

BRITON CALLS FOR WIDER LABOR TIE

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Byrn Roberts, British labor leader and guest of the Congress of Industrial Organizations' convention, said today the Anglo-Soviet trade union relationship forged by war should be extended to all the United Nations and made permanent, notwithstanding differences in the social systems.

"British labor," said Roberts, in a speech prepared for delivery to the convention, "is proud to be associated with the gallant Russian people and, without them imposing Communism on us or us imposing capitalism on them, we can, through the machinery of the Anglo-Russian Joint Committee, do much to establish real cooperation between the two nations, which is so essential to the successful prosecution of the war and in the period of reconstruction that will follow it."

"Fervent Hope" Expressed

"With the principle of our movement guiding us, it is not too much to expect that such a committee, now limited to the Russians and ourselves will, without undue delay, embrace the other national workers of all the other democratic countries. That is our fervent hope. We feel that it will be nothing short of a tragedy if it does not quickly materialize."

Roberts was a fraternal delegate of the British Trades Union Congress to the American Federation of Labor convention last month in Toronto. He is attending the C. I. O. meeting in an unofficial capacity. His speech recognized, without directly touching upon, the inhibitions and circumstances which have kept American organized labor from a direct relationship with the Russian labor unions.

Earlier, the convention applauded a declaration of Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the Navy, that management must abandon the belief that labor-management production committees are a scheme to take over its property.

Bard, who was warmly complimented by President Philip Murray for the Navy's labor relations policy, made the point that if both management and labor would modify their demands and attitudes, the manpower problem would immediately become less acute.

"Nothing Else Counts"

The delegates gave Bard an extraordinary reception, excelled only by that given Murray, himself. Applause punctuated his speech throughout, even as he declared, "Labor for its part must abandon its jurisdictional ambitions and jealousies, and convince management of its sincerity of purpose, if management shall be expected to drop its suspicions of labor. The only working or management rules that we should recognize from now on are the ones which will help win the war—nothing else counts or should be tolerated."

The crowd burst into table-thumping applause again as he declared: "I understand that many of you have been demanding the immediate opening of a second front. Well, you see it. And I assure that you now realize your increasing obligation in producing the necessary war equipment to maintain this second front."

When Bard finished, Murray assured him that everything he asked labor to do "will be done."

Future Unpredictable

Bard said the nation must avoid Germany's method of increasing manpower by enslaving workers and said it would not even be necessary to work 66 hours a week as the Russians are doing, "although only the gods know what will be required of us before this job is finished."

"One thing is sure, if this problem is to be solved—management and labor will have to get together in a spirit of understanding and mutual interest, as called for in the recent statement of Navy labor relations policy. They have to get together in the factory and the shipyard with the single-minded purpose of making our arsenal of democracy live up to that high-sounding name."

H. G. Fitch, Tacoma Attorney, Succumbs

TACOMA, Nov. 10.—(AP)—H. G. Fitch, 64 years old, veteran Tacoma attorney, who has been a United States commissioner since December 16, 1926, died here yesterday afternoon after a brief illness.

Man Shoots At U. S. Japanese Soldier; Jailed

DERMOTT, Ark., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A Dermott father whose two sons are in the Army took a pot shot at an American Japanese soldier in a Dermott cafe today and landed in jail.

City Marshal Thad Hawkins, who arrested the civilian, said the soldier, Pvt. Louis Furushiro, 22 years old, of Camp Robinson, Ark., was uninjured. The soldier had stopped at the cafe to eat, en route to the nearby Japanese relocation colony of Jerome to visit friends.

"Somebody told this fellow there was a Jap in the cafe," Hawkins said. "He went home, got his shotgun, came back to the cafe and opened the door. He asked the soldier if he was a Jap. The soldier said, 'Yes,' and this guy fired. The soldier fell off the stool and the load of squirrel shot missed, scattering through a lattice work in the rear of the cafe and damaging nothing except a domino table."

Visit in Rome Would Be 1st In War for Hitler

By Associated Press.

If Adolf Hitler goes to Rome for the reported conference with Mussolini and Pierre Laval, it will be his first appearance in the Italian capital since the war began. He has been in Rome only once before on a visit of state in 1938, when he spent six days in discussions with Mussolini.

In all, the two dictators have met 11 times since the start of the war. Only one of these conferences was in Italy, at Florence October 28, 1940. The majority have been in the Brenner Pass, the strategic border point in the Alps between Italy and Germany. On the other occasions, the Reichsfuehrer summoned his Italian satellite to Germany, to his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden, to Munich and to Salzburg.

W. S. C. Women Beat R. O. T. C. In Marching

PULLMAN, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Women's Service Corps of Washington State College has defeated 14 companies of male marchers in R. O. T. C. dress parade competition.

The group of 73 scored 52 out of a possible 60 points.

It didn't help the male military ego any to recall that the girls organized so recently they didn't have uniforms.

They did their winning marching in raincoats.

Alaska Legislature Measure Passed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The House approved today a conference report on a bill to reorganize the Alaska Legislature and sent the measure to the White House.

The measure provides for 16 members of the territorial Senate and 24 members of the House. It becomes effective prior to the 1944 elections.

D. W. McMorris, Former City Engineer, Dies

DANIEL W. McMORRIS

Daniel Webster McMorris, 77 years old, former city engineer and one of the builders of the fortifications on Corcoran in Manila Bay, died last evening in a Seattle hospital after a short illness. His home was at 1315 Third Ave. W.

Mr. McMorris was born in Cole County, Ill. He came to Washington in 1890. He worked for several years on the old Oregon & Washington Territory Railroad. He then worked for the City of Seattle before taking a position as a civilian engineer with the Army.

In 1904 he went to Manila and surveyed and began the construction of Corcoran Fort.

In 1906, after his return from the Philippines, McMorris went to work for the city engineer's office in Seattle. He became city engineer during Mayor Robert H. Harlin's regime. He was court engineer when he retired in 1934. He had been connected in an important way with virtually all of the city's major engineering projects for more than 25 years.

JAP SOLOMONS LANDINGS CUT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, Marine Corps commandant, reported today that "things are shaping up" so that it will be increasingly more difficult for the Japanese to put reinforcements on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons.

Holcomb just returned from a visit to marine posts in the South Pacific, disclosed that the original marine division which went into the Solomons to begin the first American offensive of the war, still was on front-line duty there—a three month period of such duty which he said probably set a record for unbroken service under fire for marine outfits.

The general recalled that when one division was held in the front line in the First World War for a period of 40 days it was considered extraordinary and a tremendous strain on the men.

Some Break Down

"The boys on Guadalcanal are tired and there isn't any doubt about it," Holcomb said. He added that some break down and have to be removed.

Holcomb also reported to a press conference that the American forces on Guadalcanal outnumber the Japanese there but he did not say by what margin.

Holcomb declared the fighting there had proved that "the young American marine and the young American soldier are individually superior to the Jap soldier in all respects—we had feared it might be otherwise but it is not."

Holcomb said that while he did not know the exact number it was his impression that Japanese military prisoners "run into the hundreds."

A full in major action at sea has continued for more than a week. But, the Navy has referred to one of the previous engagements, with announcement that an unidentified destroyer lost in battle on the night of October 11-12 was the Duncan, commissioned only last April.

The sinking was reported the day after the sharp 30-minute battle between a Navy task force ordered to intercept enemy craft landing reinforcements on Guadalcanal, but the Duncan was not identified until yesterday. In the battle the American force sank one heavy cruiser, four destroyers, and a 5,000-ton Japanese transport. Several American vessels were damaged but the Duncan was the only craft lost. Five officers and 58 members of her crew are dead or missing.

Japs Take Guadalcanal Airfield, Says Nazi Radio

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(From German broadcasts)—(UP)—The Berlin radio broadcast today that Henderson Field on Guadalcanal Island was in Japanese hands.

The German broadcaster, giving no source for his announcement, said that the Japanese launched an all-out offensive yesterday afternoon against the American troops defending the airport and succeeded in compressing them into a narrow area.

Japs Shift Admirals

TOKYO (from Japanese broadcast), Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Navy Minister announced today the appointment of Adm. Zengo Yoshida, 57-year-old former navy minister and member of the Supreme War Council, as commander in chief of the Japanese fleet in China waters. He succeeds Adm. Mineichi Koga, who was appointed commander of the Yokosuka Navy Base, Japan's No. 1 establishment for the building and repair of warships.

Union Leader's Long-Delayed Case to Be Tried

A. H. O'Brien, 43-year-old union leader who was involved in a fight in the Teamsters' Hall July 31, 1941, with William Joseph Seeley, 28, a salesman, will come to trial in Police Court Friday after 14 continuances of his case.

Police Judge James W. Hodson ordered the case to trial after denying a motion on the part of Defense Attorney Sam Bassett that the judgment first given in the case by acting Judge Simon Wampold, Jr., be carried out.

The record in Wampold's judgment showed that the case had been stricken. Wampold testified in court today that he had meant to dismiss the case and the word "stricken" gave a mistaken impression.

The technicality of whether or not the case should be tried was argued in higher courts and the Supreme Court held that it should be.

Today's motion would have dismissed the case without further hearing. Judge Hodson declared that he believed he would be setting his judgment against that of the Supreme Court if he did not order the case to trial.

O'Brien is charged with disorderly conduct.

One-Way Street Plan Is Opposed By Wartelle

City Engineer Charles L. Wartelle is not so enthusiastic about establishment of one-way streets here as is his subordinate, J. W. A. Bollong, traffic engineer, it appeared today.

Bollong yesterday announced he will designate several streets as one-way avenues. Today, Wartelle said Bollong "will have to show me that some of his streets will work as one-way streets."

Wartelle said he had in mind Westlake Avenue between Pike Street and Olive Way, especially the intersection of Fifth Avenue with Westlake.

"One-way streets are for cities with narrow streets, not for Seattle with wide streets," Wartelle said. Bollong, pointing out that Maxwell Halsey, nationally recognized traffic expert, had suggested one-way streets for Seattle to relieve bottleneck conditions, said: "I believe I can prove that some streets should be one-way."

Only a few streets were included in Bollong's program, and these only for short distances.

President Begins Study of Budget

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today began his annual tussle with a budget, swelled this time to unprecedented proportions by the war. The President called in Budget Director Harold Smith and Wayne Cox, assistant director, for a report on the preliminary budget studies which they already had made.

The budget, to be submitted to Congress in January, will estimate expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944.

Nearly all coal now arriving in Eire is used for industrial purposes.

TODD ASSAULT CHARGE DROPPED

The third-degree assault charge brought on complaint of Oscar Asplund, Scandinavian-American leader, against Dorian E. Todd, former member of the State Legislature and candidate for state senator in the September primary election, were dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace William Hoar at Asplund's request.

The case was dismissed after Deputy Prosecutor John J. Quine introduced an affidavit signed by Asplund, and moved for dismissal on grounds that he had no prosecuting witness. Quine said Asplund asserted he "thought it best, in the interest of justice, to drop the case."

Todd was charged October 23, after Asplund complained that the former legislator had struck him the day before in the Waldorf Hotel. Asplund is the founder of the Federation of the Scandinavian-American Democratic Clubs.
