CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Women Volunteers Needed For Warning-Service Work

Women volunteers are needed urgently for filter-board work at Aircraft Warning Service headquarters, the volunteer office of the Civilian War Commission reported today. Workers are needed on all shifts, but especially the one from midnight to 7 o'clock.

The Aircraft Warning Service is a civilian unit that works with the 4th Interceptor Command in charting the sources of all airplanes reported in the western part of the state and in warning civilian and military authorities if the planes appear to be hostile.

Air-raid wardens of Precincts 410, 411, 416, 417, 419 and 420, Section 53, Southwest Zone, will meet Friday night at 8 o'clock at Beacon Hill School.

The 32nd District Legislative Committee will hear Dr. L. H. McRorie explain Seattle's civilian war activities tonight at 8 o'clock at 4033 University Way.

Emergency First Aid Unit No. 2, directed by Col. George M. Hurst, will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the Field Artillery Armory, 305 Harrison St. Emergency

These Home Defense Infantry Regiments will meet tomorrow night.

Company E, 2nd Battalion, University Heights School; Company H, 2nd Battalion, auxiliary police unit, Temple de Hirsch; Company I, 3rd Battalion, Presbyterian Church, Hunter Boulevard at Handford Street; Company M, Columbia police station, Company A, 1st Battalion, will meet at 5410 Ballard Ave., Friday night.

The Civilian War Commission will meet with Mayor Millikin in his offices Friday at 11 o'clock.

Publishers' Association at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Walter M. Dear, president of the A. N. P. A., said newspapers must be more vigilant at an early date against "a pressure for the writing of bills and the enactment of statutes without parallel."

Dear, general manager of the Jersey City Journal, emphasized that the large amount of legislation to which he referred was "of the broadest comprehension and the most drastic innovation" and that the laws were both numerous and important.

"It has not been possible for the lawmakers themselves to digest or to understand fully the effect and wide implication of even a small fraction of what they have enacted," he said.

"We must, therefore, be abreast of this long-continuing flood of laws, as abreast of it as we can be, or we shall be subject to the likelihood of finding all too suddenly that onerous rules, regulations and demands are upon us, with nothing to be done about it."

Dear told the publishers the United States government should use paid advertising to promote the sale of war bonds just as it paid for other war material.

"It has been suggested that real effort to induce payment for government advertising would indicate a deficient patriotism and a failure to subordinate personal interest to the national interest," he said. "The fallacy of that objection seems obvious. Advertising is professional in its skill and execution; and the equipment for newspaper advertising represents, in addition, very substantial industrial and business investment, including extensive employment of skilled labor and large consumption of commodity goods."

Opposition Noted

"These considerations should of themselves be enough to place the principle upon which government advertising should be paid for, on a moral and rational par with that upon which other government services and goods are paid for. . . It is prudent to realize that for some time it has been obvious that certain government departments and members of Congress are inclined to discourage, by one means or another, the use of advertising, and thus through ill will or utter heedlessness to injure the main source of newspaper income."

"Particularly, I refer to the original suggestion that advertising expense be not allowed as deductible by firms engaged in war work. Certain officers of the Treasury Department are presently suggesting that this principle of nondeductibility, as applied to war contracts, be given general application to all forms of business. If this is established, it will go hard with every commercial line."

CASE SURVEYS TIMBER CUTTING

State Treasurer Otto Case, in his capacity as a member of the State Parks Commission, today visited the area east of Enumclaw along the Naches Highway to take photographs and to get additional information to aid in the movement to save the magnificent stand of timber near the roadside.

Lumbering operations between Enumclaw and Greenwater River have removed timber from thousands of acres along one of the state's finest highways.

Secretary of State Belle Reeves, chairman of the commission, visited the area last week, and joined with Case and with Commissioner of Conservation Jack Taylor in requesting Gov. Arthur B. Langlie to include the preservation of highway beauty in his long-range forestry program.

$300,000 Fund Asked

In the 1941 Legislature, Case and other members of the commission sponsored Senate Bill 77, to appropriate $300,000 to purchase timberlands along the Naches Highway. The bill died in committee.

Good-roads advocates objected to the measure on the ground that it diverted money from the Motor Vehicle Fund. Similar measures were defeated in two previous sessions.

Six years ago, when it was proposed to exchange the privately-owned timber for school lands, the area was valued at $2,200,000. School interests expressed doubt that the state authorities had the right to set aside, as unproductive, lands which should contribute an income to the permanent school fund.

Now the War Department wants the particular kind of timber found in the area east of Enumclaw. So urgent is the demand for the tall, slender trees that the question of opening certain parts of the Olympic National Park to selective logging is being studied by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes.

Much Land Denuded

"Although large areas adjacent to the Naches Pass Highway have been denuded of timber, it is possible still to preserve much of the highway beauty," Case said.

Land Commissioner Taylor has indicated he will sell none of the state's holdings in that vicinity and, of course, the Snoqualmie National Forest will remain.

"Our most pressing problem is to save what we can of the timber in the vicinity of the Greenwater and Clearwater Rivers. The tract owned by the State Federation of Women's Clubs is exposed to the same danger as the federation's tract on the Sunset Highway—adjacent protective forest leaves the tract exposed to storms."

Would Preserve Beauties

"While the bill we shall present to the 1943 Legislature had not been drafted, it will contain provision for a general plan for preserving scenic beauties of our highways."

"It will authorize the State Parks Commission to take steps to save the Naches Pass Highway area from destruction and any other area which appears to present an emergency problem. I believe that public sentiment will strongly support such a bill."

Young Speeder Changes Mind On Stay in Jail

Glen Jacobsen, 618 W. 74th St., 19-year-old Ballard High School pupil, who elected yesterday to spend three days in the city jail rather than pay a speeding fine, which he said was unjust, changed his mind last night when friends appeared with $10 bail. He allowed them to bail him out.

Jacobsen was arrested in Leary Way March 25 by Traffic Patrolman E. E. Covell, who testified yesterday in Police Judge James W. Hodson's court that Jacobsen was speeding 44 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

Probationer, Held, May Have to Serve

Holding Lindquist, 42 years old, of 1816 1/2 Terry Ave., was held today in the county jail on charges of violating probation granted him when he was given a suspended sentence on a liquor charge in 1939.

When Lindquist pleaded guilty to charges of retailing liquor without having a federal license in 1939, United States District Judge John C. Bowen sentenced him to serve 12 months, but the sentence was suspended on condition Lindquist report regularly to probation officers and refrain from drinking.

Walter K. Bowling, chief probation officer, said he will request the court to revoke Lindquist's suspended sentence because he had failed to meet those terms.

Auxiliary Police Seek More Motorcyclists

Station wagon and motorcycle owners are invited to volunteer for the auxiliary police corps of the Home Defense Infantry Regiment at the Field Artillery Armory. The corps now has about 80 motorcycle owners and needs 150. It plans a station-wagon unit of 80 cars. Volunteers may report at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Armory.

COUNTY CLOSE TO $57,900 IN BACK BUDGET BALANCE PAY AUTHORIZED

A check-up on King County's financial status for the first quarter of the year by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday showed that gains in revenues or decreases in expected expenditures totaled $91,586, while declines in revenue or higher expenditures amounted to $101,000.

Thus, the commissioners found, county finances at the end of the first quarter were "out of line" only about $9,500.

The hearing was marked by objections by members of the Seattle Municipal League to the board of commissioners' action ordering 125 new voting machines at a cost of $144,500. League members, Alfred J. Westberg, Jack M. Geoffrey and John N. Rupp, asked the board whether that many voting machines actually were needed and whether small precincts could not get along "just as well" by using paper ballots.

Commissioner Archie E. Phelps responded that an increase of about 90,000 in the county's population under the voting-machine purchase necessary. Commissioner Russell H. Fluent added that "voting machines are fairer than the old paper ballots."

Results of the financial check-up on all county departments showed that County Assessor Roy B. Moxley expects $11,500 more in taxes than previously. Fluent predicted a $30,000 upturn in county property rentals and a $25,000 savings from the veterans' relief budget, while Phelps reported an increase of $25,000 in county airport rentals.

On the other side of the ledger, County Treasurer Ralph S. Stacy said tax rebates would be $14,000 more than the previous estimates.

A $25,000 emergency appropriation to handle a 44 per cent increase in county-jail inmates loomed as a probability, and a $32,000 decline in tax-delinquent property sales was estimated by Fluent.

But not to "pass the time away." Just the reverse—to save every precious moment in the transportation of vital war materials—to provide rapid troop movement.

The carefully maintained right-of-way, heavy well ballasted rails mean smooth, efficient transportation to withstand the constant stream of fast freight and passenger trains, which are keeping the rails polished.

Japanese Pastor Would Serve At Puyallup Camp

The Seattle Japanese Methodist Church will attempt to provide church services at the Japanese evacuation assembly center at Puyallup, the Rev. T. J. Machida, pastor, said today.

The church has a membership of 700.

Mr. Machida said the congregation has adopted a resolution expressing appreciation of privileges enjoyed during residence in Seattle.

"It is a humiliating experience for anyone to be compelled to live behind barbed wire," the resolution also stated. "It is even more humiliating to have one's essential patriotism doubted."

The floor area of the Library of Congress is more than 13 acres.

WE'VE BEEN WORKIN' ON THE RAILROAD

Payment of $57,900 in back-wage restitution to 1,034 workers engaged in occupations covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act was authorized by the Seattle branch office of the Wage and Hour Division last month, Walter T. Neuberger, manager, said today.

The largest individual payments were $1,450 to Eric Lincoln and $1,178 to Chris Johnson, employees of the Mason County Logging Company at Boredeau.

Since last July, the Seattle office has authorized payments to 6,947 employees for the total amount of $246,317.
