And for as long as you can possibly stay! That's why Dad and I want you to fly home, dear.

The moment you know when your furlough will start, check with the airlines. We know that men in the service will be given every aid. Be sure to inquire about any priority you can get. Then—make your reservation early. Every minute counts, so even if your furlough starts three weeks from now, dash to the airlines ticket office today and make reservations both ways. Or we can place the order from here if you write us right away.
The above is an order— from your most affectionate commander—
