

Summer Concert at Stadium

Theo Karle to Star in First

Series of Events Planned by U. of W. Student Body to Wipe Out Debt—Capacity Permits Low Price.

THEO KARLE, who will appear in concert in the University of Washington Stadium, June 18.

"SUMMER" concerts at popular prices is the new slogan of the Associated Students of the University of Washington in an endeavor to raise funds to pay the debt against the University Stadium. According to an announcement by Student Manager Darwin Meisnest yesterday, whether Seattle music lovers will have an opportunity of hearing nationally famed concert artists at popular prices this summer depends upon the financial success of Theo Karle's concert Monday evening, June 18, at the Stadium.

"Tacoma has had wonderful success with summer concerts in the Tacoma Stadium and there is no reason why the same venture shouldn't prove a big success here," Mr. Meisnest said yesterday. "Due to the large seating capacity the Stadium affords, well-known artists can be heard in concert at prices that are extremely low."

Educated in Seattle, Mr. Meisnest considers the students fortunate in obtaining Theo Karle as the opening artist, for Mr. Karle is a former local star, receiving most of his musical education and schooling in this city. Not so very many years ago he was graduated from Lincoln High School in Seattle after singing in the Northwest for several years, he went to New York City with his teacher and soon became tenor soloist at the famous Brick Church on Fifth Avenue, which always has been celebrated for the beauty of its musical programs and for the fact that many great singers have made their start there. Mr. Karle's first important public engagement was at Worcester, Mass., Musical Festival and his success at this concert was so great that he appeared at other large festivals and followed these triumphs with a solidly booked tour to the Coast and back. He has made in all twenty concert tours from Coast to Coast, a remarkable record for such a young artist.

In spite of the fact that Karle has appeared at various times in opera, the demand has been so great for his work as a concert artist that he kept him continuously on the recital platform with large and varied repertoire. Mr. Karle is able to present programs which reveal an amazing versatility. He sings classical Italian and French songs, arias, standard concert songs, modern songs and ballads with consummate vocal finish and with a diction that makes the significance of every selection clear to the auditor. He is the "typical American" in the best sense of that expression.

Mr. Karle recently appeared in an open air concert in the Tacoma Stadium, which was packed to capacity.

SHORT'S SLATE WINS

CONSERVATIVES LEAD IN STATE LABOR ELECTION.

Radical Candidates Fail to Get District Places in Federation Poll.

Canvass of the vote cast in the biennial election of the Washington State Federation of Labor last month was completed at federation headquarters in Seattle last night. William M. Short of Seattle, who heads the conservative forces in the federation, was reelected president and though he was unopposed in the race received a complimentary vote of 4,719.

In all the seven vice presidential districts the conservatives won where they were opposed by radical candidates. Mr. Short said, commenting on the results, "The continuing control of the federation's executive council by the conservatives.

In the sixth, or Seattle district, John N. Belanger, who is now secretary of the Seattle Building Trades Council, and who was backed by the conservatives, was elected vice president to succeed Vic Blomberg, who was not a candidate for reelection. Belanger received 1,883 votes to 937 cast for W. T. McGuern, who was the candidate of James A. Duncan and other leaders in the Seattle Central Labor Council who have opposed the Short forces in the federation for several years past.

In the seventh, or Everett district, the conservatives elected Henry Arend vice president by a small majority over Carl Leonard, the candidate of the radicals.

Woman Is Elected. In the first or Bellingham district Ida Parberry was elected vice president without opposition and will have the honor of being the first woman to hold a federation vice presidency.

In the second or Spokane district Archie W. Johnston, defeated Vice President George Hodges for reelection.

In the third or Yakima-Walla Walla district Vice President L. L. Gallant was reelected, defeating P. C. Stevens of Walla Walla.

In the fourth or Grays Harbor district Vice President W. L. Brackenreed was reelected without opposition.

COUNCIL TO REORGANIZE

FEW CHANGES WILL TAKE PLACE IN THAT BODY MONDAY.

Lamping to Become Head of Port and School Board Will Elect New President.

Reorganization of the City Council and the Port Commission is scheduled for tomorrow and that of the Seattle School Board for Friday. The reelected councilmen, Oliver T. Erickson, Philip Tindall and Robert B. Hesketh, the returned port commissioner, W. S. Lincoln, and the two new school directors, E. B. Holmes and O. B. Thorgrimson, begin three-year terms tomorrow. Corporation Counsel Thomas J. L. Kennedy begins a one-year term. These officials were chosen May 8, when all the school districts of the county, fifteen incorporated cities and towns in addition to Seattle and commercial waterway, drainage and water districts all had elections, the successful candidates to take office the first Monday in June.

With the election of Councilman Erickson as a member of the City Council finance committee to replace Councilman Tindall, the reorganization of the Council will be completed with few changes than at any time in the past. Council members said yesterday. At a caucus of members yesterday to decide upon a slate, Councilman Tindall asked that he be relieved from duty on the finance committee because of other heavy committee assignments. Mr. Erickson is chairman of the utilities committee.

New Council Line-up. The Council will meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning to finish up old business. It will meet at 2 o'clock in regular session and immediately reorganize according to the agreement yesterday.

The lineup of the Council for the next year will be as follows: President—C. E. Fitzgerald, now secretary. License committee—Hesketh, Landes and Cohen. Franchise committee—Cohen, Fitzgerald and Blaine. Harbor and public grounds committee—Miracle, Blaine and Carroll. Judiciary and department efficiency committee—Tindall, Erickson and Landes. Streets and sewers committee—Carroll, Miracle, Cohen, Tindall and Fitzgerald.

Conference committee—Fitzgerald, Miracle and Erickson. Public safety committee—Landes, Hesketh and Tindall. City utilities committee—Erickson, Cohen, Tindall, Landes and Carroll. Streets and sewers committee—Carroll, Miracle, Cohen, Tindall and Fitzgerald.

Finance committee—Blaine, Erickson, Miracle, Fitzgerald and Hesketh. George B. Lamping, now secretary, and Mr. Lincoln, president of the Seattle Port Commission, are expected to trade jobs when the commission begins its reorganization session tomorrow.

It has been custom for the commission to choose as its presiding officer the commissioner whose term is nearest expiration. In this case, Mr. Lincoln, with one more year to serve, George F. Cotterill, the third commissioner, with two more years to serve would be in line for the secretaryship, but it is said he does not want the place as he is planning on making a trip to Europe to attend a prohibition conference.

The commission will meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow to transact all unfinished business. W. J. Santmyer and E. F. Taylor are the school directors who will retire tomorrow in favor of Mr. Holmes and Mr. Thorgrimson. When the board perfects organization Friday it will be called upon to elect a secretary. Mr. Santmyer, who is vice president, President Carl Croson continues on the board, but a new presiding officer will be chosen.

The King County towns in which new officials will take over the governmental reins tomorrow are Auburn, Kent, Renton, Duwamish, Bothell, Carnation, Kirkland, Skykomish, Issaquah, Pacific, North Bend, Tukwila, Issaquah, Enumclaw and Redmond.

URGES MORE GOVERNMENT CHARITY TOWARDS BUSINESS. Unselfishness in the home, in the relations between capital and labor and between nations was urged by Arthur F. Sheldon of New York, author and president emeritus of the Sheldon School of Chicago, in an address before the King County Democratic Club at Dartnall's Cafeteria yesterday afternoon. Mr. Sheldon spoke on "Human Engineering, as Applied to Quality, Quantity and Economy Production and Distribution."

Mrs. Jane Garrett, in an address on "The Progress of Peace," said there are now twenty-five societies in England and many others in other lands working to "outlaw war."

NEW SHIPPING BOARD MEMBER COMING TO SEATTLE. Bert E. Haney of Portland, recently appointed to the King County Shipping Board by President Harding to succeed former Senator George E. Chamberlain, who retires June 30, will be in Seattle this evening in conferences with men interested in shipping as part of his preparation for representing the Pacific Northwest on the board.

Next Saturday Mr. Haney will address members of the King County Democratic Club at their luncheon at Dartnall's Cafeteria. George E. Ryan, president of the club, has invited William Pigott, representing business and commercial interests, and William W. Short, head of the Washington State Federation of Labor, to speak at the same meeting. Mayor E. J. Brown has been asked to welcome Mr. Haney.

WOMEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS. Officers recently elected by the Women's Democratic Club were installed yesterday at a meeting at Dartnall's Cafeteria. Mrs. Thomas Irving went in as president, succeeding Mrs. Emma Hausman; Mrs. Jane Thomas, first vice president; Mrs. L. E. ENTRY SLIP FOR MISS LIBERTY CONTEST

For Miss Liberty in the American Legion's Fourth of July pageant contest, I nominate

Address

Occupation

Fill out this coupon and mail it or bring it, with a black and white photograph of contestant, to The Times, addressed to Chairman Merville McInnis, care of The Times. Photograph must accompany entry slip.

MISS LIBERTY and your court of six fair maidens, who will rule Seattle on Independence Day, wherever in the state of Washington you may be, put down June 30 as a date to remember.

Why June 30? It must be admitted that there are many days in the vicinity of July 4 that hold particular interest for the girls of Seattle and the state. The American Legion Fourth of July committee is making that week the most favored time of the year and directing the attention of the state toward the days immediately preceding the Fourth.

It remained for members of Seattle Post No. 18, American Legion, to attach a special significance to June 30. Heading the calendar of social events and marking the first official appearance of Miss Liberty, to be crowned Seattle Post will hold a "Miss Liberty Ball" the night of June 30, at the American Legion Club, which, according to the committee in charge, will be one of the most elaborate legion affairs ever held in Seattle and will bring together the members of every post in the city.

No effort or expense will be spared in making our Miss Liberty ball the event of the season. Don McEwan, post adjutant, said last night, "The committee in charge of the dance will start to work on the details of the party tomorrow and instructed to 'go the limit' in making it an occasion that will best the dignity of the fair ruler and her court."

Of a queenly type, capable of bearing the high honors that will be showered upon the ruler of Seattle, is Miss Madeline Yeo, 630 Ravenna Ave., whose photograph was submitted to the committee through The Times. Miss Yeo is attending Roosevelt High School, where she has been prominent in social and musical circles. She played the leading role in the opera, "Madame Modiste," presented at the school recently. The lists are still open to all girls of the state and each day Chairman Merville McInnis of the committee repeats his request that no unmarried girl hang back. Entry may be made by filling out the entry slip printed in The Times and submitting a photograph to the committee through The Times.

Motorists!

This may save you money

Whether or not you are included in the majority of Pacific Coast motorists who already use Zerolene, you will be interested in the facts presented here.

Realizing that we have in Zerolene as good an oil as it is scientifically possible to produce, and that many people do not use it because of its low price, not appreciating its actual superiority to other oils costing sometimes twice as much, we began about a year ago a series of laboratory and road tests with Zerolene and other oils. We wanted to obtain for you an absolute check on the merits of Zerolene as compared to other oils. These tests, numbering many hundreds, were recently completed, and we here present for your consideration—

Our Authentic Findings

1. Zerolene reduces friction and wear to a greater extent than any other automobile lubricant we have seen and tested or been able to produce.
2. The Zerolene-lubricated car averages 5% more mileage from the gasoline consumed, because Zerolene, giving better lubrication continuously, permits the delivery of more engine power to the wheels on the ground.
3. Zerolene yields highest oil mileage consistent with efficient lubrication. It was found that oils yielding a higher oil mileage do not reduce friction and wear to the same degree, as proved by the fact that when these oils are used the gasoline mileage is reduced.
4. Zerolene forms, on an average, 30% less carbon than other oils. The carbon is soft and fluffy and most of it blows out with the exhaust. For this reason the Zerolene-lubricated automobile may be driven from 25% to 50% farther without having the valves ground or the cylinders rebored. Zerolene forms less carbon than any other motor oil known to us.
5. Zerolene is stable. It is a fact, well known to engineers, that the selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, from which Zerolene is made, has heat-resisting qualities which are not excelled by any other crude so far discovered. These natural heat-resisting qualities of the crude are preserved by our exclusive high-vacuum process of distillation. Zerolene does not break down.
6. Zerolene has the right body at all operating temperatures. It thins down properly under engine heat, conforming to the reduced bearing clearances in the cylinders, due to the expansion of the metal, and it thickens again as the engine cools and its bearing clearances increase in size, due to the contraction of the metal. For this reason Zerolene keeps the bearings constantly protected by an adequate film of oil at all the varying temperatures of engine operation. This reduces friction and wear and delivers more horse-power to the wheels on the ground and gives greater mileage from the gasoline.

A Better Oil Even If It Does Cost Less

Zerolene costs less than other oils because of our facilities for producing and distributing it in great quantities on the Pacific Coast. We do not have to pay long-haul transportation and high merchandising costs to make it available. All that you pay for Zerolene goes to buy high quality only.

Zerolene will reduce your upkeep cost, add years to the life of your car and give you greater satisfaction in driving. Ask for Zerolene by name—at Standard Oil Service Stations and at garages and supply stations displaying the Zerolene sign.

SEARCH OF CEDAR RIVER FOR SECOND MAN CONTINUES. City Employees Die When Picked From Boat, Swept by Current to Brink of Dam.

Picked from a rowboat as it dangled on the crest of the timber crib dam in Cedar River, after it had been swept by the swift current, E. A. Brown, timekeeper, and Ed Wilhite, electrician, employees of the City Light Department at Camp 2 on Cedar Lake, went to their deaths yesterday morning in nearly forty feet of water.

Details of the death of the two men reached Seattle last evening, together with the news that search of the lake by men with grappling hooks had resulted in the recovery of only one of the bodies, that of Wilhite.

Brown, between 65 and 70 years old, and Wilhite, 38, set out early in the morning to take water level readings at the dam, and Brown made his last report at 10 o'clock when his rowboat was fastened by a rope to a stationary log raft. The rope, however, apparently had been left too long, for once in the rush of the swift current the men were unable to hold the rope back and the length of the rope allowed the craft to drop just over the crest of the dam falls, from where the men were pitched headlong for a six-foot drop into the roaring waters beneath.

Brown is survived by a widow and five daughters. Two of the daughters are married and the three others reside at the camp, about forty miles from Seattle. Wilhite was a widower and is survived by a family of six or seven children. He had been employed by the light department more than five years and had charge of sluicing operations and work on the pipe lines of the Cedar Falls light plant. Brown had been employed by the city more than ten years.

Capture of what is reported to be the largest still ever seized in King County was announced by Sheriff Matt Starwick yesterday afternoon when deputy sheriffs returned from Woodville with a 250-gallon still, 200 gallons of moonshine whiskey and 600 gallons of mash. The owner of the outfit was not taken.
