

SAKAMOTO SENDS ROOSEVELT PLEA

An appeal to President Roosevelt against passage of any measure which would deprive American-born Japanese of American citizenship, has been made by letter by James Sakamoto, general chairman of the Emergency Defense Council of the Seattle Japanese-American Citizens' League, formerly of Seattle but now at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Before the evacuation of Japanese, Sakamoto was editor and publisher of The Japanese-American Courier in Seattle.

Pointing out that the House of Representatives had passed a bill "designed to deprive the American-born Japanese of their citizenship," Sakamoto urged the President to obstruct the measure.

"Strikes at Democracy"

"That such a measure, discriminatory and un-American to say the least, should find its way to introduction and passage before an august body of our Congress is not only sorely disappointing but surprising beyond understanding," Sakamoto wrote. "It is needless to mention that this measure, which would deprive some 80,000 to 85,000 American-born Japanese of their birthright, strikes at the very core of our democratic institutions and at the immortal concept of human equality so nobly expressed in the Fourteenth Amendment of our Constitution."

"The greatest evil of this measure is not its direct attempt to deprive us of our American heritage," Sakamoto continued. "It is the dangerous precedent it proposes to set by initiating the principle of race distinction that may some day divide race against race and class against class."

This Is Our Land

"This is our land no friend or foe can force us to disown, no more than we can alter the fundamental truth of our birth on this soil."

Sakamoto asked the President's support of the issue involved "as a cause no less American than the war we are fighting today against Japan and the Axis nations."

Jack and Bill Are Proud of Job They Sell Times; Parents Help

These members of a typical American family had a new and important, if quiet, significance yesterday, National Newspaper Day, because they all are or have been close to the pulse of The Seattle Times. Mrs. Joseph J. Mauer worked with carrier-salesmen for The Times long before she had sons of her own. Now her own lads, Jack (center) and Bill, playing with the kittens, have taken their places in the circulation life of The Times, working as typical American boys; as typical Times carrier-salesmen, doing an important job.

Everything American is evident in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mauer—from the furnishings and appointments of the house itself, situated at 1107 Ravenna Blvd., to the four persons who live in it.

There in the house at the edge of a tree-bordered boulevard is the atmosphere of peace and individual freedom. There is the feeling of a prosperity which comes from hard work and the equal chance of everyone to success. Congeniality prevails—quietly, but positively. There are all the tangibles and the intangibles that the armed forces of the United States are fighting for abroad, and others are fighting for here at home.

Yesterday was National Newspaper Day, and in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mauer there are two carrier-salesmen of The Seattle Times. Jack Mauer will be 14 years old next month; Bill is 12 last month.

Mother Worked With Carriers

Long before Mrs. Mauer was married—when she still was Miss Fernie Johnson, she learned the good, solid American training a boy could have as a carrier-salesman for The Times, for she was secretary of the "Help Yourself Club," an organization sponsored by the circulation department to develop the self-reliance and responsibility of its newspaperboys.

Indeed, Miss Johnson was the daughter of Rufus Johnson, who was a circulation manager of several newspapers and a circulation department employe of The Times years ago.

Except for these pleasant coincidences, and the fact that yesterday was National Newspaper Day, it probably would be impossible to make this vicarious trip to the home of the Mauers, where wood in the fireplace glows cheerily on dull, cold days, the furniture makes a pleasure, and on the floor romp the black cat, Susie, and her three two-month-old kittens—Nip, Nap and Nebuchadnezzar.

Vital to War Effort

Jack and Bill Mauer probably would be the last persons to admit the roles they play—and the roles they grew there. We have made thousands of cases in these offices in the past 25 years and the work has given general satisfaction.

Just the same, democracy, to be strong, must be well-informed, and the boys like Jack and Bill Mauer do their part to keep information flowing into Seattle homes—American homes. But for them, riding on their bikes to their route districts, and then trudging along from subscriber to subscriber, de-

10 BURGLARIES LAID TO YOUTHS

Police yesterday blamed a series of ten burglaries Friday night and early yesterday on youthful vandals.

Investigating officers, explaining their theory, said the burglars went to much effort to obtain little loot, and added that a toy cap pistol was found at the scene of the last burglary.

Theft of a .32-calibre automatic pistol, a holster, shells and two flashlights from a service station at Greenwood Avenue and North 75th Street opened the wave of burglaries, police believe.

The pistol was used subsequently to smash the windows of a grocery store at 1106 N. 80th St.; a drug store at 7804 Aurora Ave.; a drive-in cafe at 8401 Aurora Ave.; and service stations at 7601 Aurora Ave., 8301 Aurora Ave., 8217 Aurora Ave., and at Aurora Avenue and North 72nd Street, where the cap pistol was discovered.

A bicycle was stolen from outside a theatre at Aurora Avenue and North 77th Street.

Army Orders 'Turkey and' On Holiday Menus

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(UP)—The War Department today announced Thanksgiving and Christmas menus to give cooks and bakers in widely scattered Army posts plenty of time to prepare them.

The Thanksgiving menu: Fruit cup, roast turkey, dressing with giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, peas, corn, tomato salad, stuffed celery, assorted pickles, bread, butter, pumpkin pie, apples, grapes, coffee, candies, nuts.

The Christmas menu: Fresh fruit, cream of celery soup, roast young turkey, dressing and giblet gravy; cranberry-orange relish, celery, olives, mixed pickles, radish roses, snowflake potatoes, green beans, tomatoes, corn pudding, hearts of lettuce with Russian dressing, hot rolls, butter, mince pie, pumpkin pie, ice cream, spice cake, grapes oranges, apples mixed nuts, mints, hard candy, coffee.

Course in Shoe Sales To Open at Broadway

With Seattle shoe stores turning to women to replace men entering the armed forces and war industries, a training school will open Tuesday evening at Broadway High School, Mrs. Frankie Schmitz, supervisor of distributive education for the Seattle Public Schools, announced yesterday.

The course will consist of six two-hour sessions Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings for two weeks. John E. Foley, shoe merchant, and Mrs. Grace Alley, for 22 years engaged in selling shoes here, will be instructors. Classes will be held in the auditorium, opening 7:15 o'clock.

Subjects to be taught include customers' wartime buying problems, shoe construction, types of shoes, leathers and fabrics, fitting, fashion elements and building of good will. Half of each session will be devoted to actual practice in shoe fitting and selling. Co-operating in the training program are the Retail Trade Bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Clerks' Union.

Troy Explains Deputy Power

OLYMPIA, Oct. 3.—In an opinion to State Health Director Donald G. Evans, Attorney-General Smith Troy today held that the King County sheriff could deputize Tacoma city patrolmen to make arrests in Tacoma's watershed, which lies in the adjoining county. Troy said Evans' employes could not be authorized to make arrests for violations of state health regulations.

Auto-Train Crash Kills Boy

EUGENE, Or., Oct. 3.—Clayton Joseph Paulsen, 18 years old, of Empire, Or., was killed instantly today when the automobile which he was driving crashed into the side of a train at a railroad crossing near here. Paulsen, a freshman at the University of Oregon, apparently did not see the train before the accident occurred, witnesses said.

Alveolar Teeth Where Bridgework Is Impossible

Alveolar work can be done and is perfectly practical where ordinary bridgework is absolutely impossible. Suppose you have lost 2, 3, or 4 back (last) teeth on one side only, upper or lower, your dentist will tell you that he can do nothing for you— you must go on without those teeth, which is equivalent to being without double what you have missing, as far as chewing is concerned. Besides, you are certain to lose the good teeth opposite the vacant space from lack of exercise. They will elongate, get sore, loose and come out. Then, too, the gum recedes from lack of exercise, you will lose the next teeth in time, the next, etc., until all are gone. If you want near perfection as possible in dentistry, you may as well adopt the Alveolar System first as last, for you will surely have to in the end if satisfaction you would have. Many whom we told this to and who bought bridgework for one reason or another are coming back to us now to have their teeth restored by the Alveolar System.

Your defective teeth, if any, are not extracted until the work is finished, ready to immediately insert in the mouth. No waiting, no delay from business. The new teeth fit in the freshly extracted sockets without pain or danger. They become solid and look exactly as if they grew there. We have made thousands of cases in these offices in the past 25 years and the work has given general satisfaction.
