Holding Lease to Japanese Illegal.

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, Dec. 20.—The constitutionality of the act...

No Conflict With Treaty. "Such a leasehold as an interest in agricultural land and nothing in the treaty with Japan secures to Japanese subjects resident in this country...

It is true that Congress has the power arbitrarily to say who may be naturalized and that exercising such power it has limited the right of naturalization to those who are of "good character and to those who are of native birth and descent."

It is obvious that one who is not a citizen and cannot become one on an interest in, and the power to effectually work for the welfare of the state and so feeling, the state must rightfully deny him the right to own and lease real estate within its boundaries.

The constitutional, statutory and treaty provisions involved in this act were considered at length by Circuit Judge W. B. Gilbert and District Judge Cushman and Neterer in the recent case of Terrace, upon application for a temporary injunction to restrain the attorney-general of the state of Washington from enforcing a statute of the same general character as the law of California now under consideration.

The plaintiffs in that case advanced, urged and argued practically the same contentions that are made by plaintiffs here, all of which were rejected by the court, as we fully agree with the reasoning and conclusions of the Terrace case it is unnecessary for us to restate them or to go over them in detail. It is urged, however, that this case differs from the Terrace case in that the Washington law excludes only such aliens as are ineligible to citizenship and that the designation of this limited class is arbitrary, unreasonable, unwarranted and therefore invalid.

Or as stated by counsel, the Legislature cannot take what might be termed a natural class of persons (i. e., aliens), split that class in two and then arbitrarily designate the designated fragments of the original unit as two classes; and thereupon enact rules for the government of each. As a means of fact, however, the Washington law does split up the natural class of persons (aliens) into two classes: one class of aliens who have and intend to become citizens of the United States and enacted different rules for the government for each in that the former may and the latter may not.

It is urged to determine whether crop contracts constitute leases for the purposes of the antilease law is still pending before a Federal court of three judges here.
