HONORED IN FILM

It was more than fitting that one of the great slogans of the present war should arise in connection with the exploits of the United States Marlnes. Such a phrase as "Remember Wake Island" has captured the nation's hearts, and bids fair to be long remembered after the war is over.

Famous fighting slogans of the nation's forces came in for some discussion during the filming of "To the Shores of Tripoli," providing excitement and romantic drama at the 5th Avenue Theatre. Discussing the relative merits of such famous phrases as "Damn the Torpedoes." "Remember the Alamo," "We Have Just Begun to Fight," "Don't Shoot Until You See the Whites of Their Eyes." and others were Maureen O'Hara. John Payne and Randolph Scott, who are starred in the film.

They agreed that "Remember Wake Island" and the famous "Send Us More Japs" reply of the embattled Marines were the most stirring of American history.

"To the Shores of Tripoli," which gives the behind-the-scenes story of the training of the United States Marine Corps, is supplemented with the appealing story of "On the Sunny Side," which brings stardom to the talented English lad, Roddy McDowall.

To Close Run Here Tonight

Seattle is preparing to bid farewell to Edward Everett Horton tonight, whose engagement in "Springtime for Henry" at the Metropolitan Theatre has proved one of the most successful of the theatre season. A final popular-priced matinee will be given this afternoon.

Horton is rounding out his second banner week at The Metropolitan as the amusing Henry Dewlip in the Benn W. Levy comedy. It is played to the hilt by Horton and his company, which includes Gavin Muir. Eleanor Lawson, Marjorie Wilson, Henri Caubisens and Marie Ellis.

Barry Nelson, is at the Roosevelt Theatre.
Dramatically presented, the picture opens in New York, where Nelson, a cocksure taxi driver, agrees to lead a fleet of trucks over the Burma Road for a Chinese society. At Rangoon he meets Miss Day, who tricks him into smuggling her into China, where she expects to meet her husband, a soldier of fortune.

Also at the Roosevelt is "The Men in Her Life," starring Loretta Young and Conrad Veidt.
