

THE END OF A PERFECT DAY IN THE HIGH CASCADES

A heavy fall of snow and the setting winter sun behind Table Mountain near Mount Baker combine to form an ideal setting for the lone skier trudging back to camp after an invigorating run over the frozen slopes.—Gerald F. Dwyer Photo.

A HOBBY THAT IS LIKE- LY TO LAST A LIFETIME: JACK ROSEN- KRANZ, JR.

When the University Kiwanis Club sponsored a hobby show for boys and girls this 18-year-old angler entered his twelve-pound catch from the Stillaguamish River. The display in the Brooklyn Building this month attracted 166 entries.

OH! WHAT WILL MAMA SAY WHEN SHE FINDS US IN HERE?

Six tiny Scotty pups, very new residents of Seattle, take it upon themselves to investigate the food situation. After the investigation there was a temporary shortage.

W. S. C. GALLANT TAKES CO-ED TO CLASS

A mere two feet of snow fail to balk Joe Caraher, 2717 E. 33rd St., Seattle. His fair passenger on the campus "taxi" is Miss Eleanor Allen of Twist.

MANY RACES AND CREEDS MINGLE AT EVENING OF INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP

In costumes of their native lands, representatives of far-flung corners of the earth attend a Young Women's Christian Association gathering. Standing, left to right: Russia, Nicholas Mihailoff; China, Miss Louise Hwang; Negro, Mrs. L. C. Young; Scotland, William W. Dow. Sitting: America, Miss Norma Jenner; Japan, Miss Mary Nakamura; Italy, Miss Milly Pastorelli. On floor: Korea, Gladys Chang.

ANY DAY AND ANY DOCK ALONG SEATTLE'S WATERFRONT

Scores of fishermen and as many curious bystanders can be found at any hour of the day on the ends of the long piers of Seattle Harbor. With many of the patient Isaac Waltons it is a very important source of food.

MEDIEVAL CASTLE SILENT SYMBOL OF FADED ADVENTURE TO MODERN KNIGHT

Jerry surveys the work of his father, Ed Manley, in the yard of their home, 7714 Fourth Ave. N. E. There are 30,000 hand-made bricks in the model.

W. S. C. GALLANT TAKES CO-ED TO CLASS
A mere two feet of snow fail to balk Joe Caraher, 2717 E. 33rd St., Seattle. His fair passenger on the campus "taxi" is Miss Eleanor Allen of Twist.