

BANQUET TO OPEN PRODUCTS WEEK

What Washington has to offer in the war effort, and what the future holds for Washington manufacturers, will be told at the annual Washington Products banquet tomorrow night at the New Washington Hotel.

The dinner meeting, sponsored by the Manufacturers' Association of Washington, will feature Lieut. Col. C. O. Thrasher, commanding the Quartermaster Corps' Seattle General Depot, and Harold D. Van Eaton, state supervisor of purchasing.

Gov. Arthur B. Langlie has officially proclaimed February 16 to 21 as Washington Products Week. State-wide observances also will be under auspices of the Manufacturers' Association, according to R. P. Thymian, association president.

Many Groups Aid More than 700 women's clubs, service organizations and other consumer groups are aiding in the week's observance, as are members of organized labor. Colonel Thrasher will tell of opportunities for permanent new manufacturing enterprises as a result of the Army's efforts to purchase 7,800 war items here.

$345,000,000 in Wages More than 5,000 Washington factories, employing more than 200,000 men and women, last year paid more than $345,000,000 in wages to Washington residents, declared Paul E. Kiker, Washington Products Week chairman.

"Continued purchases of Washington-made merchandise and products keep payroll dollars high," Kiker said. "This money remains in the state, goes into local trade channels, and helps build Washington."

Queen Anne Club To See Defense Picture

KEY PUNCH

V. TYPISTS URGENTLY NEEDED

There are all types of positions that are open in Civil Service and defense and other industries. Hundreds of jobs waiting and salaries remain unfilled.

You are going to do your bit. Why not do it right? We will do the most good-expediting work and relieving some executive headaches by frantically keeping things moving.

Senior and physical and typing are as a mechanical means to learn as a means not only proving satisfactory working conditions but they have definite post-war values as well.

Key punch also in demand. The government minimum requirement is sixty hours of training.

Rabbi Koch Pays Tribute to Late Sidney Strong

As a tribute to an address by Rabbi Samuel Koch on "Religious Freedom" before the King County Democratic Club yesterday at Meves cafeteria, George F. Cotterill, former mayor, recalled that he had appointed Koch to the Seattle Library Board 30 years ago.

"It was years later," Rabbi Koch said with a smile, "that another mayor removed me with five other members of the board summarily. However, I have lived a good life since."

Rabbi Koch paid tribute to the late Sidney Strong, with whom he often had exchanged pulpits.

Rabbi Koch traced religious movements with the histories of Europe and America, and asserted that the guarantee of religious liberty in the American Bill of Rights was in the nature of a compromise.

"Everybody wanted his own religion to be the state religion and, since none could have his way, they decided nobody else should prevail," Rabbi Koch said.

Green's Cigar Store Will Celebrate 30th Anniversary

Interior of Green's Cigar Store today. Thirty-year-old firm now has 55 employees, large quarters.

Founded in 1912 by Irving Green in a small shop in the Savoy Hotel Building, Green's Cigar Store, now occupying large quarters at 1311 Third Ave. as the result of successive expansion moves, will celebrate its 30th anniversary this week.

Ranking as one of Seattle's largest cigar stores and restaurant combinations, Green's Cigar Store today includes 55 persons on its payroll, in contrast with the two men who constituted the staff of the first store. Associated with Green today are Joe Bernbaum, secretary-treasurer of the firm, and Milt Fox, in charge of the restaurant and bar. Bernbaum joined the firm in 1929. Fox became associated with it in 1925.

Specializing in complete service to smokers, the firm also features speedy, modern restaurant service which has won wide popularity among both men and women. Bernbaum said. The volume is growing constantly, day account for more than one-fourth of the restaurant patronage. The firm was one of the first in Seattle to undertake sales of defense stamps. It now sells more than $500 worth each week and the volume is growing constantly, Bernbaum said. Cashing of paychecks also is a service of the store.

GIRLS TO HOLD 2-DAY CONFAB

The annual high school Camp Fire Girls' conference, held alternately in Seattle and Portland, will be held February 27 and 28 on the University of Washington campus.

Girls from Bellingham, Portland, Yakima, Wenatchee and communities of the Seattle Council of Camp Fire Girls will attend. Camp Scouts and Girl Reserves will join with the Camp Fire Girls in the Saturday afternoon and evening programs.

Times-Park Board Kite Contest to Open Feb. 28

In garages and attics, in basements and woodsheds of homes throughout the city, serious-faced youngsters were busy yesterday. Sometimes they paused, to peer skyward through a window at a kite, a white speck now, far up in the blue.

It wasn't only the gusty winds, harbingers of real kite weather, that spurred them to their intent and industrious tasks. It was something else, too.

The annual Times-Park Board contest is just around the corner. In fact, it's not quite two weeks away.

Preliminaries will be held Saturday, February 28, at the following playfields and hours: Alki, Schmitz Boulevard and West Stevens Street, 10 a. m.; Loyal Heights, 21st Avenue North and West 77th Street, 9 a. m.; Collins, 15th Avenue South and Washington Street, 1:30 p. m.; Green Lake Playfield, East Green Lake, 10:30; Hiawatha, California Avenue and West Lander Street, 9 a. m.; Rainier, Rainier Avenue and Alaska Streets, 12:30.

Other fields listed: Other fields are South Park, Eighth Avenue South and Thistle Street, 11 a. m.; Mercer, Second Avenue North and Republican Street, 11:30; Broadway, 10th Avenue and East Pine Street, 12:30; Laurelhurst, 45th Avenue North and East 45th Street, 1:30; and Montlake, 16th Avenue North and Calhoun Street, 2:30.

Four classes of kites will be eligible for the contests, each being flown in their respective classes. These are: Class A—Open to boys 14 years old or under. This is the strong-pulling class. Box, war and other kites registering strong pulls should be entered. Strong pull, measured with a scales, was the Class B—Boys 14 and younger.

for the best-decorated kites, which will be judged for artistic design, beauty of construction and grace in flight. Miniature Division Class C—Boys 12 or younger; racing class. Contestants are allowed a helper, who holds the kite at a distance of 100 feet from the flyer before the ascent. Each contestant will receive a ball of string to use on his kite. The first boy whose kite takes out the whole ball of twine, and then is reeled back on the launchings or during flight.

Class D—Boys 14 or younger; miniature division. Kites shall be constructed of balsa, cedar or spruce sticks, none of which may be longer than 8 inches. Sticks may be bound with heavy-weight thread and covered with tissue or model airplane paper or cellophane. The models will be flown with heavy thread. They will be judged for ingenuity of construction and grace in flight. Boys will be eligible for Class D and one other only.

Only kites constructed by the entrants are eligible in any of the classifications. The finals will be held the morning of March 7 at Lower Woodland Park Playfield at 10 o'clock. The four winners of each class at the various playfields will be eligible to compete.

Boys should enter preliminaries at the playfield nearest their homes, and should enter the contest at only one field.

ASK YOUR DENTIST TO EXPLAIN TO YOU THE ADVANTAGES OF THE BEAUTIFUL NEW STYLE Translucent Teeth

LIFE-LIKE IN APPEARANCE REALISTIC IN DESIGN

Nature's plan is to give you teeth that "conform with your face." Scientists in the making of artificial teeth have tried to "follow Nature's formula." Now after years of painstaking research they have produced the "new translucent teeth" that are acclaimed by dentists everywhere for their "realistic harmony." In setting the "natural appearing" translucent teeth, dentists strive to select the shade and mold best adapted to the "individual complexion" and "facial contour" of the patient. We all want to "retain the good looks" to whatever degree "Nature has endowed" us and to have a "smile of charm and confidence" inspired by the knowledge that one's artificial teeth "cannot be distinguished" from beautiful "natural teeth." Thanks to science, dentists now use and praise the "modern translucent teeth" because
