Trojans Tackle Pre-Flighters in Football Final

By Associated Press.
 LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—The 1942 football season ends today in Los Angeles with the Southern California Trojans trying their luck against St. Mary's Navy Pre-Flight School of Moraga, Calif.

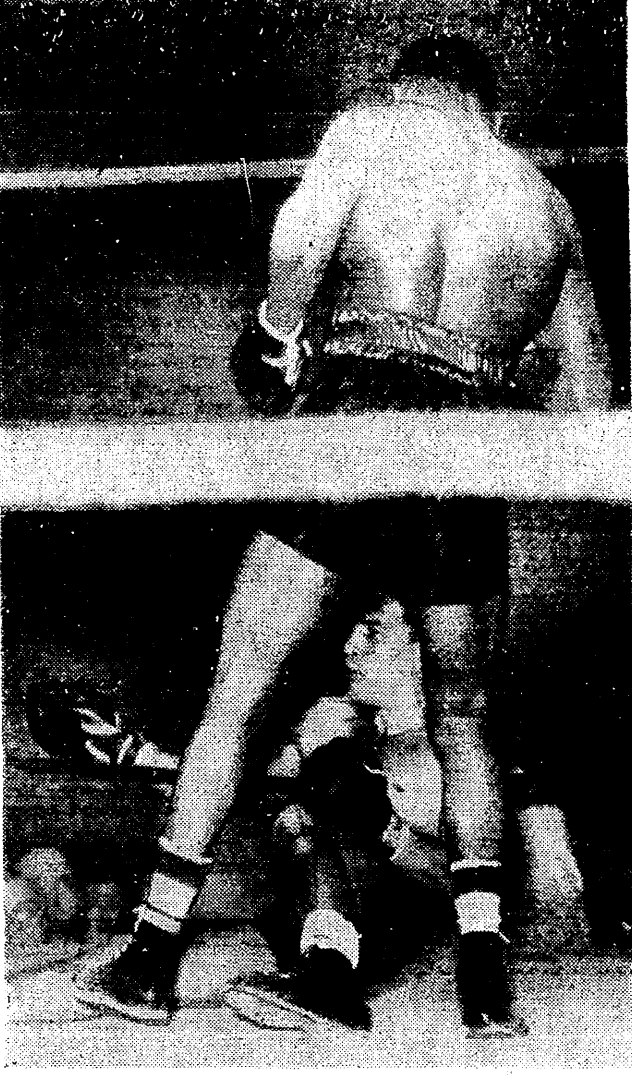

There are several ex-Trojans in the Navy line-up and Stanford's Frankie Albert and California's Vic Bottari will be pitching passes with abandon, but U. S. C. still is favored to win, chiefly because the Airdevils have lost some of their players to active service and others are injured.

The chief hope of the Navy flyers lies in their aerial attack. In this department they seem to have a marked edge, and the Trojans likewise aren't the strongest in guarding against passes. On the ground, U. S. C. should be able to gain against the heavy Airdevil line, and gain consistently enough to whittle at least a couple of touchdowns.

The Pre-Flight line averages 205 pounds.

Nello Falaschi, formerly of Santa Clara, will open at quarter for the Moraga team and Albert, who usually holds down that position, will be at right half. The idea seems to be to have a right-hand and left-hand passer in the backfield, with Bottari spelling southpaw Frankie.

Football Field Games Suggested for Track

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The Amateur Athletic Union long may it prosper, is in receipt of a proposal by Charlie Hunter, of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, to add football field games—kicking and passing for distance and also, I presume, for accuracy—to the regular curriculum of track and field.

Professionals do not (technically) operate under the jurisdiction of the A. A. U., but I suppose that once the college men launched this sport the pros would follow along, and a complete set of records, world and national, would be developed and carried in the books.

I know of only one outstanding trial of football field sports, and I am reminded of it by H. Archie Richardson, California sports authority who saw and officiated at the test in question. It took the form of an annual "correspondence" kicking-and-passing contest between Australian and American football teams, from 1937 through 1939.

I know of only one outstanding trial of football field sports, and I am reminded of it by H. Archie Richardson, California sports authority who saw and officiated at the test in question. It took the form of an annual "correspondence" kicking-and-passing contest between Australian and American football teams, from 1937 through 1939.

Aussies Poor Passers

This was a good idea for a starter, because players of Australian football are probably the best kickers in the world and will certainly put their share of records into writing when such contests become standard, with their own receiver ball and/or the American ball.

At passing—it soon developed—they were not so good. But their game is a kicking game, just as ours is—or has become—a throwing game. If these two arts come to be practiced commonly as field sports, the Australians will improve their passing and our players their kicking. As far as kicking for distance goes, we have already come near holding our own, in those "mail" contests, thanks to the mighty efforts of Bill Paulman, the Stanford hooter of a few years ago.

When I was in Australia last spring, I found that Paulman and the Thorpe, Grange, Eckersall and Brickley of American football combined, measured by his Australian reputation. This is because of the way he kicked the Australian ball by mail. Single-handed, or single-footed, he gave the American three-man team a draw in 1938, after we had been handily licked by the representatives of St. Carlton Club of Melbourne in 1937. Only one Australian player in history has placed-kicked the Anzac ball farther than Paulman—Dave McNamara, with 86 yards 1 foot against Paulman's 79 yards 2 feet.

"That Paulman was a marvel," said Mr. Hector Delacy, the expert of The Melbourne Sporting Globe, the moment I mentioned American football.

Defense Favored To Cop Big Race

SAN MATEO, Calif., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Bay Meadows' 57-day horse race meeting ends this afternoon with the first running of the Au Revolv Handicap, a mile and a sixteenth run for a $2,500 purse, for horses of all ages.

Favorite in the nine-horse field was Defense, stakes winner here last Saturday. Defense was assigned high weight of 119 pounds. Jockey Clyde Turk, who rode the flashy mount to victories in the Golden West and Golden State Handicaps here, was named to ride Defense today.

 "William, of course, Johnny!"

GEORGIA NEGRO 135-LB. 'TITLIST' IN N. Y., JERSEY

By Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The Jersey Bounce, as a piece of jive, is a small chunk of music which makes sense to no one but rug-cutters, except that Beau Jack owns a piece of the world lightweight championship today because he is slightly acquainted with the Jersey Bounce.

Beau—real name Sidney Walker—is a busy little Negro fliker out of the locker room of the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Course. He came up from Georgia to give the Jersey Bounce to a guy from Jersey last night. And he gave it so well he flattened Tippy Larkin in three heats of a 15-rounder before 18,817 of the faithful in Madison Square Garden.

In making the birdies sing for the kid from Jersey, Beau hit the "hepcats" with the Bounce, all right. But what he left as a means of settling the confusion over the lightweight championship, which sprang up over Sammy Angott's abdication a few weeks ago, would make the Bounce look like something out of Mozart, with slight traces of Toscanini.

Disregarding the symphonic for the moment, all Jack did was to win himself that piece of the lightweight crown recognized in New York and New Jersey.

The National Boxing Association, for instance, sings a different tune with the chant that, regardless of the discords on the New York State Commission pipe organ, it will recognize only the winner of a national elimination tournament. Last night's shindig, says the N. B. A., is just the first step in that direction.

And Maryland, which has its own tune, is about to recognize the survivor of a forthcoming fight between Willie Joyce, the Gary, Ind., individualist, and Slugger White, a Baltimore better with an idea about fighting that wouldn't be bad for a machine gun to copy.

There is no doubt that Beau gave Tippy the Jersey Bounce last night. After flooring the slim Italian in the first round, he took the kid back and all out in the third and tossed Tippy to sleep with a right uppercut. This produced a nap long enough for Referee Young Otto to count the full ten.

Immediately afterward, Promoter Mike Jacobs, counting up a gross gate of $58,468, announced that Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia and Chester Rico of New York would tangle in a 15-rounder January 8 in the first-elimination bout of a tournament sponsored by the New York State Athletic Commission looking to a challenger "worthy" of taking a crack at Jack's "championship."

Promoter Mike said that on the same card Joey Peralta of Tamara, Pa., another tournament tussler, would collide with an opponent to be named later—the sooner as an opponent arrives on the scene. This arrival undoubtedly will be heralded with the usual blare of trumpets and the firing of the accustomed 21-gun salute.

11 CRAFT GOING SHARK FISHING

Landing of a $40,000 take of soupfin-shark livers in this port recently and an advance in the price of the livers, has caused increased activity in this fishery, it was learned yesterday. The price now ranges from $3 to $3.50 a pound. Dogfish livers also are higher, being quoted from 18 to 22 cents a pound.

As a result of the higher prices and the large catches of the "white schools" of the Seattle fishing fleet were outfitting today at Fishermen's Wharf, Salmon Bay, for shark fishing.

The fleet comprises the Albatross, McArthur, Seattle, Frigidland, Henning J., Marion F., Fortuna, Asta, Akutan, Bernice and Bernice A.

Fishermen were informed that schools of soupfin-shark were moving up the coast. Some of the largest catches recently were made off Oregon.

Higher prices and increased activity in shark fishing is caused by the announcement of the United States Agricultural Marketing Administration that a trillion units of Vitamin A fish-liver oils will be purchased prior to September 1, 1943, for lend-lease requirements.

By THE SKIPPER
 Guarding a shipyard which has millions of dollars worth of contracts is no small job and requires an efficient organization. Unauthorized persons must be kept out of the plant as Uncle Sam takes no chances with saboteurs.

Lake Washington Shipyards at Houghton, on the east shore of the lake, has 175 guards and watchmen working three shifts.

The department is under the supervision of Les Finsen, who is the Lake Washington Shipyards' chief of police.

Finsen is an experienced law-enforcement officer, having served for eight years as undersheriff of Skagit County. In 1937, he solved a baffling murder mystery. An itinerant farm hand had killed two brothers because they objected to his attention to their sister. The farmhand buried the bodies of his victims and stoutly declared his innocence. Finsen found the bodies, the murderer confessed and was convicted and hanged at a state prison.

Finsen has been chief of police at Lake Washington Shipyards two years. Recently his personnel was inducted into the Coast Guard. This branch of the armed forces now is in charge of policing and guarding defense plants in coastal areas.

FOUR BEARS TO FACE REDSKINS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Four of the still mighty Chicago Bears, who lost the National League football championship to the Washington Redskins in an astounding upset, are slated to start against the Redskins in the Professional Bowl football game here December 27.

The four are among the eight Bear players picked on the league all-star aggregation that will oppose the champions at Shibe Park, with all the proceeds to be given to the merchant marine.

Named in a starting line-up by Coach Hank Anderson are George Wilson, end; Lee Artoe, tackle; Danny Fortmann, guard, and Clyde Turner, center.

The seven other starters are Tommy Thompson of the Philadelphia Eagles, Bill Dudley of Pittsburgh, Meryn Condit of Brooklyn and Harry Hop of Detroit, in the backfield; and Perry Schwartz, Brooklyn end; Chester Adams, Cleveland tackle, and Milt Simington, Pittsburgh guard.

"As a replacement for Thompson," Anderson said, "I will have Sid Luckman of the Bears, who is especially keen to try his passing again against the Redskins. Cary Famiglietti of the Bears and Dick Riffe of Pittsburgh are available at fullback. Marshall Goldberg of the Chicago Cardinals has a broken thumb and did not want to report until the day after Christmas. That's too late to fit into our plans."

SAVAGES UPSET IDAHO, 32 TO 30

MOSCOW, Idaho, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A push shot from the foul line two minutes to go by George Galehouse, a guard, enabled Eastern Washington College to trounce the University of Idaho last night, 32 to 30, for the second win this year over the Coast Conference team.

The teams were never separated by more than four points, but Idaho led most of the way and was ahead, 18 to 15, at the half. Fred Quinn, Idaho center, was high scorer with 12.

Eastern Washington has split only one game this season, losing two encounters with Washington State.

Irish Wingman Gets Around

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Best-traveled athlete in these times when a seat in a train is something you boast about (and will be worn out) is Notre Dame's Bob Dove.

The senior end went with the Irish to Los Angeles to play Southern California Monday 28. Last night he left with the East All Stars for San Francisco to play against the West in the annual New Year's Day Shrine game.

On January 6, Mr. Dove goes to Washington to receive the Knute K. Rockne Memorial Trophy at the Touchdown Club banquet. That's a total of about 9,000 miles worth of travel in a little more than a month.

500 Enroll For Merchant-Ship Training Here

Ensign M. C. Hathaway, United States Maritime Service, who is in charge of recruiting of apprentice seamen for merchant ships in Seattle, said yesterday that more than 500 men have been enrolled here since his office was opened at 808 Second Ave., September 1.

Enrollees until recently were sent to Fort Huachuca, Calif., Gullup Island, Boston and Sheep's Head Bay, Long Island, but now are being dispatched to the new training station at Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., recently dedicated.

Hathaway is a former Los Angeles shipping man for six years, was an importer of cargo from India, Iran, Egypt and Mexico. He served on the foreign trade committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce while in business in that city.

Owner of the cabin cruiser Helen Louise, Hathaway joined the Coast Guard Auxiliary in Southern California and was in Coast Guard recruiting work in Los Angeles.

Approximately 1,800 apprentice seamen, engineers and stewards will be catered in the new training station at Avalon, Hathaway said. The training program will include instruction in gunnery and the newest life-saving methods, to reduce the loss of life among merchant mariners.

Pitch Pot Starts Fire at Air Base

SANTA ANA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The boiling water of a pitch pot, igniting insulation, was believed by marine authorities today to have caused the fire that destroyed a cold-storage building under construction at the El Tora marine air base near here. The loss was estimated at $70,000.

JAPANESE TO BUILD CHINESE JUNKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Indicating that Japan is beginning to feel the pinch of a shipping shortage as a result of war losses, the Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from Tokyo yesterday saying the Japanese shipyards were planning construction of a large number of Chinese junks for use in Asiatic waters.

"Two big Chinese junks which did valuable service in Manchukuo have been bought to Tokyo and will serve as models for the shipbuilders," the broadcaster declared.

"Notwithstanding their antique construction, these junks, so Japanese shipbuilders declared, corresponded to modern shipbuilding."

The Berlin broadcast emphasized that it took one to two months to build a junk, intimating that time was one factor which had influenced the Japanese in favor of this type of construction.

Observers here noted, however, that this statement reflects poorly on Japanese shipbuilding facilities, particularly in view of the speed with which large cargo carriers are being constructed and commissioned in the United States.

NEGRO SHIP MEN WILL HAVE UNION

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Negro workers at Henry J. Kaiser's Portland and Vancouver shipyards will be granted membership in a new local auxiliary of the Boilermakers' Union, American Federation of Labor affiliate, Tom Ray, union secretary, announced Thursday night.

The auxiliary will be under the jurisdiction of a new local to be established in Vancouver to accommodate workers in that area who have been required to come here on union business, Ray said.

Negro workers, imported by the yard last October, have been demanding union membership for many weeks. They asserted the union discriminated against them by denying them membership which was required before they could advance to journeyman status.

Ray also said that a plan has been developed to freeze workers in Columbia River area shipyards in their present unions. Under the plan they will not be permitted to transfer from one union to another.

B. C. Boilermakers Reject 7-Day Week

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 19.—The largest local union in Canada, the Boilermakers' and Iron Shipbuilders' organization, is the only Western union to vote down the seven-day work week in shipyards.

The majority against the seven-day week was only 133, and fewer than 4,000 ballots were returned, although the union has 15,000 members.

Before the war started, the Boilermakers' Union membership was only 150. Other shipyard unions have voted in favor of the seven-day work week.

U. S. Japanese Out to Avenge American Pals

LUBBOCK, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Staff Sgt. Bill Goto, believed to be the only Japanese glider student in the United States, is out to avenge the death of three Merino, Colo., high-school football teammates.

Goto, a winged commando at the South Plains Army Flying School, is Japanese but was born in this country. His home is in Merino, where his farmer-family has lived for 60 years.

Bill's teammates—whom he remembers as Pete, Fred and Gil—were killed on Bataan.

Goto played basketball and football at Merino and at Colorado State College. He also plays basketball here.

Bill believes that physical weakness of the Japanese—because of deficiencies in diet—lie behind the underdog, inferiority complex that makes them such savage fighters. Goto isn't worried about what would happen to him if the Japs should capture him.

"I don't think they will. Not all in one piece, anyway."

British Laborite, Author, Is Dead

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Charles Roden Buxton, 67 years old, treasurer of the Independent Labor Party from 1924 to 1927, and a labor member of Parliament from 1929 to 1931, died at his Surrey home Wednesday.

The author of a number of works on social and political questions, Buxton served from 1897 to 1898 as secretary to his father, the late Sir T. F. Buxton, who was governor of South Australia. In 1924 and 1930 he was delegate to the League of Nations Assembly.
