Awakened by a prowler in his room, G. I. Angell, 218 17th Ave. S., chased the intruder down the stairs and out the back door about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

"I was awakened by a noise in the room," Angell told police later. "Who's there?" I asked, there was no answer, but a man started out of the room. I gave chase. I stopped when he got outside."

Police said the man apparently had been prowling about the house for some time before he was discovered because Mrs. Angell's attic containing $5, was taken and $15 was taken from the purse of Catherine Calderon, with whom the Angells are staying.

IN WOODY'S 'HALL OF FAME'

Joining the ranks of the "immortals" in the Times-Park Board Old Woodface contest, 13-year-old Robert Montgomery is hoisted on the shoulders of his Gilman Playfield mates after making a perfect score: 27 strikeouts. This is the second year in a row that he has won at Gilman. Robert is the first this season to make so high a score.

Gilman Boy's 27 Strikeouts Equal Best Woody Record

WOODENFACE SCHEDULE Today..... University Tomorrow..... Brighton Saturday..... Garfield Monday..... Miller Tuesday..... South Park Wednesday..... Madrona School-day contests begin at 3:30 o'clock; Saturday's, 9:30 o'clock.

Setting a new season record of 27 strikeouts and winning for the second consecutive year, Robert Montgomery, 13 years old, won the baseball-pitching championship of Gilman Playfield yesterday afternoon in the ninth preliminary contest of The Times-Park Board Old Woodface contest.

Bob defeated 131 other youngsters as he pitched a "perfect game," equaling the best record ever made in Old Woody's 22-year history.

It was just another day of baseball to Bob as he threw ball after ball at Woody. After he reached the contest's limit of 27 strikeouts, the other entrants showed their enthusiasm and admiration by lifting him to their shoulders and carrying him around the field.

For 'Mom and Dad'

Bob was duty-bound to win. "My mom and dad and sister were counting on me to win again this year," he said. "I just couldn't have disappointed them for the world, although I almost did. I had to play a baseball game after school and I just about missed registering for the contest. To tell the truth, I think I was the last one to sign up."

After winning, Bob said he believes that lots of practice is necessary to acquire rhythm and grace.

"A friend and I practice almost every afternoon," he said. "We make it a point to do this every day without fail. Our coach says that consistency is a large part of a pitcher's routine."

Every afternoon when school lets out, Bob rushes home to do his chores such as chopping the kindling and bringing in coal. After finishing he jumps on his bike and rides to the playfield, where some of his friends are playing ball.

Works in Victory Garden

"Mother has a Victory Garden at the side of the house and I work in it quite a bit, too," Bob said. "We planted onions, radishes, tomatos, potatoes and some raspberry bushes. We also have another garden up on North 76th Street, but I seldom go to there and work."

"My first ambition is to be a flyer in the Navy and then, after I get out, I'd like to play professional baseball. Of course, I'd have to practice some place to keep in form."

For his other hobbies, Bob builds model airplanes and collects stamps for his album.

Winning yesterday's contest entitles Bob to compete in the North District semifinal at Green Lake Playfield, May 27. If he wins there, he will represent the district in the all-city finals at Sick's Seattle Stadium, May 29, when the Old Woodface finals will be held as an added attraction before a Seattle-Los Angeles Coast League game.

Each of the 33 playfield winners will be awarded $2.50 worth of war-savings stamps by The Times. The all-city winner will receive an $18.75 war bond, which will mature at $25 in ten years.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Montgomery, 821 W. 51st St. He is an eighth-grade pupil at James Monroe Junior High School.

Clive Odenrider Second

Second place went to Clive Odenrider, 11, of 6046 Fourth Ave. N. W. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Odenrider and is a sixth-grade pupil at West Woodland School. Third was Donald Angove, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Angove, 220 N. 57th St. He is in the sixth grade at West Woodland School.

To be eligible for the contest, boys must not have reached their 14th birthday by April 13, day of the opening contest.

All contestants, win or lose, will be given tickets which will admit them free to the "all-city" finals and the Coast League game at Sick's Seattle Stadium. Each boy must be accompanied by an admission-paying adult.

Yesterday's contestants were:

Eugene Paculla, 13, 5507 Fourth Ave. N. W.; Chuck Ramey, 13, 815 Market St.; David Walloch, 11, 120 W. 49th St.; Jack Angove, 10, 220 N. 57th St.; Donald Angove, 11, 220 N. 57th St.; Fred Kerr, 10, 6722 Seventh Ave. N. # CITY TO WAIT ON KREML REPORT

The City Council today decided to await reports of Police Chief Herbert D. Kinney and J. W. A. Bollong, city traffic engineers, before deciding what shall be done about adopting the traffic reports of Maxwell Halsey and Franklin M. Kreml.

The council delegated William L. Norton, its public safety chairman, to arrange a conference of the council with the chief, Bollong and City Engineer Charles L. Wartelle. After that conference, a public hearing will be scheduled at which citizens may express their views, council members said.

The hearing is expected to take place next week.

Bollong and the chief have been asked by the council to recommend how much of the program suggested by the traffic experts shall be undertaken by the city, and what the cost will be.

City Engineer Wartelle will be asked to report on how traffic problems have changed since the surveys were made by Halsey and Kreml.

SEWER PROJECT SOLONS TO ASK HALTED BY BOARD M'NEIL PROBE

The Municipal Board of Public Works today halted the Seattle Housing Authority's construction of a sewer system that the Holly Park defense-housing project and ordered housing engineers to meet with city officials to draw a new sewer plan.

The board called the proposed system inadequate and said it might flood the neighborhood.

In a letter filed with the board, City Engineer Charles L. Wartelle said:

"This is the first time that the complete plans for this project have been submitted to us. However, we find that the work of laying some of the sewers already is well under way. In examining the plans, we find that some of the sewer sizes . . . are inadequate to fit in with our future extension of the sewerage system in that part of the city."

Main Held Too Small

The city engineer also complained that the project's system had been connected with an 18-inch sewer drain running through the Van Asselt Playfield, though the City Engineering Department had objected when informed by the Park Department that it was contemplated. Wartelle said a 24-inch main should be constructed.

Jesse Epstein, housing authority director, and M. O. Syllassen, former city engineer who designed the sewer plan for the housing body, said they had understood the plans would meet with the city's approval.

Dainage Overlooked

Board Chairman W. C. Morse and Wartelle told Epstein the authority had not considered the drainage waters that flow into the area from land above the housing site.

"Well, the entire problem was to provide for sewage for 900 units of the project," Epstein said.

"No, that is not by any means the entire problem," Morse declared. "You have to plan for all the drainage water for territory that will affect the system."

Morse said rainfall from territory near the project will drain into the projects sewers and then into the city drains, and this would overburden the sewerage system as planned, flooding not only the housing project area but surrounding land.

Complaints Undefined

M. J. Fassbinder, president of the A. F. of L. local union, declined today to define the specific complaints made by his union, through Sanders.

"The just involve general working conditions," Fassbinder said. "They are mostly personal things, small complaints which do not merit a lot of publicity."

"There are some things we ask for which our local superiors are not authorized to give us, and we have to take such matters up with the Prison Bureau. That's why we sent a man back there."

Warden Now Away

Warden Squier could not be reached for comment today. He is recovering from an operation and will not return to duty until May 1.

Acting Warden W. J. Haniger said he could not comment on the charges. He said, however, that Representative Coffee has been consistently critical of the prison administration, even before Mr. Squier became warden.

Coffee said he also had protested to Bennett against an order requiring the killing of all deer on the penitentiary island. The congressman said the animals were being exterminated with rifles and shotguns.

Haniger verified the deer-killing order: "We're killing them all, right," Haniger said. "They are destroying all our young fruit trees. We have put a lot of money into orchards over here."

Haniger said the 180 civilian employees of the penitentiary are divided into two unions, the second one being an independent organization.

Coffee said the prison employees complained that Squier had been instructed by the Federal Prison Bureau to confer with a delegation of guards and custodial employees over working conditions, but had refused to do so.

Men in Service Ask Band-Music Instruments

Usable dance-band instruments now tucked away in Seattle basements or closets would help brighten the Service Men's Club, 1322 Second Ave., members of the civilian staff at the club said today.

The club has become increasingly popular as a rest and entertainment headquarters during the year it has been in operation. Its doors are never locked.

"There are many excellent professional musicians among the boys in the service who come to the club," said Mrs. Ethel Briggs, the club staff. "If they had instruments to play they would be only too happy to entertain other lads."

The club has two pianos, as well as a couple of banjos which have been donated. Especially welcomed would be such instruments as a drum set, saxophones, trumpets, trombones, violins or a "bull fiddle."

Club officials praised the cooperation of the Musicians' Union which sends a dance orchestra every Wednesday night. The union members donate their time.

CARE FOR YOUR CAR FOR YOUR COUNTRY AT THE SIGN OF FINE PRODUCTS

A petition from 28 citizens, headed by Howard Lee Nostrand, 5008 22nd Ave. N. E., today asked the City Council to treat "with all possible courtesy and fairness" the Japanese who are being evacuated from Seattle.

The petition referred to a refusal of the Council to grant a refund to an interned Japanese on an unused municipal golf-course card.

It said this "appeared to represent a policy capable of causing antagonism and bitterness, and of counteracting the hard work of those other citizens who are laboring to conduct the evacuation in a spirit of kindness and good will."

The petition contained no Japanese names. It urged that refunds be made for any unused golf cards.

For use with table lamps a new fluorescent tube is circular in shape.
