ARMY RELIEF DRIVE LAGGING

With only a week to go and only half the quota raised, the Seattle Chamber of Commerce special committee sponsoring the Army Emergency Relief Drive appealed to Seattle business firms today for pledges.

The Seattle quota is approximately $27,000. The committee today reported pledges amounting to $13,570, with a large number of the heavier donors in prospect yet to be heard from.

Tickets for the motion picture, "This Is the Army," to be shown at the Orpheum and Music Hall Theaters the night of Tuesday, August 17, will be allocated to donors on the basis of their subscriptions. The tickets will be available tomorrow at the Chamber, but the allocations are being withheld until pledges are forthcoming.

Ticket Demand Heavy

First consideration is to be given the pledges, the committee said. The entire proceeds of the first showing in Seattle will go to Army Emergency Relief.

Demand on the part of the public for tickets is heavy, but they are being held up until the pledges are given consideration.

The all-soldier musical has been heralded so widely that the theatre management is having difficulty refusing reservations until donors for Army Emergency Relief have been taken care of.

"Donors to the Army Emergency Relief have an opportunity to accomplish two things," said Philip G. Johnson, chairman of the chamber committee.

"First, they have the opportunity to perform a most humanitarian service by contributing to Army Emergency Relief; second, they have first chance to obtain tickets for the picture premiere. I urge immediate action because we must have the ticket allocation detail disposed of during the next two days."

Families Get Aid

Primary purpose of Army Emergency Relief, Johnson explained, is to extend assistance quickly to soldiers and their families. Every cent that goes into the fund, built up by contributions, membership in the organization, and from the proceeds of entertainments and benefits, goes to service men and their families.

Relief is granted in the form of money, by loan, by aid in obtaining fuel, medical and dental care, and hospitalization, and by assistance in obtaining pensions, compensation, insurance and allotments.

Soldiers may apply for assistance for themselves or their families.

"The organization is based on the principle that a soldier free from worry is a better fighting man," Johnson continued.

Loyal Japs to Be Free Soon, Says Visiting W. R. A. Chief

Release from relocation centers within the next few months of all "loyal" Japanese who wish to leave and can meet certain requirements, was forecast today by Dillon S. Myer of Washington, D. C., national director of the War Relocation Authority.

Visiting Seattle during a month's tour of the country in connection with the handling of Japanese real estate and property, Myer said that the increased granting of "seasonal" or "indefinite" leave from the centers would follow segregation of disloyal Japanese to the camp at Tule Lake, Calif.

The California center is expected to begin in September and continue through November.

Loyal Aid W. R. A.

In answer to one of the most persistent public questions—"Do loyal Japanese report suspicions of disloyalty among their fellows?"—Myer said that there have been hundreds of occasions on which loyal Japanese have assisted authorities in isolating disloyal elements within the centers themselves.

To gain their release, Myer said, the Japanese who are presumed to be loyal must prove that they have means of support; that the community they select will accept them. Authorities, furthermore, must be kept informed of their whereabouts.

Myer pointed out that only the War Department can decide whether or not the Japanese should be allowed to return to the coastal area. According to present military regulations, they cannot.

Myer estimated that approximately 15,000 men, women and children would be confined at Tule Lake.

He was unable to predict the number who would elect to leave the centers. None of the approximately 95,000 would be forced to leave, he said.

17,000 Free Now

"We granted 'seasonal' leave to 10,000 Japanese last fall for harvest work," Myer recalled. "At present there are perhaps 17,000 free on either 'seasonal' or 'indefinite' leave. We have not had a single instance of sabotage or subversive activity among these people."

Records of every Japanese held in a relocation center now are complete, Myer said. These records reveal the individual's training, history, visits to Japan, business, schooling and organizational relationships.

It is on the basis of these records, together with those accumulated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Naval Intelligence and Army Intelligence, that individuals are classified as loyal or disloyal.

"Neither I nor the F. B. I. can go on record as saying that anyone—Japanese or American—is 'absolutely' loyal," Myer declared. "But we do have such information as it is possible to get."

20,000 Never Confined

Tracing the course of the War Relocation Authority's work, Myer said that when the removal of Japanese from the coastal area was begun on a voluntary basis, it was not felt that the Japanese were dangerous.

"Moreover, most people do not realize that there are some 20,000 Japanese in inland areas who never have been confined in the relocation centers," he added.

"We feel that the manpower is more valuable outside the centers than in," Myer continued. "The centers, also, are not a good place in which to carry on an Americanization program. I believe,

HOOVER WARNS OF CIVIL STRESS

DILLON S. MYER
"Not one instance of sabotage"

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Federal Bureau of Investigation Chief J. Edgar Hoover expressed satisfaction today that law enforcement "has been able to keep the home front secure" despite wartime handicaps but warned that "dangerous days lie ahead."

Without specifically mentioning Detroit's race riots of June 21, Hoover said that a problem "rapidly reaching flood-tide proportions" involved "civil violence, race riots and insidious campaigns against minority groups." He made his remarks in a speech prepared for the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

National Disgrace, Says Hoover

"It is a national disgrace and a reflection upon all Americans," Hoover said, "that altercations between individuals can touch off community-wide conflagrations which are often seized upon by teen-age hoodlums of both sexes to indulge in depredations of all kinds against property and persons. . . ."

"The real trouble causing these public outbreaks lies underneath, and we of law enforcement have a right to expect that the situation be recognized and corrected by these civic forces directly charged with such responsibilities."

Police Changes Mentioned

Hoover said that at a time when law-enforcement agencies were taxed more than ever the turnover in police personnel had assumed "alarming proportions," as high as 60 per cent in some cities, and that the "danger point" had been reached.

Hoover called for "some real understanding and appreciation" of the problem "if the internal security of this country is not to be imperiled."

The State Patrol today warned the sheriff's department to be on the lookout in the Riverton district for a "dangerous" inmate of the Northern State Hospital at Sedro Woolley, who escaped yesterday after eluding guards. His parents reside in the Riverton district.

Searchers were warned to approach him with caution because of his violent nature.

The fugitive probably is wearing a soldier's uniform or plain work clothes. He is 27 years old, 5 feet 7 1/2 inches tall, and has blue eyes, brown hair and medium complexion.

Answers to Your Questions About the Shortage of Whiskey

YOU: First off, why is there a shortage?
US: Exactly. And believe us, we're sincerely sorry. We're doing our level best to allot our reserves as fairly as we know how—so everyone will get a fair share.

YOU: Have you raised the price of your whiskeys because of the shortage?
US: No. We are still offering the same brands at the same prices. There has been no price increase except for Government taxes. And, incidentally, the sum total of taxes for the entire distilling industry amount to more than one billion dollars a year to Federal and State Governments.

YOU: Well, I guess I understand the situation now. But what's the story on this "war alcohol" you spoke of?
US: That's explained in the pictures and text below. Let's take a look, shall we?

NOT ONE DROP OF WHISKEY IS BEING DISTILLED IN THE U. S. TODAY. HERE'S WHY. . .

Rubber for Victory—Alcohol, produced in tremendous quantities by U. S. distillers, is used as a base for synthetic rubber for tires, gas masks, paratroop equipment, and countless other war materials.

For Saving the Lives of Americans all over the globe, vast quantities of medicines and medical supplies are needed. In their production, the alcohol provided by U. S. distillers plays a vital part.

Can Enemy Eyes Spot It? The art of camouflage has been developed to a high degree by American technicians. Alcohol forms the base for the materials used in camouflaging military equipment.
