'Fort' Dives To Dodge Plunging Focke-Wulf 190

A UNITED STATES BOMBER STATION IN BRITAIN, July 9.—(AP)—Five miles up, crew members of the Flying Fortress Mason's Morons stood on their heads as the pilot, Lieut. Robert C. Mason of Buffalo, N. Y., suddenly dived the bomber straight down to avoid a crash with a Focke-Wulf 190, a running wild straight toward them at 400 miles an hour.

With its pilot apparently killed, the Focke-Wulf careened wildly about, out of control, as American bombers headed home from the attack on Kiel June 13, it was disclosed yesterday.

"I didn't see the Focke-Wulf until he was almost on top of us," related Mason. "I had to dive vertically to avoid a collision. He just barely missed us."

"As soon as we got out of formation, enemy fighters began closing on us from all directions like moths around an electric light. But my boys poured it to them. We got four Germans."

Despite the upside-down view of things, some of the Fortress' gunners clung to their triggers and kept blazing away. Even as the bomber plummeted swiftly downward 1,000 feet before Mason leveled her, the tail-gunner, Sergt. Robert Bickford, blasted a retorted enemy plane out of the sky.

Mason later maneuvered the bomber into another formation and returned to base. Crew members included Sergt. Richard Carter of Holley, Or., top-turret gunner.

Mine Pickets Defy U. S. Strike Probe

The Erie Coal Company, announcing the closing of its mine, said operations at its mines in Fayette County, which produce coking coal for steel mills, was down to 22 per cent.

Meanwhile, federal agents were in southwestern Pennsylvania and officials disclosed an investigation to determine if any unauthorized work stoppages are in violation of the recently enacted Connally-Smith Anti-Strike Law.

Charles F. Uhl, United States attorney, announced that a special grand jury session would be held next Wednesday to consider "matters of great importance" after he had talked yesterday with Attorney General Francis Biddle in Washington and Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

The government took over operation of the nation's mines on May 1, after the operators and the United Mine Workers failed to reach agreement on a new contract.

The Anti-Strike Law forbids any person "to coerce, instigate, induce, conspire with or encourage any person" to interfere with operation of property in the possession of the government.

The United States Steel Corporation announced its huge Clairton by-products works, 18 miles south of Pittsburgh, was slashing operations from 100 per cent to 80 per cent and that by Monday it might be cut to 50 per cent. It already has canceled the refining of four blast furnaces.

Lieut. Shepler, Artist, With Stark in 'Londo' LONDON, July 10.—Lieut. Dwight Shepler, Boston portrait painter and watercolorist, is now attached to Adm. Harold R. Stark's headquarters in London, charged with the task of recording on canvas American naval activity.

This is the first time any commissioned naval officer has been assigned to the European theatre of operations on such duty. Lieut. Shepler has had much practice mixing gunpowder with paint. Often during months on duty in the South Pacific, aboard American warships and with the marines in Guadalcanal, he had occasion to lay aside his brushes for implements better adapted to handling the Japs.

Purses Fatter Despite Pay Tax, Says W. L. B. Official

Even after the 20 per cent withholding deduction is made from paychecks this month, the average family will have more in its purse than before Pearl Harbor, John T. Dunlop, research and statistics director for the wage-stabilization division of the National War Labor Board said here yesterday.

Dunlop, with Edgar L. Warren, assistant wage stabilization director for the national board, is in Seattle for a two-day conference, part of a tour of the 12 regional boards in the country. Weekly earnings of manufacturing employes have increased 57 per cent since January 1, 1941—more than twice the increase in the cost of living, 24.1 per cent, Dunlop said.

These are national average figures, he said, and those for the Northwest area are a bit higher in both categories. Many householders have increased their earnings still more, since the average of wage earners for each family has risen.

More People Working But the major portion of these income-increases have come, not through wage-rate increases granted by the War Labor Board, but through other causes, all favorable from the point of view of war production, the national W. L. B. men pointed out. This increased purchasing power may largely be traced to the fact that more people are working, they are working longer hours, many have progressed from unskilled to skilled work carrying higher wage rates, and they are working overtime, they declared.

"There are two ways in which it is possible for wages to be inflationary," Dunlop explained. "One would be by directly increasing

'SUB' WAR NEWS TO BE CURBED

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—Great Britain and the United States announced today that losses of Allied and neutral merchant ships from submarine attacks in June were the lowest since the United States entered the war, and outlined a new procedure whereby only approved statements on the U-boat would be issued on the 10th of each month.

A statement issued at 10 Downing Street said President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were "concerned" at the number of statements being made publicly by persons and the press on the anti-submarine war, because "the enemy, by piecing together portions of these statements, may glean more information than is desirable about these affairs."

Berlin Reports Sinking 8 Ships Off Brazil LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press reported today that German submarines had sunk eight ships totaling 51,000 tons in attacks on Allied convoys in the Atlantic, mostly off the Brazilian coast.

As usual, the Germans failed to specify the period covered, making any comparison with Allied reports on convoy operations impossible.

There have been no recent reports from Allied sources, however, concerning any convoy battles off the Brazilian coast.

O. P. A. LETTUCE CEILING IS CUT

Reductions in the prices of lettuce and cabbage were ordered by the Office of Price Administration today, and the government price-control agency promised similar reductions soon on other fresh fruits and vegetables, including peas, snap beans, carrots, apples and pears, the Associated Press reported.

Although the O. P. A. said that today's order—effective July 20—will mean reductions of from 25 to 50 per cent in most parts of the country, it appeared it would have little immediate effect on cabbage and lettuce prices here.

Lettuce in Seattle now is selling generally for about 50 cents a pound, although an executive of one large produce organization said "it's altogether too cheap right now, everything considered." Cabbage locally is retailing for 5 cents in many markets, and produce men expressed the opinion that "normal market operations" could be expected to bring the price down to the O. P. A.'s level of 4 1/2 cents. Today's order stated that wholesalers of lettuce and cabbage cannot charge more than formula-set prices, computed largely on the average of prices charged last season. Retail prices, limited to percentages of wholesale prices, are to reflect wholesale levels automatically.

'Hut' Builders Forego Day Off To Aid Services

Workers of Pacific Huts will give up their regular day off tomorrow and donate their full day's wages to the American Legion's drive for phonograph records for military forces in the fighting zones.

American Legion officials said this is the first group of employees to make such a contribution, and the hope the example will be followed all over the nation.

The management of Pacific Huts is cooperating by paying the 700 employees double time, thus doubling the amount which will go for the entertainment of soldiers, sailors and marines.

"We have had a 100 per cent sign-up of employees who have volunteered to do this for our boys in uniform," said William H. McMahon, chairman of the record drive for the Pacific Huts' dads-and-vets committee.

In addition to donating their pay for the day, the employees also are putting on a drive for gifts of new and old phonograph records.

Congressman Warren G. Magnuson will be principal speaker at a rally at Pacific Huts workers during a mid-afternoon recess tomorrow.

BOMBED THEATRE YIELDS 12 DEAD

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—With the known dead already at 12, rescue workers continued today to dig feverishly in the ruins of a motion-picture theatre in a south-east coast town which was demolished by a German hit-run raider yesterday while hundreds of children were witnessing a cowboy film.

It was feared that additional victims—how many remained uncertain—were buried in the debris, but authorities had virtually abandoned hope that any would be brought out alive. Acoustic equipment employed by the rescue squads failed to detect any sounds coming from the wreckage which might indicate that there was any life beneath the heaps of debris.

Roof Collapsed Officials said that the roof of the building collapsed when a German plane flew low over the town and scored two direct hits on the theatre. Persons in the street and in nearby buildings were injured by flying glass and debris.

The plane dived upon the town through a heavy anti-aircraft barrage to drop its bombs, circle and then rake the streets and a nearby railroad station with machine-gun fire.

Children in the theatre were attending an after-school performance. A 13-year-old boy who was sitting in the front row escaped with minor injuries. He said that he ducked to the floor when he first saw a crack running along the ceiling of the theatre. Debris flew through the air after the second explosion and he managed to reach the door leading to the outside. He ducked back into the building when he heard machine-gun fire.

Sleeping Baby Killed The dead included a baby who was sleeping in a perambulator just outside the theatre. Her father, who had wheeled her to the cinema, also was killed.

A restaurant in the same building was full of customers at the time of the attack and although several persons were hurt by flying glass from a chandelier none was killed.

Throughout rescue operations the Royal Air Force spread an umbrella of planes over the town to prevent the return of enemy raiders.

Chinese to Be Moved From Japanese Camp

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(AP)—Federal immigration authorities decided on a simple solution to the problem of friction between Japanese and Chinese internees at the Sharp Park detention camp.

The Chinese will be transferred to other quarters.

Irving F. Wilson, district director of immigration, said yesterday that 17 Chinese seamen who demonstrated at the camp last Wednesday will be removed from the Alameda County jail as quickly as possible.

"I hope to make arrangements to place them in different quarters within a very few days," he said. "They will not be returned to Sharp Park."

The Chinese, all seamen who have deserted their ships here, and 172 Japanese internees engaged in a verbal tussle Wednesday at a rally. Judge Hoar set similar bail on Chimeres yesterday, over the protest of Shorett, who declared the man should not be permitted to be free.

"Great Persuasive Powers" "This man has great persuasive powers with women," said Shorett of the dark-eyed, curly-haired Chimeres, who gazed upon the proceedings without expression, except for a few quick smiles.

"I can't set a higher bail than that set in Superior Court," said Judge Hoar, "for after all, this is a branch of the Superior Court. I must follow the example of the other judge."

Chimeres, charged on three counts was bound over to Superior Court by Judge Hoar. The defendant is charged with placing a woman in a house of prostitution, living with a common prostitute and accepting the earnings of a prostitute. He pleaded innocent.

BAIL REDUCED IN VICE CHARGE CASE

Judge Calvin S. Hall, who twice has reduced bail on a defendant accused of taking the earnings of a prostitute, Justice William Hoar yesterday set $5,000 bond of George Chimeres, 30-year-old waiter and self-styled gambler, who faces similar charges.

Prosecutor Lloyd Shorett had recommended $20,000 bond in the case of Chimeres, the same amount he had recommended in the case of Roy L. Sheffield, 51, a Negro charged with accepting the earnings of prostitutes.

Judge Hall first set Sheffield's bond at $10,000 and later reduced it to $5,000. Using that as an example, Judge Hoar set similar bail on Chimeres yesterday, over the protest of Shorett, who declared the man should not be permitted to be free.

"Great Persuasive Powers" "This man has great persuasive powers with women," said Shorett of the dark-eyed, curly-haired Chimeres, who gazed upon the proceedings without expression, except for a few quick smiles.

"I can't set a higher bail than that set in Superior Court," said Judge Hoar, "for after all, this is a branch of the Superior Court. I must follow the example of the other judge."

Magnuson to See Alaska Highway

Congressman Warren G. Magnuson will inspect the Alaska Military Highway this month as the guest of Brig. Gen. James A. O'Connor, and will endeavor to ascertain the amount of road-building equipment along that great supply line.

"I am convinced that the road-building equipment used to construct the highway will never be brought back to the United States," Magnuson said. "It could be used, of course, in building the connecting link between the highway and Pacific Coast cities. It would be especially valuable, because it is unlikely that so much strategic material could be obtained during the war."

"The offer of Premier John Hart of British Columbia to expend $6,000,000 to construct a highway from Prince George to Watson Lake is refreshing. I am convinced that the United States government could be induced to contribute a similar amount."

"I expect to meet with the committee from British Columbia, Oregon and Washington in Seattle Thursday. At that time the representatives of the Pacific Northwest, both from British Columbia and the United States, will be able to compare notes and plan for the future."
