and Parker. The sheriff's officers are determined that Collins and Parker, the alleged bank robbers, shall have no further chance to cause an excitement in the county jail. Today two Oregon boots, weighing about fifteen pounds each, were received from the Walla Walla penitentiary. They are intended for the alleged robbers, and will probably adorn the legs of the prisoners tonight. Deputy Sheriff Burke said today that it seemed necessary to take every precaution known to jail authorities in the case of Collins and Parker. Collins is an immensely powerful man, and on Saturday night last he not only broke off his own shackles, but he assisted Parker to remove his.

JOHN BULL'S FISH Halibut May Cause an International Wrangle.

American Schooners Accused of Taking Fish Too Near Britain's Island Pessessions in Pacific.

There is likely to be an international dispute between this country and Canada concerning the alleged raids of the Puget Sound halibut vessels on the halibut banks concerning the alleged raids of the Puget Sound hallbut vessels on the hallbut banks of British Columbia. At the Instance of British Columbia fishermen the Victoria officials have taken the matter up, and there is a strong likelihood that the matter will be referred to the Government for diplomatic discussion.

The British Columbia fishing schooner Quatesino of Victoria brought the matter to a head a few days ago by reporting that she sighted several Puget Sound fishing vessels defiantly flying the Statrs and Stripes running in for Bull Horbor from the banks, while two other American boats were calmly fishing off Hope Island, helping themselves, as the Victorians say.

In local fishing off Hope Island, helping themselves, as the Victorians say.

In local fishing circle but little could be ascertained about the matter today. It is claimed by several that the American hallitle careless about edging too near the International line, when the run of fish became a little slow and skippers were anxious to secure a quick cargo. This, however, it is claimed, is also true of the British Columbia fieet. It is so hard to distinguish just where the marine league line begins and ends sometimes, and many cases of this alleged poaching have resulted merely because of the skipper's carelessanss.

Tragic Fate of Young Katie Loftus.

Burned Unto Death While Lighting the Kitchen Fire at Night.

The Little Girl Lingered in Great Agony Until Early This Morning.

Katie Loftus, a girl 14 years of age, was fatally and frightfully burned yesterday afternoon at the residence of her parents, Tenth Avenue and East Fir Street. The girl lived nearly twelve hours, but every moment was one of terrible agony, and death came between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning.

The girl was alone in the house at the time the accident occurred. Her mother works out, and it has been the child's custom to prepare supper after her return time the accident occurred. Her mother works out, and it has been the child's custom to prepare supper after her return from school. Yesterday afternoon she started a fire about 4 o'clock, and in doing so she poured a quantity of kerosene oil on the kindling before touching a match to it. The moment the match touched the kindling it blazed up and ignited the girl's skirts. She attempted to extinguish the flames with her hands, and in doing so her sleeves caught fire also.

People living in the neighborhood were suddenly startied by seeing Miss Loftus rush out into the yard, her clothes a mass of seething flames. She acreamed terribly, and some well-meaning people who rushed to her assistance threw several buckets of cold water upon her. This, the physicians say, was an unwise way in which to put out the flames, as it added materially to the shock already received. The proper way, it is claimed, to put out flames which threaten to cause the death of a human being, is to smother them out. The girl was carried back into the house and medical aid was sent for. Dr. Hardman arrived, soon followed by the girl's parents. Everything possible was done to save the injured child's life and to alleviate her sufferings. Toward midnight Dr. P. B. M. Miller was summoned to assist Dr. Hardman, and both physicians did all in their power for her. She suffered terribly until early this morning, when death relieved her.

The case was reported to Coroner Sparing this morning, and under his direction the body was removed to Bonney & Stewart's morgue. It is unlikely that an inquest will be held.

BOYCOTT ON JAPANESE. Quiet Attempt to Run Out the Cheap Restaurants.

A boycott on the Japanese restaurants was ordered at noon today by the Cooks' and Waiters' Union. The union gave as their reasons for so doing that the long their reasons for so doing that the Japs would not employ white labor, and that the whites could not compete with them, because they needed more money to live and had to demand more in the matter of wages.

had to demand more in the matter of wages.

In reply to the order for a boycott, Charley Sesake, proprietor of the Queen City chop house, on Occidental Avenue, said:

"What grounds have they to boycott us?
We can get white labor as cheap and even cheaper than we can hire Japs. As it is, we pay our Japanese waiters $30 a month and lodging, and that is more, to my personal knowledge, than lots of white chop house men pay their hands.

"They can't run me out; that is a poor idea they have. I have as much right here as any one as long as I pay my bills. If people can't get what they want here, why, I can't help it. I do the best I can. I don't see why the union has it in for us anyway. The Japanese restaurants have subscribed over $500 for their labor temple, and I gave $100 mysslf. Let them start their boycott, and they will find Sesake right here when it is over."

NOW IN SESSION

Trans-Pacific Steamship Conference and Its Results.

Local Railroad Office Moved Today --- Break in Passenger Rates. Personal Movements.

Summing up the import of the conference now in progress in San Francisco between the transcontinental railway lines and the steamship lines on the Pacific, a New York correspondent gives it as the verdict of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference in the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast that the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast the conference is the product of the Atlantic coast th New York correspondent gives it as the verdict of the Atlantic coast that the conference is one of the most important ever held. The same view is held by railroad men here. Important and far-reaching results are looked for. Each transcontinental line reaching the Pacific const has control of or connection with a trans-Pacific steamship line, and the rivalry between these has been at times very keen. Transcontinental rates have been affected thereby, and even the rates on through business to the Atlantic coast and to Europe. The steamer lines reaching from this coast to China and Japan of course compete for business with the English lines operating between Great Britain and China and Japan. Until very recently those lines had been handling American cotton. It was President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, who first pointed out the absurdity of shipping cotton from the Mississippi valley three-fourths of the way around the globe in order to land it at Yokohama or Shanghai, when it could just as easily be transported to those ports by way of the Pacific coast, and his stement was followed quickly by a definite arrangement which has resulted in bringing large consignments of cotton for the Orient through Seattle.

The present situation is still further complicated by the withdrawal from Oriental traffic of a number of English ships on account of the war in South Africa. It is thought that one result of the conference will be an equalization of rates on business billed for Europe between the American and European lines of steamships. President Hill, of the Great Northern, was one of those who joined in calling for the conference.

The White Pass & Yukon railroad offices have been removed from the Pioneer block

The White Pass & Yukon railroad offices have been removed from the Pioneer block to 116 Yesler Way, the rooms formerly occupied by the People's Savings bank. The railroad company will also abandon the rooms it has occupied in the Dexter-Horton building.

A dispatch from St. Paul yesterday tells of another break in east-bound passenger rates, giving homeseekers' rates to Boston. It is not believed that the Soo will cease paying commissions today.

Work on the additional floor of the general office building of the Great Northern at St. Paul has been commenced.

J. D. Cline, of the Great Northern, St. Paul, is at the Rainier-Grand.

Pacific at Tacoma, is in the city today.

With the approach of spring there has come a big stir in railway circles over the freight rates on agricultural implements, particularly in the Middle West. For many years the various lines uniformly rated all such implements third class when shipped in less than carload lots. Last fall the Eastern roads advanced the rating to second class, and the Western roads followed their example. Thereupon the manufacturers of the East raised a howl, and the howl was so long and loud that the Eastern roads restored the old rating. Not so with the Western lines; some of them were willing, but others declined.

So the matter has stood until last Saturday, when the St. Paul Road decided to day, when the St. Paul Road decided to act independently and restore the old rates. The Chicago Inter Ocean predicts any, when the St. Paul Road decladed of act independently and restore the old rates. The Chicago Inter Ocean predicts that the same thing will be done by the other Western roads. Heavy shipments of agricultural implements are now being made. The Burlington took in a solid train load of them to St. Paul last week, and hundreds of carloads have been transported by various other lines. In discussing the situation and outlook a prominent railway official said:

"The Western railroads depend on the farmers for the majority of their business, and it is therefore to their own interest to make freight rates as low as possible on everything which the farmers need to raise or handle crops. The larger the crops, the larger the crops, the larger the twisness, of the railroads. The manufacturers of agricultural Implements have advanced their prices, and if the railroads insist on charging higher rates many farmers wil be unable to purchase agricultural implements which they could use to advantage. The present rates of Western lines on less than carload shipments enable Eastern manufacturers to undersell those of Chicago. If the less-than-carload rates are restored to third class, all manufacturers will be almost on an equality so far as transportation is concerned."

Attorney McKay, for Capt. Handy, accused by Dr. Eugene J. Jordan of this city of obtaining $5000 from him by false pretenses, today had his client's bail reduced from $5000, the amount fixed by Judge Cann, to $4000.

An interesting argument preceded the re-fixing of the bail bond by Judge Ben-on. Attorney McKay contended that the evidence at the preliminary hearing was not of a very damaging nature as far as his client was concerned. Handy, he was
