MENAGE SEEN IN JAP INTERNMENT

Internment in relocation centers is making fifth-columnists of 70,000 American citizens of Japanese ancestry, Floyd W. Schmoee, former University of Washington forestry instructor, declared at a meeting of the Engineers' Club yesterday.

Schmoee is a member of the American Friends (Quaker) Service Committee. "Evacuation and confinement is not the American way," said Schmoee. "The fact that Germans and Italians are not similarly dealt with argues race discrimination. No just peace for the Pacific area can be arrived at if such discrimination is permitted."

Admitting that some sabotage might result if the Japanese were released, Schmoee declared he believed the sabotage would be less costly than the maintenance of relocation centers and the removal of Japanese from gainful production.

Schmoee suggested as an alternative that all Japanese be restored to their homes, and that the Federal Bureau of Investigation be directed to ferret out those who are disloyal.

$300,000 Mine-Stock Fraud Charged to Seattle Group

Three Seattle men and a former Seattle resident, accused of defrauding investors in mining stock of more than $300,000 from 1933 to 1941, were indicted on mail-fraud charges yesterday by the federal grand jury.

Earle W. Knight, 5433 Lake Washington Blvd., publisher of The Alaska Weekly; Frederic Vincent, 2306 12th Ave. N., and Matthew M. Reese, mining engineer, 945 13th Ave. N., are the Seattle men named in the indictment. Simon C. Hedrick, advertising man now living at 325 Ward Parkway, Kansas City, Mo., is the former Seattle man indicted.

Knight's bond, originally set at $25,000, was reduced to $15,000 cash today, and Vincent's bond, set at $5,000, was reduced to $2,500. Cash bond was posted by each of the defendants.

Each maintained his innocence of the accusations, through his attorney or in person.

The indictment charges that the four defendants, together with five men designated in the true bill as "participants" but not charged, promoted a series of mining enterprises in Alaska and the continental United States which they operated "for their own purposes without regard to the interest" of investors.

Misleading Reports Charged
The grand jurors further charged that both defendants and participants engaged in "numerous stock-selling and trading manipulations for their own advantage and to the detriment of said investors," and sold membership certificates and "production notes" on "deceptive, misleading, reckless and false pretenses, representations and promise" as to the charter, contents and productivity of mining claims and property.

Organizations named in the indictment are the Mines Development Association, started early in 1933; the Northern Empire Mining Company, organized in July, 1933; the Desert Gold Production Corporation, organized in July, 1936; the Desert Gold Production & Aluminum Corporation, organized in July, 1937, and the Reese Production Corporation, organized in December, 1940.

Men named as "participants" but not charged are Paul B. Lowe, James C. Stephens and L. L. Wartes, and the late R. A. Unlin and Frank J. Cotter, all of whom ceased participating more than three years ago, it was stated.

No Property at First
The indictment charges that, although the defendants "had no property or other material assets as a basis for their promotion," until a long time after the "scheme" was started, they later acquired two groups of mining claims, one in Imperial County, Calif., and the other north of Yuma, Ariz.

Among false representations charged to the defendants are that one of the two groups of mining claims was of high value because it contained alunite, one source of aluminum; that the alunite ore contained material for a high grade cement and a valuable fertilizer, and a substance of medicinal qualities from which tooth powder would be manufactured and marketed by the defendants.

The indictment also charges that the defendants carried on a large traffic in personal stock holdings of their own, and in such private traffic, "said defendants, when selling personal holdings, would frequently and calmly conceal from purchasing investors the fact that the money paid over would go to defendants personally and not to the company."

Articles Published in Good Faith

Paul D. Coles, attorney for Knight and Vincent, said that apparently the government had indicted Knight because of some of the articles he has published in his newspaper. Coles said the articles were "published by him in good faith and obtained from sources on which he had a right to rely."

Vincent, Coles said, was induced to come up from California to Seattle in 1936 to handle the sale of the Desert Gold & Aluminum Corporation stock, and that he still thinks it is a very valuable property. Coles said Vincent lost money in handling the enterprise and feels that he in no way violated the federal law.

Stephen F. Chadwick, speaking for Hedrick, said Hedrick would respond to the indictment, that he feels also a mistake has been made and that he has committed no violation of the law.

Securities Act Violation Charged

Included in the 41-page indictment are copies of correspondence and one of the letters quoted tells of a stockholders' meeting in Seattle at which an ounce of desert gold was to be awarded as a door prize. The letter, dated March 15, 1940, is addressed to stockholders of the Desert Gold and Aluminum Corporation.

The eleventh and last count in the indictment charges the defendants with conspiracy to violate the Securities Act.

Postoffice Inspector S. H. Morse and J. S. Swenson, a former post-office inspector and now with the United States attorney's office, have been investigating the case for more than a year, in cooperation with the Securities and Exchange Commission of which Day Carr is regional administrator.

Other Indictments

Other indictments included two against Robert Ivan Peterson, one charging violation of the Mann Act and the other transporting a stolen automobile from Seattle to Grangeville, Idaho, last June.

Others indicted were: Napoleon Frassetto of Seattle and Louis Castrilli of Sedro.

BEET MEN GET AID IN HARVEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—John J. Corson, director of the United States Employment Service, today instructed local officers of the service west of the Mississippi to take prompt measures for recruitment of "the needed 3,000 workers to save the beet crops."

Corson said that prevailing wages would be paid workers by the growers, and that transportation would be arranged from the point of recruitment. He urged all persons interested in this work as a patriotic move, to register with the nearest federal employment office.

FEDERAL AUTOS TO CONSERVE OIL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—To save oil, which is scarce in the East, Budget Director Harold D. Smith yesterday ordered most federal trucks and cars to limit oil changes to twice a year.

Smith said a study of private truck fleets showed that the better quality of oil and oil filters in recent years has "eliminated the need for frequent changing of oil, except under unusual or extreme operating conditions."

Seattle Driver Sentenced

TACOMA, Aug. 23.—(AP)—John J. Cusworth, 52 years old, of 7138 32nd Ave. S. W., Seattle, was fined $150 and costs and given a 30-day jail sentence in police court when he pleaded guilty to charges of drunken driving. He was arrested Wednesday, when the automobile he was driving crashed against supports of the east end of the Puyallup River Bridge.

Sunday, August 30, at Norway Hall, 2015 Boren Ave. Attorney Ed Henry will report briefly on the coming N. L. R. B. election petitions. (Paid Advertisement.)

SCHOOLS TO AID YOUNG PICKERS

TACOMA, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Tacoma school children will be excused from the first two weeks of the school semester this fall if they help the farmers of the Puyallup Valley get their berry and bean crops to the canners before the fall rains begin.

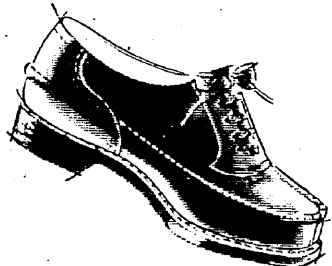

At the request of valley growers and packers, who fear the abundant crops will rot in the fields because of the shortage of adult pickers, School Superintendent Howard Gould said today students who spend their first two weeks of school in the fields will not be penalized or held back in their classes. Classes open September 8.

Another change in the school-day routine also announced by overland transportation systems—junior and senior high schools will be dismissed at 2 o'clock instead of 3, the customary closing time.
