One of Most Interesting Buildings in World Is Now Open to Public in National Capital.

Mr. Jernane's Dispatch.

Capital City Bureau, The Seattle Times, 905-6 Colorado Building.

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 16.—One of the most interesting buildings in the world, and undoubtedly the most interesting, in many ways, on this side of the Atlantic, is the new home of the National Academy of Sciences, in this city, that was dedicated late in April. To it will come many thousands of visitors in the course of every year, anxious to be brought into intimate touch with the phenomena of nature, and, each for himself, to perform the experiment of verify the discovery which the astronomer has made.

Heretofore Washington has been attractive to the sightseer for two reasons, mainly. He was interested in its natural beauty, its parks, its drives, its flowers and trees, and the wide open spaces that make it look like a great playground; and, of more importance to him than these things, in many cases, were its public buildings, with their historic associations, and the interest in government which they awakened.

In other words, a trip to Washington meant for the average visitor a trip to the most beautiful city in North America, and one of the most beautiful in the world; and while here he felt the visual appeal of patriotism as it was not, and could not be, felt in his own town.

Gives Added Interest.—But the new headquarters of the National Academy of Sciences will give Washington an additional interest. If the visitor has an inquiring mind, so far as the phenomena of natural science are concerned, he will be able, in an hour spent in the great rotunda, to get closer to nature, as she expresses herself in mundane affairs, and in the vast stretches of stellar space, than would be possible through months of weary study at home.

Although the building is not entirely completed, and its exhibits are not yet permanently arranged, the daily crowds are greater than can be accommodated with comfort. There is reason to believe that they will increase rather than diminish as the months and years go by; for nowhere else, on this side of the world at least, will it be possible for the average person, in a short time, and without previous preparation, to get into as close touch with cosmic forces and cosmic law.

Visitor Sees for Himself.—The new building occupies a prominent site overlooking Potomac Park, near the beautiful Lincoln Memorial. It cost about a million and a half dollars, not including the grounds, which were the gift of private donors. In March, 1919, the Carnegie Corporation of New York made a gift of $2,000,000 to the National Academy of Sciences for the erection of a building, its maintenance and the endowment of the National Research Council in its enterprise, therefore, will be self-supporting from the start.

The exhibits, both in the rotunda and in the rooms adjacent to it are different from those ordinarily found in museums.

STARLET'S FILM READY

"CAPTAIN JANUARY" PLEASES FIRST AUDIENCES.

Baby Peggy Wins Added Laurels in Her Latest Production, Rosenberg Reports.

FEATURE FILMS TONIGHT

"Hunchback of Notre Dame"—Columbia.
"Girl Shy"—Liberty.
"The Boy of Flanders"—Strand.
"Forty-Horse Hawkins"—Heilig.
"Mlle. Midnight"—Coliseum.
"Through the Dark"—Blue Mouse.

BABY PEGGY'S first production for Principal Pictures Corporation, "Captain January," is now completed. The film was given its first preview last week in Hollywood.

Reports indicate that "Captain January" is all that its producers thought it to be. It is in full feature length.

According to Mike Rosenberg, producer of Peggy's forthcoming pictures, "Captain January" is ideally suited to the stars and gives her every chance to display her many camera talents.

Edward F. Cline, director of Jackie Coogan's "Circus Days" and many other successful productions, is responsible for the direction of this first Peggy feature for Principal. Many important players will be seen in her support, chief among whom are Hobart Bosworth, Irene Rich, Lincoln Stedman, Harry Moray, Barbara Tennant, Emmett King and others of equal value to the screen.

"Maytime"—Coliseum.

Mae Murray will close her popular week at the Coliseum Theatre in "Mademoiselle Midnight" at the last showings tonight. Beginning tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock the screen production of the famous musical comedy, "Maytime," which has been seen and loved by millions of Americans, will occupy the Coliseum screen.

The alluring atmosphere of this romantic picture, which has been charmingly transferred to the silver screen. The picture opens with a frustrated love affair between a daughter of old New York and a young man and the gardener's son and then the action switches to their grandchildren, who pick up the romance and straighten things out. The Coliseum Concert Orchestra under Wine-land will be a feature of both bills.

"Yankee Consul"—Columbia.

Closing one of the greatest return engagements a motion picture has ever had in Seattle, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Universal's vivid screen version of the Victor Hugo classic, will leave the Columbia Theatre after its last performances tonight. Tomorrow will bring to the screen of the Columbia the film adaptation of "The Yankee Consul," the famous musical comedy in which Raymond Hitchcock starred more than twenty years ago. The film features Douglas MacLean, foremost among screen comedians, in the role of the wealthy New Yorker who is forced by circumstances to impersonate an American consul in South America. The picture is screamingly funny, those who have seen it say—better than "The Hotter" or "Goin' Up." "Libertus" Hauptmann's orchestra is featured on both programs.

Harold Lloyd—"Girl Shy" at the Liberty Theatre in his new laugh-provoker, "Girl Shy," which, by popular demand, is being held over for a short time at that playhouse. The spectator bows with laughter one moment and gasps for breath the next as Lloyd as he goes through his antics a faithful youth who loses his heart to the heroine of the story and in an attempt to save her from the clutches of the villain, starts on the wildest chase ever screened. He employs virtually every device known to mankind, stolen, borrowed or commandeered for service. Added attractions on the bill are a Sportlight, "Sporting Speed" and a scenic, showing the Grand Canyon of the Colorado from an airplane.

Jackie Coogan—"Strand."

Jackie Coogan's newest triumph, "A Boy of Flanders," taken from the famous Ouida novel, "A Dog of Flanders," will bring her engagement at the Strand Theatre to a close tonight. Coming there at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning will be "The Breaking Point," adapted by Paramount from the widely-read novel of the same name by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Matt Moore, Patsy Ruth Miller, Nita Naldi and George Fawcett have been cast in the principal characters. Moore portrays a man whose mind goes wrong when he thinks he has become a murderer. When he recovers his memory, the memory of the murder is lost in the depths of his subconscious mind, where it remains for ten years. Damski and his brilliant string ensemble will furnish music for both pictures.

Liberty—"Shoos" Captain Bartlett.

Captain Bartlett of North Pole fame, preparing to sail again, is being caused by the Liberty New camera and will be seen in the new weekly, which opens at the Liberty Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. A Seward School youngsters in their May frocks is a pretty sight also to be included in the news.

Chief Horse Gray Eagle, famous American Indian, visiting Seattle, and Estelle Dodge, a University of Washington student, who is the only girl graduate in forestry in the United States, add to the interest of the film.

Claire Windsor—"Blue Mouse."

Claire Windsor comes to the Blue Mouse Theatre tomorrow in the screen version of Owen Davis' melodrama, "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model." It is said that the attraction is brimming over with laughter and thrills. Lew Cody, Raymond Griffith, Mae Busch, Hobart Bosworth and Little Betsy Ann Hill, also a Seattle girl, are in the supporting cast of players.

Hoot Gibson—"Heilig."

Those who have recognized Hoot Gibson's star for comedy and his sought to see it expressed more fully have their wish in "Forty Horse Hawkins," his latest production, which opens at the Heilig theatre at 11 o'clock. A show within a show, with Hoot as the stage manager, transfer man, hotel clerk, waiter, fire department and what-not of the western village of Lariat, the picture is replete with highly humorous incidents. And Hoot proves to every one's satisfaction that he is a comic as well as a cowboy actor. The plot gets into action when handy-man Jerry falls for comedy and he goes off a visiting barnstorming company and finally follows her to New York. Hoot blunders around the big city, meeting rebuff after rebuff and unable to find his lady love, who by this time believed he had given up all thought of her.

ALIEN BILL AWAITS COOLIDGE'S ACTION

The House, 308 to 58, and by the Senate, 69 to 2, a majority of considerably more than two-thirds in each chamber.

The President has reached no decision with reference to his action on the bill and is expected to send it to the State and Labor Departments for study and recommendations before determining his course. He is understood, however, to have under consideration three possible conclusions—signature without comment, signature with a statement impressing disapproval of the exclusion clause, and return of the measure without signature but with an expression of approval for all provisions except the exclusion section.

Report of "Loophole" Denied.

Reports that a "loophole" was left in the immigration bill, as finally passed, were denied today by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who had charge of the measure on the floor of the Senate and in conference.

Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, called Senator Reed's attention to a published assertion that Japanese could continue to enter in virtually unlimited numbers as traders. The Pennsylvania senator replied that the same privilege had been held between friendly nations for hundreds of years.

"It obtains today between the United States and China," he said, "and has been written into every immigration bill. In the new law, however, we have gone so far as to authorize the requirement of bond from every person entering under this condition to insure departure within a reasonable period.

"I can assure the Senate there is nothing in this theory of a loophole."

Opposition Small but Firm.

Despite the big majorities finally rolled up in its favor, the conference report did not meet with smooth sailing in either house yesterday, though no objection was raised to the final action of the conference on the Japanese exclusion provision.

House members who voted and spoke against the report virtually without exception were those who opposed the bill in conference. There was a different story, however, in the Senate. Objection there first came on the departure from the original Senate bill against making any exception to the 2 per cent quotas for European nations based on the census of 1900, and then on the alien seamen's provisions, which were contended by some senators as tending to weaken the LaFollette Seamen's Act.

Administration leaders in both the House and Senate voted for adoption of the report. They had contended from the first that the immigration problem was a purely domestic one and thus within the control of Congress, and not the executive department of the government, under the Constitution.

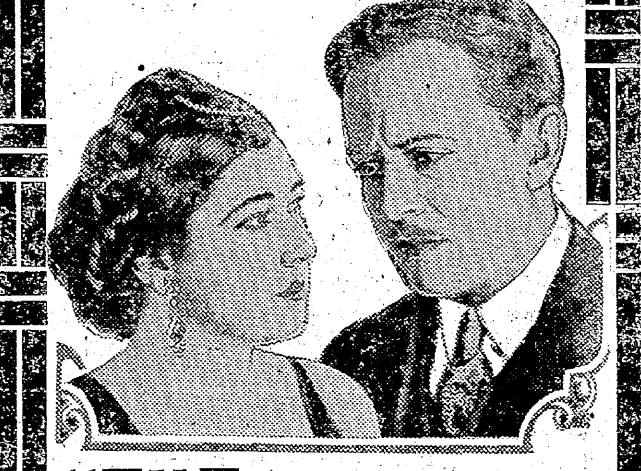

Shipstead Motion Lost.

There were efforts in both houses to recommit the report with instructions. That in the House, which was sponsored by Representative Sabath, Illinois, ranking Democrat on the immigration committee, was voted down, 246 to 35. Senator Shipstead moved to recommit in the Senate, but his motion was ruled out on a point of order raised by Senator Reid, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the
