

MILITARY WILL AID RAID TEST

The Coast Guard, the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Fort Lawton, the Port of Embarkation and other military commands in the Seattle area will cooperate in the air-raid test at 9:10 o'clock Monday night, Col. Charles S. Albert, director of the civilian-protection division, announced today.

A long list of waterfront "incidents" will bring Coast Guard fireboats and cutters into action for the first time in cooperation with civilian-defense forces. Lieut. Comdr. D. T. Adams of the Coast Guard, advised Colonel Albert that all "incidents" will be handled as realistically as possible to give his command experience in co-operating with civilian-protection forces.

To Transport Doctors
Flotilla No. 23 of the 2nd Division of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, under command of H. E. Watson, has been charged with the responsibility of transporting doctors and nurses from Seattle to any designated area. Pursuant to orders, the flotilla command will dispatch boats from Lake Union to pick up stretcher cases and emergency medical-service personnel. A memorandum from headquarters at Fort Lawton to Colonel Albert advised that all military personnel leaving the post on pass will assist and cooperate with air-raid wardens, auxiliary police and regular enforcement agencies in quietly guiding civilians to air-raid shelters.

All to Seek Protection
Where there are no shelters available, pedestrians will be required to go into buildings that are open or seek such protection as is available. Movement of military vehicles will be confined to emergencies.

Men on duty with the provost-marshal command also will cooperate in stopping traffic and directing persons to shelter, Colonel Albert stated.

Coast Guard participation was arranged by William A. Groce, director of civilian protection for the Washington State Defense Council. Groce said that every coastal city in Washington has been notified of Coast Guard participation in a far-flung coordinated program that includes Olympia, Tacoma, Everett, Anacortes, Bellingham, Everett, Port Townsend, Port Angeles, Aberdeen, Hoquiam, Longview and Vancouver.

Pfc. Foley Quickly Is Made Surgical Instructor in Army

Everything happens fast in the Army. That includes more than getting in fast, being whisked across country for training—or getting your tent ready for inspection. Recognition and promotions can be fast, too, for the Army uses ability as fast as it is available.

Witness Pfc. Lee T. Foley, who enlisted August 14 in Seattle, was sent to Camp Berkeley, Tex., for basic medical training; then shipped over to William Beaumont General Hospital at El Paso, Tex., the Army's big Medical Technical Training Center.

When Foley returns to El Paso December 7 after the furlough he is spending in Seattle, it will be as a member of the surgical department teaching staff at the Medical Training School.

That recognition from the Army—for Foley, who a year ago was dancing in the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, is a natural for the surgical technician's rating he is studying for—and he's really studied!

With his many years' experience in the theatre, it was inevitable that Foley should be detailed to work on camp entertainment. He produced two complete shows—"C. I. Frolic" at Berkeley, and "A Company at Ease," at Beaumont. Foley's leave was due to the death November 6 of his father, Thomas Martin Foley. He is staying with his mother.

Lieut. Allard Russell, U. S. N. R., who arrived back in Seattle from the Solomon's just in time for Thanksgiving, was also just in time to practice up for one of the most important phases in being a father—that of pacing hospital corridors. His son was born Wednesday. His wife is the former Edith Herber, a member of Alpha Phi Sorority and a former University of Washington student.

Seeing his old friends at John Marshall Junior High School this week was Corp. Chester Cole, former social science teacher, who enlisted in the Army in April. Corp. Cole, who has been serving at Fort Scott, San Francisco, left yesterday for Fargo, N. D., his new post.

Ensign John Shepherd, son of Mrs. O. F. Shepherd, 1717 13th Ave., is on his way back from the East Coast, it was learned today, and it won't be too soon for Lieut. (jg.) Victor Molteret, 5310 Cowen Pl., who is home on leave. Ensign Shepherd will be driving a convertible which Molteret left with his friend when he went out on active duty a year ago, and he is "itching" to get behind the wheel of the car, on which he only recently finished making payments.

Ensign Shepherd was graduated from Annapolis with honors last June and since has been receiving special ordnance instruction on the East Coast.

Pfc. Magnus Hagboe, 2212 W. 57th St., who has been waiting at Stockton, Calif., for his furlough, won't be able to make it home for at least another month, his mother learned in a letter from him today. But he did have good news for his family. He has been promoted to corporal. Corporal Hagboe was a truck driver here before his enlistment.

Chevron of a sergeant are being worn at the Blackland Army Flying School, Waco, Tex., by Jack B. Comstock, of Port Angeles, and Kenneth G. McGrew, of Yakima, while John V. Roberts, of Edmonds, has been made a corporal in the first aviation cadet class at Blackland.

Announcement of the appointments was made today by the commandant of the aviation cadet section, together with those of 11 cadet officers and 33 other non-commissioned officers who will function in the cadet section in the same manner as officers in the regular Army units.

Corp. L. M. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Helmar Johnson, 5008 45th Ave. S., and a former Frank-

PFC. LEE T. FOLEY

From ballet star to surgical technician in High School pupil, has been selected to attend the Radio Operator School at Savannah, Ga., according to word received today from Goldman Field, Fort Knox, Ky. Corporal Johnson enlisted in April, 1941, and received his Army training at the Aerial Gunnery School Tyndall Field, and the Armament Technical School Denver.

Wilhelm T. Isaacson, 1941 Lincoln High School graduate, and Harold P. Krank of Dickinson, N. D., left the Associated Shipbuilders at Harbor Island together to enlist in the Marine Corps. They have been placed in Class III(C) Reserve for the duration.

Isaacson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Isaacson, 13017 Third Ave., N. E., was a former Lincoln football player and a member of the Chanters, Lincoln glee club. Other Marine Corps enlistments announced today include John A. Scott of Spokane, former University of Washington student, and Charles Wolf, Jr., of Robinson, Ill. Wolfe was employed as a firekeeper at the Puget Sound Navy Yard and Scott worked in the sheet metal department of the Boeing Aircraft Company.

Leslie Graham Schumer, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hayward, 1424 N. 45th St., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army on completion of an officer candidate course at the Fort Benning, Ga., Infantry School, it was learned today. He is a graduate of Garfield High School and the University of Washington.

Selection of Capt. Willis L. Campbell, former member of a Seattle brokerage house, to attend the Army's Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., was announced today by headquarters of the San Francisco Port of Embarkation, Fort Mason. Captain Campbell is the assistant executive officer of a branch of the Overseas Supply Division, Transportation Corps. His wife resides at 821 McGillivra Blvd.

Lieut. Col. E. P. Antonovich, executive officer of the Seattle Quartermaster Depot, has been made a colonel and 15 other officers on duty at the depot have been advanced, according to a list of temporary promotions received from the War Department.

Colonel Antonovich was constructing quartermaster for McCord Field and Fort Lewis prior to reporting for duty in Seattle. Maj. Jacob P. Jacky, who has received orders to report for duty at an eastern point, was promoted to lieutenant colonel; Capt. Martin A. Hammer, labor and procurement liaison officer for the supply section, to major, and Capt. Albert T. Anderson, purchasing and contracting officer, to major.

Promoted to captain were 1st Lieuts. Harry G. Kennedy, Archie G. Clark, Jr., both former University of Washington students; Andrew P. Chalmers, Robert E. Hascall, Washington State College graduate, and Don J. Kapner.

Advanced to 1st lieutenant are 2nd Lieuts. Charles Attardo, Bryant A. Gardner, Elwood E. Stephens, former University Student, Merrill S. Thornber, Albert S. Hart, James F. Greig and Eldor S. Neils.

Sergt. John DeWitt Tuttle, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Tuttle, 3100 Bayview St., who has been flying with the Royal Canadian Air Forces overseas for two years, has been injured seriously in an air battle over Matruh, Egypt, the Ottawa office of the R. C. A. F. announced yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Tuttle has been in Egypt since June flying a Spitfire, his mother said today. He has served in England, at Gibraltar and at Malta. His parents received word two weeks ago that he was injured during a sandstorm, and hope for direct word from him soon.

"We know he liked his work very much," his mother said. Tuttle held a pilot's license when he enlisted in the R. C. A. F. He is a graduate of Broadway High School, and attended the University of Washington and Washington State College. He has a brother, Robert, 21, who is a sergeant in the Army Signal Corps in Alaska.
